Rescuers Make Contact With Third Buried Miner

Six-Inch Shaft Reaches Area; Condition Good

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Contact was made Tuesday night with the third missing miner trapped since last Tuesday in a cave-in. He was reported alive and in good condition.

A six-inch shaft drilled 327 feet through rock and coal reached the area where Louis Bova has been trapped. No word had been heard from him since Monday morning when two other miners trapped nearby reported losing contact with him.

The other miners, David Fellin and Henry Throne, are communicating with the surface through a similar six-inch shaft.

Escape Hole Being Drilled

Gordon Smith, assistant state secretary of mines, reported making the contact with Bova Tuesday night. He was talking to Fellin over a telephone and said Fellin reported hearing Bova's voice. Smith said Fellin called to Bova and told him to rap three times if he was all right.

Fellin said he heard the three raps.

The six-inch hole was the third one attempted to reach Bova, 42.

Near it rescue workers kept at the tedious job of drilling an escape hole through hard rock 331 feet down to Fellin, 58, and Throne, 28.

Fellin earlier had told his weeping wife, Anna, "I'm all right, but cold."

The three men were trapped by a rock slide on Tuesday, Aug. 13. They were all but given up for dead before a drill cut a six-inch hole to the chamber holding Throne and Fellin just before midnight Sunday.

Food, Medicine Sent Down

All drilling stopped about 5 p.m. when Fellin told the men on the surface he had about 150 feet of string "all balled up."

Rescue workers started pulling up the string, used to lower food and supplies, but it snagged.

Drilling resumed about an hour and one-half later.

This six-inch hole has become a lifeline, enabling food and medicine to be sent down. It is used also for communicating with the men.

The escape hole—which eventually will be two feet in diameter—is being cut by a 40-ton electrically operated drilling rig capable of cutting a 48-inch diameter hole in solid rock.

At one point, the drill's engine failed, but a replacement part was rushed in. It amounted to a delay of about half an hour, when the bit was 165 feet down.

Debt Limit Bill Sent To Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action Tuesday on legislation continuing the $309-billion ceiling on the national debt until Nov. 30, when it may be boosted higher.

Senate passage by a 57-31 vote sent the bill to the White House for signature.

The measure drew some caustic criticism of Kennedy administration spending policies from its foes, and a protest by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that such short-term ceilings on the national debt were an "irresponsible way" to manage finances.

Cuba Bolsters Coast In Wake Of Shelling

HAVANA (AP)—Castro government tanks, troops and anti-aircraft weapons moved Tuesday toward Cuba's long North Coast after hit-and-run raiders were reported to have shelled and machine-gunned a metal plant Monday. It was the third reported raid on Cuban industrial installations in four days.

There was no official explanation of the troops and weapons movement under way since Sunday, but Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government said the latest raid proved there is a new plan of aggression against Cuba and said the country is taking up measures to assure its defense.

There was no expert estimate of the number of men and weapons involved in the armed forces movement seen by persons traveling along roads to the sparsely defended North Coast. Probable aim of the shift was to reinforce refineries and factories in the North Coast area.

Tension heightened on the Communist island when raiders fired bazooka shells and .30 caliber machine gun bullets from two small boats to damage tanks and pipelines at the metal plant in western Cuba.

Castro's government issued a communique accusing the United States of direct responsibility for the attack, but a spokesman for a Cuban exile group called "Mambises Commandos" told newsmen in Guatemala City his organization carried out the metal plant raid.

Rafael Martinez said the commandos operated from secret bases in the Caribbean and in Cuba. He also claimed they carried out an air attack Sunday on oil installations at Casilda and planned further attacks.

50 Reported Killed In Mosque Collapse

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — At least 50 persons, most of them women and children, were killed and about 100 others injured Tuesday night when a mosque in the Indian town of Yeotmal collapsed as they were praying, an official report said.

Rescue teams probed the disaster site, about 450 miles east of Bombay.

Europe-Wide Search On For 10, Half Of Train Loot

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard sparked a Europe-wide hunt Tuesday for 10 men on the run with possibly $280,000 each in their pockets.

This represents about half the loot still missing from the record $7-million mail train robbery staged 13 days ago at Cheddington.

Underworld sources were reported to have told police that these 10 "wheelhorses" of the massive crime fanned out with their booty—over the British Isles, to the Continent.

Scotland Yard said a trailer found Monday night near Dorking contained enough clues to indicate it might have been a temporary headquarters for the gang. The trailer was abandoned.

Speaking up also was the first person likely to gain a slice of the rich rewards offered for recovery of loot. Ethel Clark said she aims to give most of it to charity because it only cost her a six-cent telephone call to give police her tip.

Mrs. Clark, 68, policeman's widow from Bournemouth, gave the tip last week which led police to catch their first two suspects and recover $394,800. She probably would be given 10 per cent of that amount.

Wirtz Offers New Formula In Rail Crisis

Proposals Outlined To Senate Group Kept Confidential

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz made new proposals Tuesday night to try to clinch an arbitration agreement that would settle the strike-threatening railroad work rules dispute.

The first hint of the new proposals came when President Kennedy told his news conference that members of the Senate Commerce Committee would meet with Wirtz and representatives of the railroad unions and management Wednesday, "with a proposal for settlement of the dispute."

"Then we will have a better idea, if this proposal is accepted by both of the parties, or one of the parites," Kennedy said.

Legislation Held Up

"If it is not accepted by the parties, then the Senate Commerce Committee must make a judgment as to whether they will accept the legislative proposals that we sent up, or some proposal of their own," the President said.

He referred to the administration's plan to submit the four-year old dispute to the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC).

Sen. Hugh D. Scott, R-Pa., a member of the Commerce Committee, said Wirtz had outlined his proposals to the committee but asked members to keep details confidential.

Sources close to the committee indicated that the selection of a group to confer with Wirtz and labor and management representatives, in effect, constituted an endorsement of the new porposals.

Strike Threatens Aug. 28

Wirtz was attempting to eliminate differences between the union and management spokesmen over the proposed arbitration agreement and methods of handling secondary issues in the tangled controversy.

He acted as time grew short to prevent a nationwide rail strike, threatened for Aug. 29, unless a settlement is reached.

One of the unsettled issues is whether bargaining on the so-called minor matters should come before or after arbitration of the two key disputes—employment of firemen on diesel locomotives and train crew sizes.

The five unions conditionally agreed to submit these two matters to a board of arbitration and management accepted without any reservations.

Valachi Talks To McClellan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mobster Joseph Valachi has been questioned by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and has provided the Senate Investigations subcommittee with many potential leads in exposing crime.

McClellan, subcommittee chairman, confirmed this Tuesday, saying he and a group of aides talked with Valachi for more than two hours Sunday at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., where Valachi is being held under heavy guard.

"He can become a most valuable witness," McClellan said, and then spoke of the leads Valachi presented that must now be checked out.

Valachi, who has been giving the FBI detailed information on the "Cosa Nostra" crime syndicate for more than a year, is scheduled to appear before McClellan's subcommittee about mid-September.

McClellan said he found Valachi "generally willing to talk," but declined any detailed report on what he had learned.

Israeli, Syrian Fighters Clash

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israeli jet fighters apparently shot down a Syrian jet in a dogfight over Israel Tuesday while Israeli and Syrian troops engaged in a number of clashes along the border. Israel said the situation was "extra grave."

A military spokesman said Israeli fighters intercepted Syrian planes inside Israel and that one of the Syrian planes was seen diving with parts splintering away. (Damascus Radio said one Israeli plane was shot down.)

Israel announced it was asking for an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council to halt Syrian "aggression" before the tension border situation flared into renewed war between Israel and its Arab neighbors. A council session was expected Thursday or Friday.

Dr. Hail Yahil, director general of the Foreign Ministry, said said the situation had deteriorated gravely in the past few hours with the killing of two Israeli soldier-settlers and called the situation "extra grave."

"If the Syrian acts are unchecked there will be a dangerous situation," he said. He said the killings took place on undisputed Israeli territory.

JFK Considers Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is considering a trip this year to look at the nation's conservation program, White House Press Secretary Salinger said Tuesday.

But Salinger said he did not know where or when the trip would be made.

Rights Blowup Threat Erased By Governors

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (UPI) — The Southern Governors Conference eliminated the possibility of even a limited fight over the civil rights issue Tuesday by voting to give each member what amounts to veto power over conference resolutions.

Approved by a 12-0 vote was a rule providing that no resolution can be adopted by the conference except by unanimous vote. The change was proposed by Gov. Donald S. Russell of South Carolina, seconded by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, and approved without debate.

One effect of the unanimity rule was to avoid embarrassment for Wallace, most outspoken segregationist among the Dixie governors.

He went ahead and submitted four anti-civil rights resolutions but was obviously resigned to seeing them die in committee.

The resolutions would have been killed in any case, but the rules change made a fight over them unnecessary and pointless. The old rule had required a three-fourths vote for adoption of resolutions.

Wallace's proposals would have put the 17-state conference on record as opposing President Kennedy's civil rights program, the Aug. 28 civil rights march on Washington and use of federal troops in any state unless requested by state officials. The fourth protested Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's anti-segregation directives.

Wallace came to the conference Sunday openly prepared to fight for the resolutions on the floor. But Chairman Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas quickly made it plain that he sided with the conference majority.

Walters Named Tenn. Senator

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Herbert S. Walters, self-made east Tennessee millionaire, was named to the U. S. Senate Tuesday to succeed the late Estes Kefauver who died Aug. 10.

Walters, little known to the public but a political power in this state for over a quarter-century, immediately endorsed the limited nuclear test ban treaty and the Kennedy administration's proposals for a tax cut.

He sidestepped questions on the President's civil rights legislation, saying he hadn't had an opportunity to study it.

In contrast to Kefauver's espousal of liberal causes and investigation of monopolies, Walters is expected to reflect the conservative businessman's approach.

"He is not given to extreme positions," his hometown newspaper, the Morristown Gazette & Mail, said editorially.

The appointment of the 71-year-old Democratic national committeeman was announced by Gov. Frank Clement at a special news conference. It had been generally expected.

President Disputes Dr. Teller's Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller testified Tuesday he fears the limited nuclear test ban treaty will prevent U.S. perfection of a missile killer, a weapon with which he said Russia has made more progress.

This brought from President Kennedy at his news conference a sharp retort that experts "with comparable experience" disagree with Teller, key physicist in perfecting the hydrogen bomb.

Kennedy characterized as not valid a Teller charge that the administration held down testing in the atmosphere for political reasons, based on a belief that the public would not tolerate more tests.

The President also said, in response to questions about Senate hearings on the treaty, that he does not know what prompted concern in Congress that safeguards promised in connection with the pact would not be imposed. He said:

"We appreciate the concern of the members of Congress, but this matter is of concern to us also and I can assure them we will do the job."

Teller explained his vigorous opposition to the treaty — which would ban all except underground nuclear testing — before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The University of California physicist, an Air Force adviser, acknowledged under questioning that he formerly advocated the ban on atmospheric testing that the treaty calls for. But he said "I changed my mind" upon becoming convinced of Soviet progress toward development of an antimissile defense.

The Hungarian-born scientist told the 6½-hour hearing that not only does he believe Russia is ahead of this country with a missile killer but has more of a civil defense system.

That, he said, is why Soviet Premier Khrushchev wants the United States to join in the limited test ban treaty — to prevent this country from getting the knowledge he has.

He has disagreed with testimony by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that development of the antimissile does not depend on atmospheric testing since the nuclear warhead is not the problem.

"Indeed we can do a lot in this development without atmospheric testing," Teller said, "but we can't bring it to a reliable conclusion without atmospheric testing. . . . Whatever we develop will be uncertain and imperfect."

Teller called Pentagon estimates of U.S. weapons superiority over Russia "undue exaggeration." He said information on Soviet tests "is very limited." He questioned how Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara could say with certainty that Russia is no further advanced than this country with the missile killer.

For the Senate to ratify the treaty, Teller said, would be "a tragic and dreadful mistake" which could destroy the United States. He described the treaty as "not a step for peace but rather a step away from safety, possibly a step toward war."

100 Buddhist Monks Seized In Pagoda Raid

By NEIL SHEEHAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (UPI)—Soldiers and policemen fired pistol shots and threw tear gas grenades Tuesday into the big Buddhist Xa Loi pagoda. More than 100 Buddhist monks who had been demonstrating there against the government were arrested.

Troops also raided three other pagodas in Saigon in the latest, most serious, flare-up of violence in the three-month-old religious-political dispute between the Buddhist majority in South Viet Nam and the government of Ngo Dinh Diem, Roman Catholic president.

It was not determined whether there were any deaths or injuries in the pagoda raids.

The violence occurred 24 hours after it was learned that Vietnamese military chiefs have been warned by Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, that the government faces an inevitable coup d'etat.

This correspondent learned that the 52-year-old Nhu, husband of the beautiful and politically-powerful Mme. Nhu, ordered military leaders to destroy Saigon and retreat with loyal forces to a prepared stronghold outside the city when the coup takes place.

The orders were issued by Nhu last Friday at a secret meeting of 30 generals and ranking colonels. Nhu is his brother's closest adviser.

Some sources believe Nhu feels that his brother has been too soft with the Buddhists. Mme. Nhu, a Catholic convert from Buddhism, has said that she has no sympathy with Buddhists who "barbecue" themselves in fiery immolations. Five such suicides have occurred.

President Appeals For Aid, Tax Cut, Rights Programs

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy repeated assurances Tuesday that no secret side deals figured in the limited nuclear test ban agreement with Russia.

Kennedy said also that all the major safeguards the military chiefs of staff want built around the test ban pact are being met with current action or additional proposals for action.

The Johnston Island test site in the Pacific is being prepared for resumption of tests, if need be, he said.

At a news conference that swung over the usual wide assortment of topics, Kennedy got in strong bids for congressional approval of a $4.1-billion foreign aid program without additional cuts and for passage of his civil rights and tax cut programs before the year runs out.

He said too, that:

—He may be having considerable to say about the "radical right" in the presidential campaign next year. But right now he isn't saying anything about what a newsman described as charges that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a top possibility for the Republican presidential nomination, "could become a captive of the radical right."

Rail Showdown Near

—It should be known Wednesday morning whether there will be a continued impasse or a negotiated settlement of the strike-threatening rail dispute.

—Intelligence reports indicate a continued decline in the number of Russian troops in Cuba in the last 2½ months, but it is impossible to estimate how many are left. Kennedy said Soviet troops still are on the island and this is a matter of concern to the United States, even though they are largely in training roles.

— The state of the national economy is good — slightly better than was estimated last January.

—It would be a mistake to assign job quotas on a basis of race, and he doesn't think it is the generally held view of the Negro community that the Negro is entitled to some kind of special compensation for what a reporter called "the pain of second-class citizenship over these many decades."

Kennedy teed off the news conference with a statement on behalf of holding the line against cuts in the foreign aid authorization bill now up for debate in the House.

Program "Essential"

He said the program is "essential to the continued strength of the free world," that "this is no time to slacken our efforts," that "no party or group should call for a dynamic foreign policy and then seek to cripple this program."

In the give and take of questions and answers, Kennedy was reminded that Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., had demanded that the administration "reveal whatever side agreement was concluded in Moscow" in respect to the treaty banning all nuclear tests except those under ground.

Hosmer said Monday that "there must have been a side agreement in Moscow as to what the meaning of this treaty is."

Asked whether he could present any proof positive on the matter, Kennedy replied:

"No, I cannot. There is nothing I can say other than to say it is not so."

The first question at the news conference was what the President had to say about some feeling in Congress that perhaps the safeguards desired by the mili-

Khrushchev, Tito Meet With Bear Hug, Kisses

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—While the Red Chinese glared in the background, a beaming Soviet Premier Khrushchev arrived Tuesday in Yugoslavia and, with cries of friendship and greeting, bounced into the arms of President Tito.

The Soviet premier and the Yugoslav president, often bitter enemies in the past, embraced in a friendly bear hug when they met at the airport. They exchanged kisses on the cheeks.

Tito and Khrushchev voiced expressions of mutual admiration, ever closer friendship between their countries and support for the policy of coexistence.

Each phrase was a fresh jab at the Peking Communists who regard coexistence as a sellout, Tito as a traitor to true Marxism, and Khrushchev as his collaborator.

The Chinese quickly got in their own insult to both of them. The Peking Embassy in Belgrade sent only a second secretary to the airport for Khrushchev's arrival in place of a top diplomat.

Yugoslavs by the thousands lined Belgrade streets to shout greetings as the two leaders motored in from the airport.

The trip has been billed as a vacation with some work thrown in, but Khrushchev told newsmen, "I don't think I'll get much rest."

It was quite different on his two other visits to Yugoslavia in 1955 and 1956. On those trips he came to patch up differences between the countries. His receptions were strained and chilly.

There was no official explanation of the troops and weapons movement under way since Sunday, but Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government said the latest raid proved there is a new plan of aggression against Cuba and said the country is taking up measures to assure its defense.

There was no expert estimate of the number of men and weapons involved in the armed forces movement seen by persons traveling along roads to the sparsely defended North Coast. Probable aim of the shift was to reinforce refineries and factories in the North Coast area.

Tension heightened on the Communist island when raiders fired bazooka shells and .30 caliber machine gun bullets from two small boats to damage tanks and pipelines at the metal plant in western Cuba.

Castro's government issued a communique accusing the United States of direct responsibility for the attack, but a spokesman for a Cuban exile group called "Mambises Commandos" told newsmen in Guatemala City his organization carried out the metal plant raid.

Rafael Martinez said the commandos operated from secret bases in the Caribbean and in Cuba. He also claimed they carried out an air attack Sunday on oil installations at Casilda and planned further attacks.

Valachi Talks To McClellan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mobster Joseph Valachi has been questioned by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and has provided the Senate Investigations subcommittee with many potential leads in exposing crime.

McClellan, subcommittee chairman, confirmed this Tuesday, saying he and a group of aides talked with Valachi for more than two hours Sunday at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., where Valachi is being held under heavy guard.

"He can become a most valuable witness," McClellan said, and then spoke of the leads Valachi presented that must now be checked out.

Valachi, who has been giving the FBI detailed information on the "Cosa Nostra" crime syndicate for more than a year, is scheduled to appear before McClellan's subcommittee about mid-September.

McClellan said he found Valachi "generally willing to talk," but declined any detailed report on what he had learned.

By NEIL SHEEHAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (UPI)—Soldiers and policemen fired pistol shots and threw tear gas grenades Tuesday into the big Buddhist Xa Loi pagoda. More than 100 Buddhist monks who had been demonstrating there against the government were arrested.

Troops also raided three other pagodas in Saigon in the latest, most serious, flare-up of violence in the three-month-old religious-political dispute between the Buddhist majority in South Viet Nam and the government of Ngo Dinh Diem, Roman Catholic president.

It was not determined whether there were any deaths or injuries in the pagoda raids.

The violence occurred 24 hours after it was learned that Vietnamese military chiefs have been warned by Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, that the government faces an inevitable coup d'etat.

This correspondent learned that the 52-year-old Nhu, husband of the beautiful and politically-powerful Mme. Nhu, ordered military leaders to destroy Saigon and retreat with loyal forces to a prepared stronghold outside the city when the coup takes place.

The orders were issued by Nhu last Friday at a secret meeting of 30 generals and ranking colonels. Nhu is his brother's closest adviser.

Some sources believe Nhu feels that his brother has been too soft with the Buddhists. Mme. Nhu, a Catholic convert from Buddhism, has said that she has no sympathy with Buddhists who "barbecue" themselves in fiery immolations. Five such suicides have occurred.

Debt Limit Bill Sent To Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action Tuesday on legislation continuing the $309-billion ceiling on the national debt until Nov. 30, when it may be boosted higher.

Senate passage by a 57-31 vote sent the bill to the White House for signature.

The measure drew some caustic criticism of Kennedy administration spending policies from its foes, and a protest by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that such short-term ceilings on the national debt were an "irresponsible way" to manage finances.

50 Reported Killed In Mosque Collapse

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — At least 50 persons, most of them women and children, were killed and about 100 others injured Tuesday night when a mosque in the Indian town of Yeotmal collapsed as they were praying, an official report said.

Rescue teams probed the disaster site, about 450 miles east of Bombay.

Israeli, Syrian Fighters Clash

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — Israeli jet fighters apparently shot down a Syrian jet in a dogfight over Israel Tuesday while Israeli and Syrian troops engaged in a number of clashes along the border. Israel said the situation was "extra grave."

A military spokesman said Israeli fighters intercepted Syrian planes inside Israel and that one of the Syrian planes was seen diving with parts splintering away. (Damascus Radio said one Israeli plane was shot down.)

Israel announced it was asking for an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council to halt Syrian "aggression" before the tension border situation flared into renewed war between Israel and its Arab neighbors. A council session was expected Thursday or Friday.

Dr. Hail Yahil, director general of the Foreign Ministry, said said the situation had deteriorated gravely in the past few hours with the killing of two Israeli soldier-settlers and called the situation "extra grave."

"If the Syrian acts are unchecked there will be a dangerous situation," he said. He said the killings took place on undisputed Israeli territory.

Walters Named Tenn. Senator

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Herbert S. Walters, self-made east Tennessee millionaire, was named to the U. S. Senate Tuesday to succeed the late Estes Kefauver who died Aug. 10.

Walters, little known to the public but a political power in this state for over a quarter-century, immediately endorsed the limited nuclear test ban treaty and the Kennedy administration's proposals for a tax cut.

He sidestepped questions on the President's civil rights legislation, saying he hadn't had an opportunity to study it.

In contrast to Kefauver's espousal of liberal causes and investigation of monopolies, Walters is expected to reflect the conservative businessman's approach.

"He is not given to extreme positions," his hometown newspaper, the Morristown Gazette & Mail, said editorially.

The appointment of the 71-year-old Democratic national committeeman was announced by Gov. Frank Clement at a special news conference. It had been generally expected.

JFK Considers Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is considering a trip this year to look at the nation's conservation program, White House Press Secretary Salinger said Tuesday.

But Salinger said he did not know where or when the trip would be made.

37 Cubans Picked Up

MIAMI (UPI) — The Coast Guard said Tuesday a cutter had picked up 37 Cuban refugees near Anguila Cay at the southern tip of the Bahamas, the spot where 19 other refugees were captured last week by Fidel Castro's men.

Europe-Wide Search On For 10, Half Of Train Loot

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard sparked a Europe-wide hunt Tuesday for 10 men on the run with possibly $280,000 each in their pockets.

This represents about half the loot still missing from the record $7-million mail train robbery staged 13 days ago at Cheddington.

Underworld sources were reported to have told police that these 10 "wheelhorses" of the massive crime fanned out with their booty—over the British Isles, to the Continent.

Scotland Yard said a trailer found Monday night near Dorking contained enough clues to indicate it might have been a temporary headquarters for the gang. The trailer was abandoned.

Speaking up also was the first person likely to gain a slice of the rich rewards offered for recovery of loot. Ethel Clark said she aims to give most of it to charity because it only cost her a six-cent telephone call to give police her tip.

Mrs. Clark, 68, policeman's widow from Bournemouth, gave the tip last week which led police to catch their first two suspects and recover $394,800. She probably would be given 10 per cent of that amount.

Khrushchev, Tito Meet With Bear Hug, Kisses

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—While the Red Chinese glared in the background, a beaming Soviet Premier Khrushchev arrived Tuesday in Yugoslavia and, with cries of friendship and greeting, bounced into the arms of President Tito.

The Soviet premier and the Yugoslav president, often bitter enemies in the past, embraced in a friendly bear hug when they met at the airport. They exchanged kisses on the cheeks.

Tito and Khrushchev voiced expressions of mutual admiration, ever closer friendship between their countries and support for the policy of coexistence.

Each phrase was a fresh jab at the Peking Communists who regard coexistence as a sellout, Tito as a traitor to true Marxism, and Khrushchev as his collaborator.

The Chinese quickly got in their own insult to both of them. The Peking Embassy in Belgrade sent only a second secretary to the airport for Khrushchev's arrival in place of a top diplomat.

Yugoslavs by the thousands lined Belgrade streets to shout greetings as the two leaders motored in from the airport.

The trip has been billed as a vacation with some work thrown in, but Khrushchev told newsmen, "I don't think I'll get much rest."

It was quite different on his two other visits to Yugoslavia in 1955 and 1956. On those trips he came to patch up differences between the countries. His receptions were strained and chilly.

Korean Reds Stalk Out Of Meeting After Blast

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—North Korean officers hurled a barrage of charges against the United Nations Command at a meeting Tuesday of the Military Armistice Commission and finally stalked out before U.S. Marine Gen. George H. Cloud could finish his closing statement.

Communist guards and Communist newsmen peering into the room through open windows laughed at the abrupt closing of a largely fruitless session of five hours and 17 minutes.

The only solid development was a U.N. offer and North Korean agreement for return to the Communist side here Wednesday of a North Korean officer captured south of the demilitarized zone last fall.

Maj. Gen. Chang Chung-hwan of North Korea again refused to discuss the case of two U.S. helicopter pilots—Capt. Ben W. Stutts of Florence, Ala., and Charleton W. Voltz of Frankfort, Mich.—whose craft was forced down May 17 in North Korea.

Chang said the Communist reply had been given in earlier commission meetings. The Reds have called the pilots criminals and said North Korea will decide their fate. The U.S. Army said the two strayed over the border inadvertently and were shot down.

The Communists called the 177th meeting of the commission and there had been speculation that they might make some major propaganda move in connection with recent incidents in the demilitarized zone or in the case of the two helicopter pilots.

The Communist evidence, as placed on the conference table, consisted of a carbine, clips, ammunition, expanded shell cases and photographs.

The Communists refused to give an explanation of the ambush of an American jeep July 29 in which two U.S. soldiers were killed and a third wounded. Chang called the incident a farce, fabricated by the U.N. Command.

He brushed off seven U.N. charges that North Korean troops had infiltrated south of the demilitarized zone and attacked.

Racial Protest Brings Arrest Of 44 Negroes

PLAQUEMINE, La. (UPI) — Police swooped down on Negro demonstrators sitting in doorways of segregated cafeterias Tuesday, arresting 44 and hauling off bodily those who refused to move.

The 12-man city police force, Iberville Parish (county) sheriff's deputies and helmeted state police set up a central command post at a police station in front of city hall in anticipation of more and bigger demonstrators in the city of 10,000.

Four mounted state troopers carried electric cattle prods, civil defense workers were armed with clubs, and firemen brought hoses to city hall. A mass march Monday night resulted in 17 arrests and the use of tear gas.

Another mass night march was reported in the making after Negroes said the town "apparently wants war" in the dispute over employment opportunities and civil rights for Negroes.

Police picked up 33 adults and 11 juveniles Tuesday in the doorways of three cafeterias and brought them to jails in surrounding communities. All were charged with disturbing the peace and eight of the adults were additionally charged with unlawful gathering.

The industrial community of 10,000 some 13 miles southwest of Baton Rouge "apparently wants war," declared Gordon Carey, program director for CORE.

He vowed more demonstrations to win Negro demands for a bi-racial committee to lessen segregation and inclusion of two Negro communities in the Plaquemine city limits.

"I don't know where that feeling would arise," Kennedy said.

He said four safeguards mentioned by the Joint Chiefs of Staff also were mentioned in a speech he himself delivered earlier. And a letter is going to Congress, he said, "and we are going to describe in detail what steps we are going to take to implement the four safeguards."

He knows of no reason why anyone should think the safeguards will not be fully maintained, he said, adding that on the first safeguard, maintaining laboratories, he has already consulted with scientists.

Secondly, he said, comes the preparation to resume testing if the agreement is broken. Johnston Island, the Pacific testing site, has been prepared, he said, and $22 million allocated for the purpose.

Third was a vigorous season of underground tests. Some 97 of these have been conducted in two years, he said, and more will be.

The fourth safeguard was improving methods of detecting. "On that we have additional recommendations to make, which will be endorsed, I think, by the Joint Chiefs of Staff," he said.

Appalachian Economic Talks Set Next Month

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Governors' staff members from nine states will hold their first working conference next month in Washington toward setting up a program to boost the economy of the Appalachian area.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., undersecretary of commerce and head of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission, said the session will be held about mid-September.

Roosevelt made a progress report Monday night on what has been done to date. The program of action will be planned in cooperation with West Virginia, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee and Alabama.

Some of the Appalachian governors are here attending the Southern Governors Conference and Roosevelt met with four of them — Govs. W. W. Barron of West Virginia, Carl Sanders of Georgia, Terry Sanford of North Carolina and Bert T. Combs of Kentucky.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland is not attending the conference. He is represented by Edmund C. Mester, an executive assistant.

Tawes aides said he decided late last week not to attend the conference because of other business in Maryland.

Roosevelt said the commission now has separate teams working in six different subject matter areas which will be covered in the program to be presented to the President. The teams are working on transportation, water resources, physical resources, human resources, future organization and financing.

Scheduled for Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 are meetings in Washington to work on the draft of the report to be submitted to Kennedy. Roosevelt said if the report is finished in time, he hopes a final meeting can be held in December to make the presentation.

Barron previously suggested setting up an Appalachian Institute for research and development studies. Roosevelt said he would assign one man to work on this phase of the program.

Integration Foe Will Get Police Guard

BALTIMORE (AP)—A spokesman for Gov. Tawes said Tuesday a Prince Georges County restaurant owner, who has refused to serve Negroes, will be given police protection during the civil rights march on Washington next week.

Charles E. Miller, owner of a Brandeywine restaurant, will be provided with county or State Police to guard his property and family next Tuesday through Friday, the spokesman said.

Miller was found guilty of violating the state's public accommodations law Aug. 13 by the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations and served with a cease and desist order last Monday. His wife, however, tossed the order out the door.

Miller requested Gov. Tawes to provide National Guard troops to protect his property and family from damage "since it is due to adverse publicity emanating from an illegal and unconstitutional state agency that I find myself in this position."

Miller said he had received threatening telephone calls.

The march on Washington is scheduled for next Wednesday. Miller's restaurant is 11 miles from Washington on U.S. 301.

The governor's spokesman said National Guard troops would not be provided.

"For Sale" Sign On 900-Foot Road

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government has a paved road it wants to sell.

The 900-foot-long road was built to connect U.S. 1 with an entrance to the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center.

The government tried, without luck, to give it to Prince Georges County.

"It doesn't go anywhere as far as the county is concerned," explained Gene Nunnally, chief of real property for the General Services Administration.

The road has been declared surplus to government needs — but it is used for two trailer courts situated on either side. A government official explained that the road, known as Yuma Street or Sellman Farm Access Road, can't be offered on a priority basis to the courts. It must be advertised for public sale.

The road will be sold to the highest bidder on Sept. 20 after sealed bids are opened.

Rescue Completed

VANNES, France (UPI) — French and American rescue services Tuesday picked up from the sea the last of four U.S. Navy fliers whose four A4D Skyhawk jet attack-bombers crashed or made forced landings in fog Monday while flying from the carrier U.S.S. Independence.

Desegregation Of Big Housing Unit Due Soon

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The Parkfairfax apartment development, which announced a desegregation policy Aug. 11, expects its first Negro tenant Sept. 1.

Albert Parker, resident manager of the 1,690-unit development, said the tenant is a middle-aged, unmarried woman teacher in the district public schools. Her application for a one-bedroom apartment was accepted last week.

By October or November, Parker said, "There is no question there might be a few Negro families in Parkfairfax." He currently is screening eight or ten "favorable" applications, he said.

Although the desegregation announcement by the owners, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., "was a bit of a bombshell for some of these people from Virginia," the reaction has been "quieter than we expected," he added.

"In two or three weeks, this thing will die down a lot when the people calm down. I'm more than pleased at how it happened. It's going off very well."

Parker said the letters and phone calls he received last week were five to one in favor of desegregation.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

On September 10th at 7:30 P.M. a public meeting will be held at the LaVale Fire Hall on an application for a Trailer Court located on the Grace L. and Joyce L. Conner property on the easterly side of the Winchester Road approximately 1000 ft. south of the C&P Railroad Bridge, and bounded on the north by the E. W. McKenzie and on the south by Nina Suter properties. All persons having an interest in this matter are urged to attend.

Kremlin Fires Broadside At Peking A-Pact Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government Wednesday launched one of its most blistering attacks yet on Red China's opposition to the East-West nuclear test ban treaty and declared the Chinese were linking arms with the most aggressive forces in the West.

The Kremlin's condemnation of the Chinese stand — and a forceful defense of its own position in the historic agreement with the United States and Britain—was in an official government statement released by the official Tass News Agency.

The Soviet government accused the Chinese of trying to "drive a mine" under the test ban treaty and declared:

"In its attitude toward the test ban treaty, the People's Republic of China links arms with the most aggressive circles of the imperialist powers and even assumes the role of the man on the extreme right in the ranks of American 'wildmen', West German revenge-seekers and French extremists."

The Soviet statement added:

"Having concluded a treaty on the banning of nuclear weapons tests the Soviet Union does not intend by any means to disarm unilaterally in the face of imperialism."

The Soviet government declared the treaty does not prohibit the Soviet Union, if need be, from holding underground nuclear tests, increasing stockpiles of nuclear weapons and even using these arms "against imperialist aggressors if they unleash a war in a fit of insanity."

The Soviet government broadside was designed as a reply to a Chinese charge Aug. 15 that Moscow reneged on a promise to supply Peking with nuclear weapons in the summer of 1959 as a peace offering from Premier Khrushchev to President Eisenhower.

The Soviet statement curtly dismissed the Chinese charges as "one more slander against the nuclear test ban treaty and the foreign policy of the U.S.S.R."

'Streaker' Meets His New Master

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Ten-year-old Mark Bruce and his White House puppy "Streaker" met for the first time Tuesday.

The dog, a gift from President and Mrs. Kennedy, arrived here by plane Tuesday morning.

Streaker is from the recent litter of "Pushinka," the dog Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev gave to Mrs. Kennedy in 1961. Pushinka's mother was the Soviet space dog, "Strelka."

Abandoned Child In Need Of Surgery

BOSTON (AP) — A 2-month-old girl lay hospitalized Tuesday in need of surgery for water on the brain — but there's nobody to give surgeons the required parental permission.

The child was brought to Children's Hospital Medical Center Aug. 11. No visitors have been to see her.

The hospital said the woman who brought in the child identified herself as the mother—Mrs. Jimmy Johnson, Boston.

Police have been unable to locate any such person.

"It doesn't go anywhere as far as the county is concerned," explained Gene Nunnally, chief of real property for the General Services Administration.

The road has been declared surplus to government needs — but it is used for two trailer courts situated on either side. A government official explained that the road, known as Yuma Street or Sellman Farm Access Road, can't be offered on a priority basis to the courts. It must be advertised for public sale.

The road will be sold to the highest bidder on Sept. 20 after sealed bids are opened.

Rescue Completed

VANNES, France (UPI) — French and American rescue services Tuesday picked up from the sea the last of four U.S. Navy fliers whose four A4D Skyhawk jet attack-bombers crashed or made forced landings in fog Monday while flying from the carrier U.S.S. Independence.

Desegregation Of Big Housing Unit Due Soon

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The Parkfairfax apartment development, which announced a desegregation policy Aug. 11, expects its first Negro tenant Sept. 1.

Albert Parker, resident manager of the 1,690-unit development, said the tenant is a middle-aged, unmarried woman teacher in the district public schools. Her application for a one-bedroom apartment was accepted last week.

By October or November, Parker said, "There is no question there might be a few Negro families in Parkfairfax." He currently is screening eight or ten "favorable" applications, he said.

Although the desegregation announcement by the owners, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., "was a bit of a bombshell for some of these people from Virginia," the reaction has been "quieter than we expected," he added.

"In two or three weeks, this thing will die down a lot when the people calm down. I'm more than pleased at how it happened. It's going off very well."

Parker said the letters and phone calls he received last week were five to one in favor of desegregation.

Kremlin Fires Broadside At Peking A-Pact Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government Wednesday launched one of its most blistering attacks yet on Red China's opposition to the East-West nuclear test ban treaty and declared the Chinese were linking arms with the most aggressive forces in the West.

The Kremlin's condemnation of the Chinese stand — and a forceful defense of its own position in the historic agreement with the United States and Britain—was in an official government statement released by the official Tass News Agency.

The Soviet government accused the Chinese of trying to "drive a mine" under the test ban treaty and declared:

"In its attitude toward the test ban treaty, the People's Republic of China links arms with the most aggressive circles of the imperialist powers and even assumes the role of the man on the extreme right in the ranks of American 'wildmen', West German revenge-seekers and French extremists."

The Soviet statement added:

"Having concluded a treaty on the banning of nuclear weapons tests the Soviet Union does not intend by any means to disarm unilaterally in the face of imperialism."

The Soviet government declared the treaty does not prohibit the Soviet Union, if need be, from holding underground nuclear tests, increasing stockpiles of nuclear weapons and even using these arms "against imperialist aggressors if they unleash a war in a fit of insanity."

The Soviet government broadside was designed as a reply to a Chinese charge Aug. 15 that Moscow reneged on a promise to supply Peking with nuclear weapons in the summer of 1959 as a peace offering from Premier Khrushchev to President Eisenhower.

The Soviet statement curtly dismissed the Chinese charges as "one more slander against the nuclear test ban treaty and the foreign policy of the U.S.S.R."

'Streaker' Meets His New Master

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — Ten-year-old Mark Bruce and his White House puppy "Streaker" met for the first time Tuesday.

The dog, a gift from President and Mrs. Kennedy, arrived here by plane Tuesday morning.

Streaker is from the recent litter of "Pushinka," the dog Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev gave to Mrs. Kennedy in 1961. Pushinka's mother was the Soviet space dog, "Strelka."

Abandoned Child In Need Of Surgery

BOSTON (AP) — A 2-month-old girl lay hospitalized Tuesday in need of surgery for water on the brain — but there's nobody to give surgeons the required parental permission.

The child was brought to Children's Hospital Medical Center Aug. 11. No visitors have been to see her.

The hospital said the woman who brought in the child identified herself as the mother—Mrs. Jimmy Johnson, Boston.

Police have been unable to locate any such person.

Evidence Rules Revision By High Court Criticized

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — James Jacobs confessed to possessing narcotics, was convicted and sentenced to 10 years. Then the Supreme Court changed the rules on trial evidence.

Circuit Judge John E. Raine Jr. reluctantly agreed Tuesday that the state must either try Jacobs again or set him free.

Saying he had no other choice, Judge Raine expressed disturbance at the Supreme Court.

"This case is typical of many where basic rules and principles have been changed by the Supreme Court without any warning," Judge Raine said.

Jacobs asked that his 1961 conviction be upset on the ground that his apartment, where narcotics were found, was searched without a warrant.

The Supreme Court later ruled that evidence seized in an illegal search could not be used in a trial. Its ruling, in an Ohio case, was made retroactive.

Although the state argued that the conviction was based on a confession by Jacobs, Judge Raine held it was "inextricably bound up to the illegal search."

In his comments on the Supreme Court, Judge Raine pointed out that at the time Jacobs was convicted, the evidence even though found in a search without a warrant "was sound and legally admissible in Maryland courts. Then suddenly the court rules that it cannot be admitted.

"It is extremely difficult to know where we stand when the constitution one day says one thing, then is interpreted to mean something different, and then given retroactive effect."

New Trial Sought

BALTIMORE (AP) — State's Atty. William J. O'Donnell said Tuesday arguments on a new trial motion for William D. Zantzinger, convicted in the caning death of a Baltimore barmaid, will be Aug. 28 in Hagerstown.

The 25-year-old Southern Maryland tobacco farmer was found guilty of manslaughter in Washington County Circuit in the death of Mrs. Hattie D. Carroll.

"Guiding Hand" In S&L Concern Gets Five Years

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Sherman Cohen, a Washington lawyer described as the "guiding hand" in the Family Savings & Loan Corp., was sentenced Tuesday to five years in the Maryland Penitentiary on charges of conspiring to defraud depositors in the now defunct Silver Spring firm.

The sentence was pronounced by Judge Ralph G. Shure of Montgomery County Circuit Court who said to Cohen:

"This is an extremely unfortunate case, and I have the benefit of a probation report, as well as an independent investigation I have made personally. You were the guiding hand of Family Savings, and in complete control of it.

"The estimated loss to 13,000 depositors is over $3 million and the best way they could hope to receive from their investments is about 40 per cent. You drew a substantial salary from the company, and you are still $60,000 indebted to it. For these reasons, probation is out."

Judge Shure also sentenced John G Persian, president of the firm, to a year in the Maryland House of Correction and a fine of $2,000 on similar charges.

Negroes Plan Morgan State Demonstration

BALTIMORE (AP) — Negroes plan to picket Wednesday at Morgan State College which is attended mostly by members of their race.

The Interdenominational Ministers Alliance said the demonstration would be against a contractor building a new administration building at the college.

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom said the Lawrence Construction Co. has refused to say whether or not it will hire Negroes.

Parren J. Mitchell, executive director of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems, was trying to reach an agreement with the contractor and ward off the picketing protest.

Leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality also announced that demonstrations would be intensified at private swimming clubs and pools in Baltimore County.

The owners of nine pools refused to admit Negroes Monday.

South Maryland Drought Area Is Promised Relief

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — There was some relief in sight Tuesday for parched crops in the drought-stricken Southern Maryland tobacco belt.

The Weather Bureau said thunderstorms forecast for Tuesday night would reach into tobacco-land — Anne Arundel, St. Marys, Calvert, Charles and Prince Georges counties.

The thunderstorms and heavy rains Monday night and early Tuesday doused the north-central Maryland area, the eastern fringe of Western Maryland and the northern section of the Eastern Shore.

Roads and basements were flooded and trees felled in the Baltimore area, where the rainfall totaled 1.67 inches by 8 a.m. Tuesday. Some lightning accompanied the storm.

The Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service said, meanwhile, that general rains of Aug. 13 refreshed crops across the northern half of the two states.

Corn and soybeans were helped by the rain last week but corn, which has suffered drought damage in many areas, would benefit from another good rain before the end of August.

Prospects for fall varieties of apples are generally good, the weather-crop report said, but more rain is needed for sizing. The prospects for Jonathan, Grimes and Golden Delicious are good in the Hancock area, but Red Delicious and Stayman are expected to be light.

Picking of peaches in Washington County orchards was expected to begin this week, with Sullivan Elbertas reaching peak harvest in the Hancock area in midweek and a few days later east of the mountains.

John Roebling made the first wire rope to be made in the United States. It was made in 1840 at Saxonburg, Pa.

Marylanders Seen Favoring State Lottery

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — An Anne Arundel County commissioner predicts Marylanders would vote 2 to 1 in favor of a state lottery.

Robert H. Campbell, a Democrat, said Tuesday he will urge members of the county's delegation in the legislature to introduce a bill removing the constitutional ban against a lottery.

"I think the people of Maryland should be given the right to vote on the question," Campbell said.

He expressed confidence that a majority of Maryland taxpayers would approve a lottery if they were assured it would be controlled by the state and revenues used for services to the public.

Bills for a state lottery have been frequently introduced in the Maryland legislature for a specific purpose such as a veterans' bonus. None has passed.

Lotteries were common in Maryland before being banned by the 1867 constitution.

Crash On Rain-Slick U.S. 40 Fatal To Two

By The Associated Press

The deaths of two persons on rain-slick U.S. 40 northeast of Baltimore Tuesday increased Maryland's 1963 traffic toll to 360. The fatality count on Aug. 20 last year was 346.

Mrs. Margaret Sisson, 19, of Sparrows Point, Baltimore County, and Zane Paulic, 28, of Baltimore were killed in the U.S. 40 accident.

Miss Sisson was driving the car before dawn when it skidded on the highway during a rainstorm and crashed into a traffic light pole. Police said both were employed at a U.S. 40 motel, that Mrs. Sisson became ill and Paulic was seeing her home.

D.C. Beltway Bids Opened

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission opened bids Tuesday on a mammoth Montgomery County construction project which includes work on the Capital Beltway.

Five bids were submitted, the SRC said, with Wright Contracting Co. of Odenton submitting the apparent low of $6,219,619.

The project calls for making the Capital Beltway from Wisconsin Avenue to Georgia, a distance of 3.650 miles, conscribe to interstate standards.

The portion from Wisconsin Avenue to Connecticut Avenue, a spokesman said, now meets only parkway standards and will have to be widened and curves in the highway eliminated. Construction from Connecticut Avenue to Georgia Avenue will involve a completely new highway.

The project also calls for construction of various bridges; an interchange at Connecticut Avenue and Kensington Parkway including 1.567 miles of ramps; relocation of Jones Mill Road, Beach Drive, Forsythe Avenue, Linden Lane and Seminary Road for 0.897 miles; widening of Connecticut Avenue, 0.427 mile, and widening of Kensington Parkway, 0.154 mile.

Camouflage Can Reduce Likeness Of Tract Homes

Nothing is more embarrassing to a woman than to don a new wardrobe and meet someone who is similarly dressed. The gals have always sought individuality in their attire and in their homes.

It's relatively easy to acquire a different wardrobe, but housing is something else. This is particularly true in this era of tract homes with their built-in similarity. Avoiding this sameness is a problem confronting all tract-dwellers.

The interior provides the best opportunities for a homemaker to express her individuality. For example, a pass-through can be made out of the wall separating the kitchen and dining room. This will make a handy short-cut for serving food and beverages. A durable material such as ceramic tile is ideal for the countertop because it's impervious to scratches and burns.

A remodeled fireplace will also give a house an individuality. Here again ceramic tile, installed on the front and on the hearth, will add practical beauty to the interior. There are more than 250 colors and shades of tile to choose from, plus a wide variety of decorative patterns.

A dormer window, shutters, a different facing material, and a unique entrance, coupled with contrasting paint colors, are some of the exterior alterations that will enable the Smiths and Joneses, living next door to each other, to camouflage the similarity of their homes.

Dressy Detailing

Good, old-fashioned workmanship seems more evident in the new fall clothes than in many years. Tucks, pleats, smocking are widely used; overlaid details such as belts, suspenders and epaulettes add a tailored look. Buttons are big, in pocket details, in down-the-front treatments, and often appear in brass as well as the more usual pearl. And finally collars — big and white, sometimes embroidered — add a desireable softening to the A-line dresses.

Yes, it's a wonderful year for little girls. The new styles answer their yearning for something just like Mommy's; while Mommy is enchanted by the fashion freshness which retains all the little-girl ingenuousness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Are Your Toothbrush Habits Up-To-Date?

Brushing your teeth is more important to beauty and health than what you brush them with. And, knowing when to brush is just as essential as knowing how to brush. The old rule of twice-a-day is not the one to follow. Modern practice is to brush your teeth after each meal and always on arising and retiring. Also, don't forget to include those in-between snacks . . . not longer than ten minutes afterward, if possible.

Use dental floss. It ranks in importance with the toothbrush habit in preventing decay and freshening the breath. Both remove food particuls—warding off decay—and discourage film from accumulating. Brushing also stimulates the circulation of blood through the gums.

The reason it is necessary to brush the teeth after eating is to dislodge acid-producing food particles before they start to ferment and decay, shockingly soon after eating—in fact, only a matter of minutes.

Here's the correct way to brush your teeth. Wet brush with warm water and apply dentifrice to it. Then place brush well below the gum margin and work straight toward the biting surface, in a horizontal position. Brush the lower teeth from the gums upward, the upper teeth down from the gums . . . In other words, brush the way "the teeth grow." Use a rotary motion on the biting surfaces. Follow each brushing with a mouthwash rinse.

Railettes To Honor Mae Gilford

Plans to entertain in honor of Mrs. Mae Gilford, Terra Alta, W. Va., were discussed at the meeting of the Railettes, conducted by Mrs. Chloe Reynolds Monday evening. Rugged individualism provided protection for home, family and farm, and built America. Right now, new dangers present rural families with the same challenge to equip themselves to survive a time of attack, then come out fighting and ready to carry on.

To a great extent, national security rests on the ability of rural people to resume food and fiber production after an emergency. This means farmers need to know how to produce under radioactive conditions, just as they know how to cope with hail, flood, cold, insects, and disease.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK, (UPI),—You're a poor DPS if you pop a pill into your mouth and then — can't make the thing go down.

In this era of galloping pill gulping, it's a handicap to be a DPS—difficult pill swallower.

The difficulty can be overcome via disguises and stage setting, techniques more natural to thespians then medical folks.

Nurses nationwide, at least, asked to help victims of DPS, suggested disguises and stage settings they've found workable with patients, themselves and their own families.

One reported that the pill goes down without notice if you replace the pit of a prune with the pill and then have the difficult pill swallower eat the prune. That remedy is considered a disguise.

Other disguises to help the problem pill eater included:

—Hide the pill in some soft food requiring no chewing. This makes the pill slide down with the food.

—Crush the pill and pour it into a clear capsule. Sometimes a person who can't make a pill go down for some reason can stomach a capsule.

You set the stage for the difficult pill swallower via more elaborate planning, according to the report in "Squibb Nurses Notes," a newsletter for the nation's nurse corps.

Resort to setting the stage when there's a critical case of difficult pill swallowing, editor Joan Barlow noted. You do it this way:

Have the patient chew a small mouthful of food, then pop in the pill just as he is ready to swallow.

The nurses were concerned with positioning the pill properly on the tongue before the patient tried to wash it down with water, juice or milk.

Some said the place for the pill is at the back or in the middle while others found swallowing more effective when the pill was placed at the tip or even under the tongue.

Other suggestions:

—Have the DPS suck the pill in through an oversized soda straw.

—Depress the tongue with a lolipop, then slide the pill to the back of the throat to ease swallowing.

—Desensitize the back of the tongue with an ice cube.

—For small children, one nurse reported that poking them gently in the tummy is distracting—and down goes the pill.

But if worse comes to worse and the DPS must chew his pills, the lowly bread crust is a good substance for diluting the unpleasant taste, the nurses said.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: I stirred up a hornet's nest with my advice to Seeing Red." I told the woman she should be happy to have a mother-in-law who would take it upon herself to scrub, wax, polish, wash and iron when she came over to baby-sit with the grandchildren.

Hundreds of letters from mothers, mothers-in-law, daughters and daughters-in-law both applauded and attacked my point of view. Here are some samples:

FROM BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN: I always got along splendidly with my mother-in-law. The chief reason was because she was an expert at minding her own business and she respected the privacy of others. She sat for me often when the children were small but never once did she attempt to take over my home in my absence. A mother-in-law who would tear apart her daughter - in - laws' house and put it back together again is just trying to prove that her son married a lousy housekeeper.

FROM NORFOLK, VA., If "Seeing Red" will send her mother-in-law to my house I'll happily send her mine. Once in a blue moon my mother-in-law gets big-hearted and offers to sit with our kids so we can have a night out. She comes over about 6:00 P.M. and gives the kids supper. Then she plants herself in front of the TV without even bothering to put the milk back in the refrigerator. When we get home we find the dishes still on the table, orange peelings by Granny's chair, and a can or two of beer on the coffee table — complete with a wet ring. I repeat the offer. If "Red" wants to swap I'm willing.

From LONDON, ONTARIO: Your advice ot "Seeing Red" stank. It boils my blood when my mother-in-law comes over and "straightens things around." I interpret her sudden spurts of energy as a strong hint that I am lazy and inefficient. In the meantime her own home could use plenty of tidying up. Since you advocate minding one's own business I fail to understand why you collapsed on this one.

From CAKLAND, CALIFORNIA: My mother-in-law is a life-saver. She has bailed me out of many a tight spot and I love her for it. Believe me, with five youngsters under eight years of age I'm not too proud to let her come over and pitch in. I, for one would rather "See Red than be dead."

From ANDERSON, S. C.: Advice like you gave "Seeing Red" doesn't help me one bit. My mother-in-law is one of those "take-over" types and it burns me up. The last time she "helped me out" it took me two weeks to find the salt and pepper shakers and the bottle-mop. I'm still looking for my tea-strainer.

From KANSAS CITY: I'm one of those mothers who goes to my daughter's home and washes, irons, cleans, scrubs —anything that needs to be done. My daughter works full time, as I did when I was a newly-wed. I know she doesn't have the time or the energy to keep house the way she'd like to. What I do for her is out of love. I am neither prying, nor am I trying to parade my competence before her and my son-in-law. All I want is to lightten her burden. She says I am an angel and I'm sure she means it.

From DENVER: My daughter-in-law keeps house just like her mother—terrible. But when I go over there I am deaf, dumb and blind. My son thinks she is perfection itself. Apparently he doesn't mind living in a pig's sty. This is astonishing since he was raised in an immaculate home. But so long as they are happy together I don't care what their house look like. My eyes are closed and my mouth is shut.

Rugged individualism provided protection for home, family and farm, and built America. Right now, new dangers present rural families with the same challenge to equip themselves to survive a time of attack, then come out fighting and ready to carry on.

To a great extent, national security rests on the ability of rural people to resume food and fiber production after an emergency. This means farmers need to know how to produce under radioactive conditions, just as they know how to cope with hail, flood, cold, insects, and disease.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK, (UPI),—You're a poor DPS if you pop a pill into your mouth and then — can't make the thing go down.

In this era of galloping pill gulping, it's a handicap to be a DPS—difficult pill swallower.

The difficulty can be overcome via disguises and stage setting, techniques more natural to thespians then medical folks.

Nurses nationwide, at least, asked to help victims of DPS, suggested disguises and stage settings they've found workable with patients, themselves and their own families.

One reported that the pill goes down without notice if you replace the pit of a prune with the pill and then have the difficult pill swallower eat the prune. That remedy is considered a disguise.

Other disguises to help the problem pill eater included:

—Hide the pill in some soft food requiring no chewing. This makes the pill slide down with the food.

—Crush the pill and pour it into a clear capsule. Sometimes a person who can't make a pill go down for some reason can stomach a capsule.

You set the stage for the difficult pill swallower via more elaborate planning, according to the report in "Squibb Nurses Notes," a newsletter for the nation's nurse corps.

Resort to setting the stage when there's a critical case of difficult pill swallowing, editor Joan Barlow noted. You do it this way:

Have the patient chew a small mouthful of food, then pop in the pill just as he is ready to swallow.

The nurses were concerned with positioning the pill properly on the tongue before the patient tried to wash it down with water, juice or milk.

Some said the place for the pill is at the back or in the middle while others found swallowing more effective when the pill was placed at the tip or even under the tongue.

Other suggestions:

—Have the DPS suck the pill in through an oversized soda straw.

—Depress the tongue with a lolipop, then slide the pill to the back of the throat to ease swallowing.

—Desensitize the back of the tongue with an ice cube.

—For small children, one nurse reported that poking them gently in the tummy is distracting—and down goes the pill.

But if worse comes to worse and the DPS must chew his pills, the lowly bread crust is a good substance for diluting the unpleasant taste, the nurses said.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: I stirred up a hornet's nest with my advice to Seeing Red." I told the woman she should be happy to have a mother-in-law who would take it upon herself to scrub, wax, polish, wash and iron when she came over to baby-sit with the grandchildren.

Hundreds of letters from mothers, mothers-in-law, daughters and daughters-in-law both applauded and attacked my point of view. Here are some samples:

FROM BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN: I always got along splendidly with my mother-in-law. The chief reason was because she was an expert at minding her own business and she respected the privacy of others. She sat for me often when the children were small but never once did she attempt to take over my home in my absence. A mother-in-law who would tear apart her daughter - in - laws' house and put it back together again is just trying to prove that her son married a lousy housekeeper.

FROM NORFOLK, VA., If "Seeing Red" will send her mother-in-law to my house I'll happily send her mine. Once in a blue moon my mother-in-law gets big-hearted and offers to sit with our kids so we can have a night out. She comes over about 6:00 P.M. and gives the kids supper. Then she plants herself in front of the TV without even bothering to pu. the milk back in the refrigerator. When we get home we find the dishes still on the table, orange peelings by Granny's chair, and a can or two of beer on the coffee table — complete with a wet ring. I repeat the offer. If "Red" wants to swap I'm willing.

From LONDON, ONTARIO: Your advice ot "Seeing Red" stank. It boils my blood when my mother-in-law comes over and "straightens things around." I interpret her sudden spurts of energy as a strong hint that I am lazy and inefficient. In the meantime her own home could use plenty of tidying up. Since you advocate minding one's own business I fail to understand why you collapsed on this one.

From OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA: My mother-in-law is a life-saver. She has bailed me out of many a tight spot and I love her for it. Believe me, with five youngsters under eight years of age I'm not too proud to let her come over and pitch in. I, for one would rather "See Red than be dead."

From ANDERSON, S. C.: Advice like you gave "Seeing Red" doesn't help me one bit. My mother-in-law is one of those "take-over" types and it burns me up. The last time she "helped me out" it took me two weeks to find the salt and pepper shakers and the bottle-mop. I'm still looking for my tea-strainer.

My daughter works full time, as I did when I was a newly-wed. I know she doesn't have the time or the energy to keep house the way she'd like to. What I do for her is out of love. I am neither prying, nor am I trying to parade my competence before her and my son-in-law. All I want is to lightten her burden. She says I am an angel and I'm sure she means it.

Apparently he doesn't mind living in a pig's sty. This is astonishing since he was raised in an immaculate home. But so long as they are happy together I don't care what their house look like. Law Change On Fruit Salesmen Aired By City

The city statutes concerning sales of produce by hucksters should be enforced or amended, the owner of a wholesale fruit and produce concern here said in a communication to the Mayor and City Council on Monday.

Kenneth T. Hager, owner of Hager's Fruit Market, said his letter was in response to published reports of the sale of produce by these truckers.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, declared she felt the city should follow the "letter of the law." She also said the existing law should be reviewed and published for the information of the public.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said officers are under instructions to investigate these sales. He added that to his knowledge every person checked to date has had the necessary municipal license.

Last week Commissioner Keegan reported he had received "three or four complaints" about the sale of produce by an outside firm in the Narrows.

He said it did not seem fair for a local person to have a produce business all year around and then have an outside firm come in and set up a temporary stand during the peak of the season.

Police Chief B. F. Gaffney then said that the seller in the Narrows had a license and was from Uniontown.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney declared that the condition has existed as long as he could remember and said that nothing had been done about it.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 297 The Battle of Chancellorsville, May 1-4, 1863, is generally termed Robert E. Lee's "masterpiece," the best evidence of his genius as tactician. The manner in which the commander of the Army of Northern Virginia dealt with "Fighting Joe" Hooker's Union Army of the Potomac after the latter crossed the Rappahannock, April 28, to attack the Confederates concentrated near Fredericksburg, is studied in military colleges the world over as "the almost perfect battle."

However, as the military historian Mark M. Boatner III summarized, "It was a Pyrrhic victory [for Lee]. Stonewall Jackson could not be replaced, and without this brilliant corps commander Lee was never again able to execute the strategy that had heretofore characterized his operations . . ."

Lt. Gen. T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson was mortally wounded May 2, one of 12,764 casualties — dead, wounded, missing — the Confederates suffered in the four days of ordeal by fire. The Union losses totalled 16,792. Hooker had gone into battle with about 134,000 men. Lee had only about 60,000, for Longstreet's corps had been sent off on an expedition to Suffolk, Va.

Lee's calculated daring in spliting this smaller force in the face of the enemy, to attack Hooker with only part of it [see contemporary engraving below], produced the surprise that wrested the initiative from the Union Army and beat it.

Finan To Speak In Favor Of Senate Bill 815

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan will appear before the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Intergovernmental Relations today to testify in favor of Senate Bill 815, a bill which provides for the adjustment of the legislative jurisdiction exercised by the United States over federal reservations in the several states.

Finan stated that the purpose of the legislation is to permit federal agencies, in appropriate cases and with the consent of the states involved, to restore to the states certain legislative jurisdiction now vested in the United States over federally-owned or operated lands. It is hoped that by such retrocession of jurisdiction by the federal government, that persons residing on federal reservations would no longer, by virtue of the accident of their place of domicile, suffer disabilities with respect to voting, education, public health, divorce, domestic relations problems, adoption, descent and distribution of property, administration of estates and numerous other matters which are ordinarily provided for by state law.

The State of Maryland by statute has already made the courts of this state available to residents of federal reservations for the purposes of divorce and adoption proceedings, but the Court of Appeals of Maryland last year in the case of Boyer versus Board of Election Supervisors of Cecil County, held that residents of Edgewood Arsenal, a federal enclave, were ineligible to register to vote, even though they paid income taxes to the state.

The Senate Committee on Intergovernmental Relations is hearing testimony on this matter. Attorney General Finan is appearing at the request of Senator Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md.).

Attorney General Finan stated that the National Conference of Governors and the National Association of Attorney's General have all passed resolutions approving such legislation as is contemplated in Senate Bill of 815.

Tennis Area Sought For West Side

A petition for the city to construct tennis courts on the West Side was received at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The petition, signed by 32 persons, cited the lack of recreational facilities in that sector of the city, while pointing out the particular need for tennis courts.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan, voiced the opinion that he would like to see a playground in the area where he resides — Cumberland Street — since there are many children there who must play in alleys or other places unsuitable for young activities.

The petition was directed to the Recreation Department for study and recommendation.

Other reports were made as follows to the Mayor and Council:

City employes will have a long weekend with the Mayor and Council voting to have municipal offices closed from 5 p. m. Friday, August 30, until 9 a. m. Tuesday, September 3.

The order also called for the City Council to meet on Tuesday, September 3, because of the holiday.

Stop Signs Placed

Stop signs were erected Monday at the intersection of Oak and West First streets, according to Lt. E. Gordon Hite, head of the city's Traffic Bureau.

Lt. Hite said under the new traffic plan vehicles moving on West First Street will have the right-of-way, while traffic will have to stop on Oak Street.

The plan ties in with the new industrial highway, according to Lt. Hite.

Winter Strikes Early

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Nearly 10 inches of snow Monday covered the Zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain. Thousands of summer vacationers in the Bavarian Alps have gone home because of sub-freezing temperatures.

Food Distribution Set

Surplus federal commodities will be distributed at the Ridgeley City Building tomorrow from 9 a. m. to noon, according to Mayor Charles H. Fryer. Qualified persons are to bring their own containers, he said.

City Begins Widening Of Valley Road

A hazardous condition on Valley Road, within the city limits is being alleviated by city workmen and utility firms.

Mrs. Lucile D. Roeder, city street commissioner, said that workmen of utility firms have moved the poles back from the edge of the roadway and new guard rails are being installed on the north side of the road at a narrow section.

The roadway will be several feet wider as a result of the pole moving and some of the embankment on the south side of the road will be removed, Mrs. Roeder said.

Upon completion of this work the city will apply a light blacktop surfacing to the road.

Residents of the Valley Road section have made a number of complaints both to the city and Allegany County Board of Commissioners. At yesterday's meeting of the county board, Commissioner Robert Little Ebert reported on talks he had with Mrs. Roeder in connection with the problem. He told the board that Mrs. Roeder informed him the guard rails and other work had been planned prior to receipt of the complaints.

Meeting Canceled

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will not meet Friday because members will be attending the annual convention of the State Association of County Commissioners in Ocean City.

Frostburg Still Seeks Site For Garbage Dump

John C. Sullivan, attorney for the town of Frostburg, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to learn the status of a garbage dump for the community.

Sullivan said the town faces a problem due to a lack of proper garbage dump facilities and a holdup on using a site on Big Savage Mountain for some months.

The commissioners told Sullivan they have been trying to locate a site but that so far have been unsuccessful. There is one possibility of a site in the neighborhood of Frostburg but this will have to be checked further with the property owner.

Sullivan said the town had expended several thousand dollars in preparatory work on the Big Savage site but had been stopped by action of Garrett County officials.

Commissioners Robert Little Ebert and Russell Carder reported that a complaint concerning uncut weeds in Rawlings Heights on McMullen Highway was alleviated the same day the protest was made by Mrs. Robert Schwartz last Friday.

Wilbert R. Paul, Mt. Savage, wrote the board that the roadway leading to Wellersburg from Mt. Savage was worked by county roads employes some weeks ago but only about a third of the route was patched.

He said that pot holes on the remaining section make driving difficult. The matter was referred to the Roads Department.

Another complaint on pot holes was received concerning the lower Furnace Hill Road in Midlothian. It was referred to the Roads Department.

ACCEPTS POSITION — Miss Patricia Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. King, of 408 Louisiana Avenue, has accepted a fourth grade teaching position at Rogers Heights Elementary School, Prince Georges County. A June graduate of Frostburg State College, Miss King did her practice teaching at Columbia Street School.

"De-Doctrination"

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan said Monday the Indian government has named a committee of psychologists to "de-doctrinate" soldiers brainwashed while held prisoner by the Chinese Communists.

Man And Woman Receive One-Year Suspended Terms

A local man and woman were given one-year suspended jail sentences yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey sentenced the pair, Mrs. Carol Irene Burleson, 23, Jane Frazier Village, and Rodney Kuykendall, 23, also of Jane Frazier Village, after finding them guilty of conspiracy to steal goods valued at less than $100.

Both defendents, who were represented by Attorney George R. Hughes, court appointed, entered guilty pleas to the charge.

They were tried on criminal information filed by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

The pair was arrested Sunday morning, July 14, by City Police in the neighborhood of Bell's Service Station, Wineow Street.

During questioning the following day they stated they had planned to rob the local service station.

Area Tax Suit Won By County

John H. Stitely, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, informed the county commissioners of the outcome of a suit brought before the Maryland Tax Court by owners of property in Mt. Savage formerly used by the Ribbon Copies Company, Inc.

When Ribbon Copies went out of existence several years ago the new owners, Lions Foundation, Inc., a Canadian organization, were assessed for the property. Ribbon Copies had a 10-year tax exemption as a new industry.

The county assessing department billed the new owners for 1962-63 taxes on the basis that the tax exemption did not apply to the new firm as no manufacturing was being carried on.

On an appeal to the county commissioners, sitting as a board of review, the company lost in its petition to be allowed the tax exemption.

The appeal to the Maryland Tax Court followed with the action of the county commissioners being affirmed.

Child Escapes Injury

William Skelley, age four, escaped injury yesterday when he apparently released the brakes of a car on Pine Avenue and the vehicle ran down the street, struck an embankment and upset.

The car traveled approximately 50 feet before coming to a stop.

Walter Blum, riding at Chicago, leads the nation's jockeys this year.

Lumber Company Reports Entry

Last Wednesday evening several places in the Cumberland area were entered and change stolen with no visible evidence as to how the bandits got in.

Another place has been added to the list of victims that evening according to W. H. Solomon of the Pennsylvania Lumber and Post Company.

Solomon lost approximately $15 in change and said that the violator excluded pennies from his theft and left little evidence as to the method of entrance to the premises.

The following is a true episode in the life of Bob Webster, Wallpaper dealer:—

A customer came into my store last week and after displaying some patterns of wallpaper, here is our conservation:

"How much is that paper, Mr. Webster?"

"60c a roll," I answered.

"Is that 60c a double roll?" she asked.

"Yes, that is right, 60c a double roll," I replied.

"My, that is reasonable; your competitor wants much more than that, many are over a dollar a roll," the customer said.

"I always heard that my competitor was selling paper so much cheaper than I," I said.

"Well, it is not true according to what I saw," my customer stated. End of conservation—but Bob sold two rooms of paper to a pleased customer.

We, at Webster's, also have papers at $1.00 a roll—our highest in stock pattern being $1.50 a double roll—but we also have papers at 50c a double. We even have one at 25c. It's not very beautiful, but would be suitable for some places.

Law Change On Fruit Salesmen Aired By City

The city statutes concerning sales of produce by hucksters should be enforced or amended, the owner of a wholesale fruit and produce concern here said in a communication to the Mayor and City Council on Monday.

Kenneth T. Hager, owner of Hager's Fruit Market, said his letter was in response to published reports of the sale of produce by these truckers.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, declared she felt the city should follow the "letter of the law." She also said the existing law should be reviewed and published for the information of the public.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said officers are under instructions to investigate these sales. He added that to his knowledge every person checked to date has had the necessary municipal license.

Last week Commissioner Keegan reported he had received "three or four complaints" about the sale of produce by an outside firm in the Narrows.

He said it did not seem fair for a local person to have a produce business all year around and then have an outside firm come in and set up a temporary stand during the peak of the season.

Police Chief B. F. Gaffney then said that the seller in the Narrows had a license and was from Uniontown.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney declared that the condition has existed as long as he could remember and said that nothing had been done about it.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 297 The Battle of Chancellorsville, May 1-4, 1863, is generally termed Robert E. Lee's "masterpiece," the best evidence of his genius as tactician. The manner in which the commander of the Army of Northern Virginia dealt with "Fighting Joe" Hooker's Union Army of the Potomac after the latter crossed the Rappahannock, April 28, to attack the Confederates concentrated near Fredericksburg, is studied in military colleges the world over as "the almost perfect battle."

However, as the military historian Mark M. Boatner III summarized, "It was a Pyrrhic victory [for Lee]. Stonewall Jackson could not be replaced, and without this brilliant corps commander Lee was never again able to execute the strategy that had heretofore characterized his operations . . ."

Lt. Gen. T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson was mortally wounded May 2, one of 12,764 casualties — dead, wounded, missing — the Confederates suffered in the four days of ordeal by fire. The Union losses totalled 16,792. Hooker had gone into battle with about 134,000 men. Lee had only about 60,000, for Longstreet's corps had been sent off on an expedition to Suffolk, Va.

Lee's calculated daring in spliting this smaller force in the face of the enemy, to attack Hooker with only part of it [see contemporary engraving below], produced the surprise that wrested the initiative from the Union Army and beat it.

Frostburg Still Seeks Site For Garbage Dump

John C. Sullivan, attorney for the town of Frostburg, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to learn the status of a garbage dump for the community.

Sullivan said the town faces a problem due to a lack of proper garbage dump facilities and a holdup on using a site on Big Savage Mountain for some months.

The commissioners told Sullivan they have been trying to locate a site but that so far have been unsuccessful. There is one possibility of a site in the neighborhood of Frostburg but this will have to be checked further with the property owner.

Sullivan said the town had expended several thousand dollars in preparatory work on the Big Savage site but had been stopped by action of Garrett County officials.

Commissioners Robert Little Ebert and Russell Carder reported that a complaint concerning uncut weeds in Rawlings Heights on McMullen Highway was alleviated the same day the protest was made by Mrs. Robert Schwartz last Friday.

Wilbert R. Paul, Mt. Savage, wrote the board that the roadway leading to Wellersburg from Mt. Savage was worked by county roads employes some weeks ago but only about a third of the route was patched.

He said that pot holes on the remaining section make driving difficult. The matter was referred to the Roads Department.

Another complaint on pot holes was received concerning the lower Furnace Hill Road in Midlothian. It was referred to the Roads Department.

ACCEPTS POSITION — Miss Patricia Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. King, of 408 Louisiana Avenue, has accepted a fourth grade teaching position at Rogers Heights Elementary School, Prince Georges County. A June graduate of Frostburg State College, Miss King did her practice teaching at Columbia Street School.

"De-Doctrination"

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan said Monday the Indian government has named a committee of psychologists to "de-doctrinate" soldiers brainwashed while held prisoner by the Chinese Communists.

Finan To Speak In Favor Of Senate Bill 815

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan will appear before the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Intergovernmental Relations today to testify in favor of Senate Bill 815, a bill which provides for the adjustment of the legislative jurisdiction exercised by the United States over federal reservations in the several states.

Finan stated that the purpose of the legislation is to permit federal agencies, in appropriate cases and with the consent of the states involved, to restore to the states certain legislative jurisdiction now vested in the United States over federally-owned or operated lands. It is hoped that by such retrocession of jurisdiction by the federal government, that persons residing on federal reservations would no longer, by virtue of the accident of their place of domicile, suffer disabilities with respect to voting, education, public health, divorce, domestic relations problems, adoption, descent and distribution of property, administration of estates and numerous other matters which are ordinarily provided for by state law.

The State of Maryland by statute has already made the courts of this state available to residents of federal reservations for the purposes of divorce and adoption proceedings, but the Court of Appeals of Maryland last year in the case of Boyer versus Board of Election Supervisors of Cecil County, held that residents of Edgewood Arsenal, a federal enclave, were ineligible to register to vote, even though they paid income taxes to the state.

The Senate Committee on Intergovernmental Relations is hearing testimony on this matter. Attorney General Finan is appearing at the request of Senator Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md.).

Attorney General Finan stated that the National Conference of Governors and the National Association of Attorney's General have all passed resolutions approving such legislation as is contemplated in Senate Bill of 815.

Tennis Area Sought For West Side

A petition for the city to construct tennis courts on the West Side was received at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

The petition, signed by 32 persons, cited the lack of recreational facilities in that sector of the city, while pointing out the particular need for tennis courts.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan, voiced the opinion that he would like to see a playground in the area where he resides — Cumberland Street — since there are many children there who must play in alleys or other places unsuitable for young activities.

The petition was directed to the Recreation Department for study and recommendation.

Other reports were made as follows to the Mayor and Council:

City employes will have a long weekend with the Mayor and Council voting to have municipal offices closed from 5 p. m. Friday, August 30, until 9 a. m. Tuesday, September 3.

The order also called for the City Council to meet on Tuesday, September 3, because of the holiday.

City Begins Widening Of Valley Road

A hazardous condition on Valley Road, within the city limits is being alleviated by city workmen and utility firms.

Mrs. Lucile D. Roeder, city street commissioner, said that workmen of utility firms have moved the poles back from the edge of the roadway and new guard rails are being installed on the north side of the road at a narrow section.

The roadway will be several feet wider as a result of the pole moving and some of the embankment on the south side of the road will be removed, Mrs. Roeder said.

Upon completion of this work the city will apply a light blacktop surfacing to the road.

Residents of the Valley Road section have made a number of complaints both to the city and Allegany County Board of Commissioners. At yesterday's meeting of the county board, Commissioner Robert Little Ebert reported on talks he had with Mrs. Roeder in connection with the problem. He told the board that Mrs. Roeder informed him the guard rails and other work had been planned prior to receipt of the complaints.

Stop Signs Placed

Stop signs were erected Monday at the intersection of Oak and West First streets, according to Lt. E. Gordon Hite, head of the city's Traffic Bureau.

Lt. Hite said under the new traffic plan vehicles moving on West First Street will have the right-of-way, while traffic will have to stop on Oak Street.

The plan ties in with the new industrial highway, according to Lt. Hite.

Winter Strikes Early

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Nearly 10 inches of snow Monday covered the Zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain. Thousands of summer vacationers in the Bavarian Alps have gone home because of sub-freezing temperatures.

Food Distribution Set

Surplus federal commodities will be distributed at the Ridgeley City Building tomorrow from 9 a. m. to noon, according to Mayor Charles H. Fryer. Qualified persons are to bring their own containers, he said.

Meeting Canceled

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners will not meet Friday because members will be attending the annual convention of the State Association of County Commissioners in Ocean City.

Man And Woman Receive One-Year Suspended Terms

A local man and woman were given one-year suspended jail sentences yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey sentenced the pair, Mrs. Carol Irene Burleson, 23, Jane Frazier Village, and Rodney Kuykendall, 23, also of Jane Frazier Village, after finding them guilty of conspiracy to steal goods valued at less than $100.

Both defendents, who were represented by Attorney George R. Hughes, court appointed, entered guilty pleas to the charge.

They were tried on criminal information filed by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

The pair was arrested Sunday morning, July 14, by City Police in the neighborhood of Bell's Service Station, Wineow Street.

During questioning the following day they stated they had planned to rob the local service station.

Area Tax Suit Won By County

John H. Stitely, supervisor of assessments for Allegany County, informed the county commissioners of the outcome of a suit brought before the Maryland Tax Court by owners of property in Mt. Savage formerly used by the Ribbon Copies Company, Inc.

When Ribbon Copies went out of existence several years ago the new owners, Lions Foundation, Inc., a Canadian organization, were assessed for the property. Ribbon Copies had a 10-year tax exemption as a new industry.

The county assessing department billed the new owners for 1962-63 taxes on the basis that the tax exemption did not apply to the new firm as no manufacturing was being carried on.

On an appeal to the county commissioners, sitting as a board of review, the company lost in its petition to be allowed the tax exemption.

The appeal to the Maryland Tax Court followed with the action of the county commissioners being affirmed.

Child Escapes Injury

William Skelley, age four, escaped injury yesterday when he apparently released the brakes of a car on Pine Avenue and the vehicle ran down the street, struck an embankment and upset.

The car traveled approximately 50 feet before coming to a stop.

Walter Blum, riding at Chicago, leads the nation's jockeys this year.

Lumber Company Reports Entry

Last Wednesday evening several places in the Cumberland area were entered and change stolen with no visible evidence as to how the bandits got in.

Another place has been added to the list of victims that evening according to W. H. Solomon of the Pennsylvania Lumber and Post Company.

Honey Of An Exhibit

"Bees Around the World Produce a Universal Food — Honey" is the theme of a honey exhibit entered by John V. Lindner at the Cumberland Fair. The display, under the grandstand, consists of an attractive array of honey in the comb, as well of jars of finely granulated honey topped with candlesticks made from beeswax. Other varieties of honey are included in the display.

Urban Renewal Plan Outlined

William F. DeMare, executive director of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency, yesterday briefed members of the Cumberland Rotary Club on the status of the agency's work.

He said the agency's application for a general neighborhood renewal project for the central section of the city and the George Street renewal project are being reviewed by the Housing and Home Finance Agency office in Philadelphia and that the agency hopes to receive approval for the projects during the next few weeks.

As soon as authority is received, he said, the agency will begin actual planning of the center of the city project and the George Street project, which is an integral part of the bigger project.

Mr. DeMare said the agency hopes to complete planning work on the George Street project, take it to a public hearing and seek adoption by the Mayor and Council within a year.

The agency also hopes in the first year to prepare plans for the center of the city project and to prepare a model of plans for the downtown business section.

Mr. DeMare was introduced by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Peking Issues Denial

TOKYO, (UPI) — Communist China issued a lengthy statement Tuesday denying Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Aug. 16 charge that Chinese troops were concentrating along the Sino-Indian border.

Although only one-fourth of the population of the United States lives in the northeastern states, it receives nearly one-half of all lamb and mutton used in the nation.

Final Events Slated At Penn Ave.

City playgrounds officially close Friday morning and Pennsylvania Avenue Playground has scheduled a roundup of activities for today and tomorrow, according to Mrs. Gelia Puffenberger, director.

On the agenda today from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. will be a rock 'n roll dance, sponsored by the Teenettes. The "Silhouettes" will provide music. Entertainment at intermission will include singing by Joyce Matthews, Columbia Street playlot talent contest winner, and tap dancing on skates by Sandra Bennett.

Announcement of the top boy and girl of the season will be made at the dance. Voting will close at 6 p.m. today, and nominees are Anna Wertz, Linda Wolfe, Donna Hall, Linda Wilson, Marlene Grapes, Sue Hall, and Susan Ullery, girls, and Louis Easton, Larry Walker, Larry Sirna, Richard Armolt, Gene Miller, Ricky Wertz, and Jerry Ray, boys.

The end-of-the-season chess tournament will be continued today, as the playoffs were not completed yesterday, said Mrs. Puffenberger.

Tomorrow's schedule will be highlighted by a visit to Mullenaux's pony farm at Spring Gap. The trip will be for children under 12 years of age and written permission from each child's parents must be presented to Mrs. Puffenberger before leaving the playlot. Parents who can furnish transportation are asked to contact the leader today by calling 722-4391.

The journey, featured by free pony rides, will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow and end that afternoon with a closing party.

Resignations From Notaries Still Pour In

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Resignations of notary public commissions continued to stream into the Maryland secretary of state's office Tuesday from public officials and others who are not sure they hold them legally.

The office has received 15 resignations in the past two days and 44 for the year compared to only three for all of last year.

Some of the resignations may be necessary, and some may not. Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan has not yet expressed in detail how far he feels a constitutional bar against holding two public offices for profit may go. His only written opinion thus far applied to legislators.

In the case of eight members of the House of Delegates who became notaries after taking their oaths of office as legislators, Finan said they were holding their seats illegally. But he said only the Legislature itself had power to declare the offices vacant.

No Set Rule

There are scores of other public officials at the county and city government level who also may be affected. Finan said their cases would have to be decided individually.

He referred to them only generally in his opinion on legislators.

"It is our opinion that when a public officer other than a member of the General Assembly assumes another public office, a vacancy exists in the first office which may immediately be filled by the person authorized to fill such vacancies, and the courts of this state have sufficient jurisdiction to review or compel such action," he said.

The attorney general is expected to go into the question in more detail Wednesday at a meeting in Baltimore with Gov. Tawes and Secretary of State Lloyd L. Simpkins. Notary commissions are issued by the governor through the secretary of state. Appointees are recommended by their state senator and there are some 25,000 in the state.

Mullaney On List

The latest batch of resignations received included those of Wade D. Ward, state's attorney for Somerset County; Paulina W. Remey, county commissioner for Anne Arundel County; Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the board of election supervisors of Allegany County; Minnie V. Rooney, member of the zoning commission of Howard County; and Michael J. Gibson, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County.

If a court should hold they vacated their original post by accepting a notary commission, it would be necessary for them to be reappointed in order to continue serving in the post.

In the case of delegates, if the house declares they vacated their positions, Gov. Tawes would have power to reappoint them on recommendation of the state central committees concerned.

As soon as authority is received, he said, the agency will begin actual planning of the center of the city project and the George Street project, which is an integral part of the bigger project.

Mr. DeMare said the agency hopes to complete planning work on the George Street project, take it to a public hearing and seek adoption by the Mayor and Council within a year.

The agency also hopes in the first year to prepare plans for the center of the city project and to prepare a model of plans for the downtown business section.

Mr. DeMare was introduced by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Peking Issues Denial

TOKYO, (UPI) — Communist China issued a lengthy statement Tuesday denying Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Aug. 16 charge that Chinese troops were concentrating along the Sino-Indian border.

Although only one-fourth of the population of the United States lives in the northeastern states, it receives nearly one-half of all lamb and mutton used in the nation.

Final Events Slated At Penn Ave.

City playgrounds officially close Friday morning and Pennsylvania Avenue Playground has scheduled a roundup of activities for today and tomorrow, according to Mrs. Gelia Puffenberger, director.

On the agenda today from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. will be a rock 'n roll dance, sponsored by the Teenettes. The "Silhouettes" will provide music. Entertainment at intermission will include singing by Joyce Matthews, Columbia Street playlot talent contest winner, and tap dancing on skates by Sandra Bennett.

Announcement of the top boy and girl of the season will be made at the dance. Voting will close at 6 p.m. today, and nominees are Anna Wertz, Linda Wolfe, Donna Hall, Linda Wilson, Marlene Grapes, Sue Hall, and Susan Ullery, girls, and Louis Easton, Larry Walker, Larry Sirna, Richard Armolt, Gene Miller, Ricky Wertz, and Jerry Ray, boys.

The end-of-the-season chess tournament will be continued today, as the playoffs were not completed yesterday, said Mrs. Puffenberger.

Tomorrow's schedule will be highlighted by a visit to Mullenaux's pony farm at Spring Gap. The trip will be for children under 12 years of age and written permission from each child's parents must be presented to Mrs. Puffenberger before leaving the playlot. Parents who can furnish transportation are asked to contact the leader today by calling 722-4391.

The journey, featured by free pony rides, will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow and end that afternoon with a closing party.

Resignations From Notaries Still Pour In

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Resignations of notary public commissions continued to stream into the Maryland secretary of state's office Tuesday from public officials and others who are not sure they hold them legally.

The office has received 15 resignations in the past two days and 44 for the year compared to only three for all of last year.

Some of the resignations may be necessary, and some may not. Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan has not yet expressed in detail how far he feels a constitutional bar against holding two public offices for profit may go. His only written opinion thus far applied to legislators.

In the case of eight members of the House of Delegates who became notaries after taking their oaths of office as legislators, Finan said they were holding their seats illegally. But he said only the Legislature itself had power to declare the offices vacant.

No Set Rule

There are scores of other public officials at the county and city government level who also may be affected. Finan said their cases would have to be decided individually.

He referred to them only generally in his opinion on legislators.

"It is our opinion that when a public officer other than a member of the General Assembly assumes another public office, a vacancy exists in the first office which may immediately be filled by the person authorized to fill such vacancies, and the courts of this state have sufficient jurisdiction to review or compel such action," he said.

The attorney general is expected to go into the question in more detail Wednesday at a meeting in Baltimore with Gov. Tawes and Secretary of State Lloyd L. Simpkins. Notary commissions are issued by the governor through the secretary of state. Appointees are recommended by their state senator and there are some 25,000 in the state.

Mullaney On List

The latest batch of resignations received included those of Wade D. Ward, state's attorney for Somerset County; Paulina W. Remey, county commissioner for Anne Arundel County; Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the board of election supervisors of Allegany County; Minnie V. Rooney, member of the zoning commission of Howard County; and Michael J. Gibson, deputy clerk of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County.

If a court should hold they vacated their original post by accepting a notary commission, it would be necessary for them to be reappointed in order to continue serving in the post.

In the case of delegates, if the house declares they vacated their positions, Gov. Tawes would have power to reappoint them on recommendation of the state central committees concerned.

In Hollywood...

(Editors Note: Today's Hollywood guest columnist, Janet Leigh, writes of her life and career as an actress, no longer "just somebody filling up space on the screen."

By JANET LEIGH

HOLLYWOOD, (UPI)—I never realized what real happiness was until this past year.

I got married to a wonderful bug by the name of Bob Brandt last fall, and through our relationship my husband made me feel more important as a wife, mother and actress than I have ever sensed before.

One of the first things we did after our marriage was to get rid of the big house I used to live in.

Our new home is small and convenient and provides for easily accessible living. The kitchen is near the living room and the living room near the bedroom, and my children can work and play right next to me while I'm in the kitchen.

As far as my career is concerned, I feel I'm now in the position where I can work with really fine actors. Before I was just somebody filling up space on the screen.

I'm glad the days are over of the all-American girl smiling gayly at thousands of still cameras. When I came to MGM, where my career just started, I played the game like everyone else. Fencing, dancing, running, jumping, cutting ribbons, spearing at supermarkets, going to premieres — Janet was there. I was star-struck like any small-town girl coming to Hollywood for the first time.

This business did a lot for me and I could never bite the hand that fed me. I became exposed to things that I wouldn't see otherwise, like traveling, art, music, literature, stimulating and talented people, good conversation. All of these have contributed in my growth as a woman and a person.

I recall one day I was walking along singing on a studio lot. I'm a very happy person by nature. I like to sing, skip along and feel free. Well, this young actor came along and said to me, "does this business really make you that happy?" I told him I didn't know if it was this business or not, but that day I felt genuinely happy.

He was flabbergasted by my remark. He told me the buisness gave him ulcers. When I heard this I snapped back and said he should get out of the business because there's nothing worse than having ulcers. He went on and said he was much happier when he was washing cars, but at that time his shoes had holes in them. I told him I'd rather have shoes with holes and be happy than have new shoes and be miserable. And this is exactly my philosophy of life.

I have had some heartaches, but doesn't everybody. I have no patience with people who blame Hollywood for all their domestic troubles. A person's character is formed way before he or she comes to Hollywood. It is senseless to blame this town for the troubles you get into.

I believe a person's behavior patterns are formed in youth and afterwards we direct or improve them. Hollywood does have the atmosphere of exposing a girl to dangers, and that's why maybe it's more difficult to adjust. But if a girl can't make the adjustment, then she should get out. Nobody says you must stay in Hollywood.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans, corn and rye futures ended firm while other grains were steady to lower in uneven trade Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ⅛ to ¾; corn up ⅜ to ⅝; oats unchanged to off ⅝; rye up ½ to 1¼; and soybeans up ½ to ⅞.

Demand for soybeans was based on larger than expected weekly export inspections and reports of cool, wet weather over the producing areas in the midwest. Scattered selling followed the mid-morning release of the official crop report showing generally good crop conditions with some complaints.

Corn started higher on adverse weather reports but turned steady on local and professional selling. Prices rallied on fear of a rail strike and light supplies.

Wheat firmed in early trade, but commercial selling pulled nearby contracts down to steady levels and distant futures into weaker ranges. The decline of baker demand over the last several days was a bearish influence.

Oats eased in hedge selling. Rye held firm throughout the session on limited offerings.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 298 This [↓] remains one of the greatest—the most telling—photographs ever made in any war. It was taken after a resolute charge by the 6th U. S. Infantry broke down Confederate resistance behind a stonewall on a road at Marye's Heights, overlooking Fredericksburg, Va., May 3, 1863.

John Sedgwick had sent his Union IV Corps against Barksdale's Mississippi Brigade on Marye's Heights four times with heavy losses, and further attacks seemed hopeless. Then, during a truce to collect the wounded, the Federals saw that the Mississippians had been reduced to a skeleton force. Sedgwick ordered another attack, with some results seen in this photo made by one of Matthew Brady's corps of cameramen.

Sedgwick pushed his corps on toward the relief of Federals beleagured in "the Wilderness" 12 miles away. Lee, detecting this move quickly, maneuvered his forces to attack Sedgwick on three sides, and drove him back. The whole battlefield of Chancellorsville was lost to Union forces.

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser hopes to rally Arab nationalist movements into a single pan-Arab popular front as a basis for Arab unity and counterforce to his current foe, the Baath party.

To Nasser today the idea of Arab unity through governments is hopelessly remote. The Baath rules in Raq and Syria, and Nasser is in open squabble with both. His relations with King Hassan of Morocco and President Bourguiba of Tunisia are frozen stiff because Nasser harbors nationalist exiles opposing their regimes.

Libya and Kuwait are as little involved in Arab politics as possible, both anxioux to keep their oil revenues away from possible disputes. The Sudan virtually has closed itself in, trying to cope with home problems.

Only Algeria and Yemen are firm friends of Nasser. But Algeria is impractically far away; and upholding the republican regime in Yemen has been a costly affair for Egypt.

Nasser also feels that what helped break up the 1958 union between Egypt and Syria was the lack of a unified popular base that could have opposed the separationist coup of September, 1961. The lack of such a base, or front, also has allowed the Baath in Syria and Iraq to eliminate other forces and rule supreme there.

That is partly why Nasser insisted that the now-shelved Cairo federation declaration by Egypt, Syria and Iraq, signed April 17, should stipulate the formation of a national front in each country comprising all nationalist forces and excluding Communists and anti-unionists.

It was on grounds that the Baath party failed to do so that Nasser declared on July 22 that Egypt refused to be bound by the declaration.

Nasser's initial plan is to combine Arab nationalist and unionist forces into one front which he proposed to call "Union of Arab Revolutionary Movements." Nasser does not exclude from this front those elements of the Baath party who still are in his grace.

Nasser contends his dispute is not with the Baath as such but with its present leadership and that the party still has "some good and honest elements."

Egypt already has a national front at home—the Arab Socialist Union with 5.5 million members—which is still in the process of electing its upper-level committees. But the process of extending this union to engulf the Arab world, even if feasible, would take years.

The plan now is to unite Egypt's socialist union with those parties already in operation elsewhere in the Arab world and whose policies and actions are parallel to those of Nasser.

Reliable observers here say that Nasser can count on prompt response from:

—Algeria's National Liberation Front, the ruling power in Algeria today and the best organized national political party.

—Morocco's Union Nationale de Forces Populaires, which leads the opposition to King El Hassan's regime.

—Tunisia's Liberation Front, mostly in exile in Cairo and Algiers.

—Syria's and Iraq's Independents, Unionists and Socialists.

—Aden's powerful People's Socialist party, which has already declared its acceptance to join the proposed united front.

Then there would be the hundreds of exiled and restless nationalists from Saudi Arabia, Jordan and elsewhere to whom the projected front can be an opportunity for organized action.

Already Cairo is buzzing with rumors that Morocco's dynamic opposition leader, Mehdi Ben Barka, leader of the UNFP, is slated to become secretary-general of the union. Ben Barka, who is in exile from Morocco and alternates residence between Cairo and Algiers, is perhaps the only political party figure who can command the respect of divergent forces that may form the union.

TOPEKA (AP) — Burglars who entered the John C. Graham home here fed the cat but didn't put it out.

PE Heating Plant Hearing Set August 28

The Public Service Commission in Baltimore has decided not to postpone a hearing on the application of Potomac Edison Company to abandon its steam heating facilities in Cumberland.

Albert Dean, executive secretary of the PSC, said yesterday that the hearing will be held as originally announced on Wednesday, August 28.

Requests for postponement had been received from several interested Cumberland parties, Dean explained, but in order not to create confusion the Commission has decided to go ahead with the hearing August 28.

"We are very interested in hearing all parties," Dean offered, "therefore we will continue the hearing after August 28 so that all can be heard." He explained that if the hearing had been postponed, some persons might have gone to Baltimore on August 28 only to find the hearing not being held.

Potomac Edison filed a petition with the PSC for permission to abandon its steam heating facilities in Cumberland last month.

PE requested permission to abandon the facility at the earliest practicable date and said it would, at the same time, provide its steam heat customers with an alternative means of heating at PE's expense.

Sixty commercial users in downtown Cumberland would be affected if the steam heat plant is discontinued.

PE said in its petition that the steam heating business has been conducted at a loss and that these operating losses have increased sharply in recent years.

Reservists On Training Tour In Hagerstown

Fifteen men from the Cumberland area have completed their first week of active training with the 9212th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron at the Hagerstown Municipal Airport.

They will complete their 15-day tour of training in the 75-man squadron on August 25.

Cumberland men and their recoveryman positions include Maj. John H. Pfeiffer, education and training officer; M/Sgt. John Shriver, safety technician; M/Sgt. Thomas W. Bever, first sergeant; S/Sgt. William D. Northcraft, intelligence specialist; S/Sgt. John Vocke, accounting and finance specialist, and A/2c Nicholas Bonevac, aircraft repair apprentice.

From LaVale are Maj. Orvil Wolz, air police officer, and M/Sgt. Harry T. Skelley, construction supervisor.

Other area men are S/Sgt. Michael Gaudio, administrative specialist, Eckhart; A/3c McKinley A. Buser, administrative specialist, Lonaconing; S/Sgt. Donald D. Cole, administrative specialist, Ridgeley, and Maj. James Newlin, civil engineering staff officer, Keyser.

Purpose of training is to ready the squadron for its combat assignment in case of national emergency, including general nuclear war. Their assignment is to man the Hagerstown airport to provide an alternate landing strip for U. S. aircraft returning from attacks on the enemy.

It is expected that in case the United States is attacked, regular airbases may be damaged or destroyed.

'Grow Features' Can Save Money In Kids' Clothes

Look for "grow features" when you buy clothes for children. Buying over-sized garments for them to "grow into" makes them look as unsightly and as uncomfortable as clothing that is too small.

Features to look for are deep hems in dresses, deep cuffs in trousers, plenty of material on both sides of seams, adjustable shoulder straps on overalls, jumpers, and skirts. Buy dresses that have high, low, or no waistline seams, and garments that are sleeveless or have raglan or kimono sleeves. Pleats and gathers can be adjusted to growth, and two-piece or "separates" allow for greater growth in height than one-piece garments.

When declarer holds the major tenace in a suit, which of course includes the ace and the queen, proper strategy does not necessarily call for the capture of the adverse king. Declarer must so manage his assets as to produce the required number of tricks for his side, even if it involves giving up a trick to the enemy king. Observe how declarer managed his cards in today's hand.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the queen, which declarer ruffed. At first glance, it appeared to South that this contract was safe if he could find one of two situations to be in his favor. If West held the ace of spades, he was apparently home free for declarer need but lead twice toward the king and queen of spades. If East held the king of clubs, victory was likewise within reach on a simple club finesse.

The only holding to be concerned with is the one in which West holds the king of clubs and East the ace of spades. Declarer decided to play on that basis and led a low club towards the jack, after drawing two trumps. West was obliged to play the king. The club continuation was won in dummy and South returned to his hand with a trump and discarded two of dummy's spades on the ace and queen of clubs. Dummy was now down to the doubleton king-queen of spades and the defense was limited to one trick in that suit.

If South makes the lazy course in clubs by leading dummy's jack for a finesse he will lose the hand because only one discard in the suit can be established, and two spade tricks must eventually be given up. Since he was playing West to hold one of the two missing black honors—a reasonable assumption from the bidding—declarer's object was to make a club play thru West so that the latter would be forced to commit himself in the suit before the dummy's honor was released.

72-Year-Old Cook Hits The Trail

SNYDER, Tex. (AP) — Seventy-two-year-old Chalma Reid has been cooking for round-up crews on Texas ranches for the past 50 years. This year will be no exception. Reid headed out for another season of cooking. He won't be back for about two months when all the calves have been branded.

He cooks on a chuck wagon under a large open-ended tent. This year Reid has a new stove for barbecuing and, before he left Snyder, he bought a new cookbook. His working tools include a three gallon coffee pot and a Dutch oven measuring two feet in diameter.

In Hollywood...

(Editors Note: Today's Hollywood guest columnist, Janet Leigh, writes of her life and career as an actress, no longer "just somebody filling up space on the screen."

By JANET LEIGH

HOLLYWOOD, (UPI)—I never realized what real happiness was until this past year.

I got married to a wonderful bug by the name of Bob Brandt last fall, and through our relationship my husband made me feel more important as a wife, mother and actress than I have ever sensed before.

One of the first things we did after our marriage was to get rid of the big house I used to live in.

Our new home is small and convenient and provides for easily accessible living. The kitchen is near the living room and the living room near the bedroom, and my children can work and play right next to me while I'm in the kitchen.

As far as my career is concerned, I feel I'm now in the position where I can work with really fine actors. Before I was just somebody filling up space on the screen.

I'm glad the days are over of the all-American girl smiling gayly at thousands of still cameras. When I came to MGM, where my career just started, I played the game like everyone else. Fencing, dancing, running, jumping, cutting ribbons, spearing at supermarkets, going to premieres — Janet was there. I was star-struck like any small-town girl coming to Hollywood for the first time.

This business did a lot for me and I could never bite the hand that fed me. I became exposed to things that I wouldn't see otherwise, like traveling, art, music, literature, stimulating and talented people, good conversation. All of these have contributed in my growth as a woman and a person.

I recall one day I was walking along singing on a studio lot. I'm a very happy person by nature. I like to sing, skip along and feel free. Well, this young actor came along and said to me, "does this business really make you that happy?" I told him I didn't know if it was this business or not, but that day I felt genuinely happy.

He was flabbergasted by my remark. He told me the buisness gave him ulcers. When I heard this I snapped back and said he should get out of the business because there's nothing worse than having ulcers. He went on and said he was much happier when he was washing cars, but at that time his shoes had holes in them. I told him I'd rather have shoes with holes and be happy than have new shoes and be miserable. And this is exactly my philosophy of life.

I have had some heartaches, but doesn't everybody. I have no patience with people who blame Hollywood for all their domestic troubles. A person's character is formed way before he or she comes to Hollywood. It is senseless to blame this town for the troubles you get into.

I believe a person's behavior patterns are formed in youth and afterwards we direct or improve them. Hollywood does have the atmosphere of exposing a girl to dangers, and that's why maybe it's more difficult to adjust. But if a girl can't make the adjustment, then she should get out. Nobody says you must stay in Hollywood.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybeans, corn and rye futures ended firm while other grains were steady to lower in uneven trade Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off 1/8 to 3/4; corn up 3/8 to 5/8; oats unchanged to off 5/8; rye up 1/2 to 1 1/4; and soybeans up 1/8 to 5/8.

Demand for soybeans was based on larger than expected weekly export inspections and reports of cool, wet weather over the producing areas in the midwest. Scattered selling followed the mid-morning release of the official crop report showing generally good crop conditions with some complaints.

Corn started higher on adverse weather reports but turned steady on local and professional selling. Prices rallied on fear of a rail strike and light supplies.

Wheat firmed in early trade, but commercial selling pulled nearby contracts down to steady levels and distant futures into weaker ranges. The decline of baker demand over the last several days was a bearish influence.

Oats eased in hedge selling. Rye held firm throughout the session on limited offerings.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 298 This [1] remains one of the greatest—the most telling—photographs ever made in any war. It was taken after a resolute charge by the 6th U. S. Infantry broke down Confederate resistance behind a stonewall on a road at Marye's Heights, overlooking Fredericksburg, Va., May 3, 1863.

John Sedgwick had sent his Union IV Corps against Barksdale's Mississippi Brigade on Marye's Heights four times with heavy losses, and further attacks seemed hopeless. Then, during a truce to collect the wounded, the Federals saw that the Mississippians had been reduced to a skeleton force. Sedgwick ordered another attack, with some results seen in this photo made by one of Matthew Brady's corps of cameramen.

Sedgwick pushed his corps on toward the relief of Federals beleaguered in "the Wilderness" 12 miles away. Lee, detecting this move quickly, maneuvered his forces to attack Sedgwick on three sides, and drove him back. The whole battlefield of Chancellorsville was lost to Union forces.

News Commentary

By DAVID BISHAI

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser hopes to rally Arab nationalist movements into a single pan-Arab popular front as a basis for Arab unity and counterforce to his current foe, the Baath party.

To Nasser today the idea of Arab unity through governments is hopelessly remote. The Baath rules in Raq and Syria, and Nasser is in open squabble with both. His relations with King Hassan of Morocco and President Bourguiba of Tunisia are frozen stiff because Nasser harbors nationalist exiles opposing their regimes.

Libya and Kuwait are as little involved in Arab politics as possible, both anxioux to keep their oil revenues away from possible disputes. The Sudan virtually has closed itself in, trying to cope with home problems.

Only Algeria and Yemen are firm friends of Nasser. But Algeria is impractically far away; and upholding the republican regime in Yemen has been a costly affair for Egypt.

Nasser also feels that what helped break up the 1958 union between Egypt and Syria was the lack of a unified popular base that could have opposed the separationist coup of September, 1961. The lack of such a base, or front, also has allowed the Baath in Syria and Iraq to eliminate other forces and rule supreme there.

That is partly why Nasser insisted that the now-shelved Cairo federation declaration by Egypt, Syria and Iraq, signed April 17, should stipulate the formation of a national front in each country comprising all nationalist forces and excluding Communists and anti-unionists.

It was on grounds that the Baath party failed to do so that Nasser declared on July 22 that Egypt refused to be bound by the declaration.

Nasser's initial plan is to combine Arab nationalist and unionist forces into one front which he proposed to call "Union of Arab Revolutionary Movements." Nasser does not exclude from this front those elements of the Baath party who still are in his grace.

Nasser contends his dispute is not with the Baath as such but with its present leadership and that the party still has "some good and honest elements."

Egypt already has a national front at home—the Arab Socialist Union with 5.5 million members—which is still in the process of electing its upper-level committees. But the process of extending this union to engulf the Arab world, even if feasible, would take years.

The plan now is to unite Egypt's socialist union with those parties already in operation elsewhere in the Arab world and whose policies and actions are parallel to those of Nasser.

Reliable observers here say that Nasser can count on prompt response from:

—Algeria's National Liberation Front, the ruling power in Algeria today and the best organized national political party.

—Morocco's Union Nationale de Forces Populaires, which leads the opposition to King El Hassan's regime.

—Tunisia's Liberation Front, mostly in exile in Cairo and Algiers.

—Syria's and Iraq's Independents, Unionists and Socialists.

—Aden's powerful People's Socialist party, which has already declared its acceptance to join the proposed united front.

Then there would be the hundreds of exiled and restless nationalists from Saudi Arabia, Jordan and elsewhere to whom the projected front can be an opportunity for organized action.

Already Cairo is buzzing with rumors that Morocco's dynamic opposition leader, Mehdi Ben Barka, leader of the UNFP, is slated to become secretary-general of the union. Ben Barka, who is in exile from Morocco and alternates residence between Cairo and Algiers, is perhaps the only political party figure who can command the respect of divergent forces that may form the union.

TOPEKA (AP) — Burglars who entered the John C. Graham home here fed the cat but didn't put it out.

A member of the family returned home to find $5 missing, the house in disarray and a stray cat lapping a saucer of milk that had been poured by the burglars in the kitchen.

PE Heating Plant Hearing Set August 28

The Public Service Commission in Baltimore has decided not to postpone a hearing on the application of Potomac Edison Company to abandon its steam heating facilities in Cumberland.

Albert Dean, executive secretary of the PSC, said yesterday that the hearing will be held as originally announced on Wednesday, August 28.

Requests for postponement had been received from several interested Cumberland parties, Dean explained, but in order not to create confusion the Commission has decided to go ahead with the hearing August 28.

"We are very interested in hearing all parties," Dean offered, "therefore we will continue the hearing after August 28 so that all can be heard." He explained that if the hearing had been postponed, some persons might have gone to Baltimore on August 28 only to find the hearing not being held.

Potomac Edison filed a petition with the PSC for permission to abandon its steam heating facilities in Cumberland last month.

PE requested permission to abandon the facility at the earliest practicable date and said it would, at the same time, provide its steam heat customers with an alternative means of heating at PE's expense.

Sixty commercial users in downtown Cumberland would be affected if the steam heat plant is discontinued.

PE said in its petition that the steam heating business has been conducted at a loss and that these operating losses have increased sharply in recent years.

Reservists On Training Tour In Hagerstown

Fifteen men from the Cumberland area have completed their first week of active training with the 9212th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron at the Hagerstown Municipal Airport.

They will complete their 15-day tour of training in the 75-man squadron on August 25.

Cumberland men and their recoveryman positions include Maj. John H. Pfeiffer, education and training officer; M/Sgt. John Shriver, safety technician; M/Sgt. Thomas W. Bever, first sergeant; S/Sgt. William D. Northcraft, intelligence specialist; S/Sgt. John Vocke, accounting and finance specialist, and A/2c Nicholas Bonevac, aircraft repair apprentice.

From LaVale are Maj. Orvil Wolz, air police officer, and M/Sgt. Harry T. Skelley, construction supervisor.

Other area men are S/Sgt. Michael Gaudio, administrative specialist, Eckhart; A/3c McKinley A. Buser, administrative specialist, Lonaconing; S/Sgt. Donald D. Cole, administrative specialist, Ridgeley, and Maj. James Newlin, civil engineering staff officer, Keyser.

Purpose of training is to ready the squadron for its combat assignment in case of national emergency, including general nuclear war. Their assignment is to man the Hagerstown airport to provide an alternate landing strip for U. S. aircraft returning from attacks on the enemy.

It is expected that in case the United States is attacked, regular airbases may be damaged or destroyed.

'Grow Features' Can Save Money In Kids' Clothes

Look for "grow features" when you buy clothes for children. Buying over-sized garments for them to "grow into" makes them look as unsightly and as uncomfortable as clothing that is too small.

Features to look for are deep hems in dresses, deep cuffs in trousers, plenty of material on both sides of seams, adjustable shoulder straps on overalls, jumpers, and skirts. Buy dresses that have high, low, or no waistline seams, and garments that are sleeveless or have raglan or kimono sleeves. Pleats and gathers can be adjusted to growth, and two-piece or "separates" allow for greater growth in height than one-piece garments.

When declarer holds the major tenace in a suit, which of course includes the ace and the queen, proper strategy does not necessarily call for the capture of the adverse king. Declarer must so manage his assets as to produce the required number of tricks for his side, even if it involves giving up a trick to the enemy king. Observe how declarer managed his cards in today's hand.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the queen, which declarer ruffed. At first glance, it appeared to South that this contract was safe if he could find one of two situations to be in his favor. If West held the ace of spades, he was apparently home free for declarer need but lead twice toward the king and queen of spades. If East held the king of clubs, victory was likewise within reach on a simple club finesse.

The only holding to be concerned with is the one in which West holds the king of clubs and East the ace of spades. Declarer decided to play on that basis and led a low club towards the jack, after drawing two trumps. West was obliged to play the king. The club continuation was won in dummy and South returned to his hand with a trump and discarded two of dummy's spades on the ace and queen of clubs. Dummy was now down to the doubleton king-queen of spades and the defense was limited to one trick in that suit.

If South makes the lazy course in clubs by leading dummy's jack for a finesse he will lose the hand because only one discard in the suit can be established, and two spade tricks must eventually be given up. Since he was playing West to hold one of the two missing black honors—a reasonable assumption from the bidding—declarer's object was to make a club play thru West so that the latter would be forced to commit himself in the suit before the dummy's honor was released.

72-Year-Old Cook Hits The Trail

SNYDER, Tex. (AP) — Seventy-two-year-old Chalma Reid has been cooking for round-up crews on Texas ranches for the past 50 years. This year will be no exception. Reid headed out for another season of cooking. He won't be back for about two months when all the calves have been branded.

He cooks on a chuck wagon under a large open-ended tent. This year Reid has a new stove for barbecuing and, before he left Snyder, he bought a new cookbook. His working tools include a three gallon coffee pot and a Dutch oven measuring two feet in diameter.

Frostburg Council Gets Complaint On City Dump

Property Owners Charge Health Board Regulations Violated; Policeman Quits

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council came in for sharp criticism at this week's meeting from Mr. and Mrs. James Spitznas concerning the operation of the city dump on Midlothian Road across from their property.

Spitznas pointed out that he has had to put up with stench and smoke from burning garbage for the past three years, and wanted to know why the city did not operate the dump according to rules set down by the Public Health Department.

Spitznas recalled that a promise was made that all refuse would be compacted and covered at least three times a week, and that there would be no burning.

Mayor Joseph James said the city has been doing everything possible to locate a new site, but is stymied at every turn by the refusal of property owners to sell land that would be suitable. When a site is available, he added, residents halt operations by court proceedings. He said the city felt a responsibility but was unable to come up with a solution at this time.

Burning Prohibited

Street Commissioner William Preston, who has charge of the dump, said he issued orders prohibiting burning and that refuse should be compacted and covered as often as feasible.

Mayor James noted that the Allegany County Commissioners are cooperating with the city in trying to locate another site which could be used on a regional basis.

Ralph Patterson asked the city for a free sewer tap for his property on E street in return for a right-of-way for a sewer line the city recently installed across a lot of his. The request was granted.

Donald Greig wanted to know if the city was going to incorporate a portion of ground off Victoria Lane where he purchased a lot. Council informed him that a thorough investigation will have to be made to see what the city's cost would be for utilities for the area.

Charles Wolfe, Maple Street, asked that Aspinal Street which is close to his residence be regraded to provide parking space for cars. He said that the alley leading into the city parking lot should also be oiled to hold down dust.

A letter from the Centennial Hill Water Company, asking permission to grant a water tap, was approved. The tap will be charged to the annual quota.

Patrolman Resigns

Patrolman Allan Robison of the Police Department submitted his resignation, stating that he had secured employment elsewhere. William H. Lloyd, who has been serving as desk clerk and relief man, was appointed patrolman. George Buckalew, Spring Street, was appointed from the eligible list to be the new desk clerk and relief man for a probationary period of six months.

Commissioner Preston informed council that the Fire Department is complaining that the relief man on the police force was to be appointed from a list submitted by the unit. Firemen said an agreement was entered into by the city and the department when it was decided to have a custodian on duty from midnight to 8 a. m.; that the man hired would be a fireman and that wages would be split even.

Preston said that the present custodian works five nights and that the new relief man works two nights. Half of the work each night is supposed to be in the fire hall and the firemen feel that the man should be a fireman in order to properly work on equipment.

Council passed an ordinance creating the office of building inspector and outlining his duties. The ordinance calls for the inspector to enforce the building code of the city, review all plans for new building construction, inspect while under construction and enforce all regulations relating to construction, repair, demolition and other items pertaining to buildings.

New Quarters Are Opened At Maplehurst

Mrs. J. C. Shryock Is Ribbon Cutter

FROSTBURG — Mrs. J. Carter Shryock cut the ribbon barring the entrance of the newly remodeled main floor of The Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg Sunday. The ribbon cutting was followed by an inspection tour of the building and a light buffet was served in the main ballroom overlooking the golf course. Some 250 attended the affair.

Ralph M. Race, vice president of the club acted as master of ceremonies, in the absence of Paul Moulden, president, and presented Olen Rembold, general contractor in charge, and Mrs. Rembold, Springs, Pa.

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, a charter member of Maplehurst spoke briefly of the many previous and unsuccessful efforts made to bring golfing to Frostburg, admitted to his own misgivings nine years ago when Maplehurst was organized and congratulated the club and community upon its present success, wishing it well for the future.

Mrs. Shryock was presented as the widow of J. Carter Shryock and mother of James Fuller ("Pete") Shryock, both very active in the establishment of Maplehurst and members of the original and second board of directors respectively. Mrs. Shryock talked on the theme, "Three is the Charm," and related her late husband's part in two previous attempts to organize a country club for the Frostburg area, as well as his contribution to Maplehurst.

She added that her own ambition always had been to cut a ribbon on an important occasion such as this. Although disappointed twice when she almost had been honored at a bridge opening and the dedication of a new highway, here again the third time was the charm. Presented with a formidable pair of scissors by Mr. Rembold, Mrs. Shryock then cut the ribbon and declared the building open for inspection.

The annual anniversary dance, postponed from June 10 for completion of the improvements, was held Saturday night with some 250 couples in attendance. The next large dance for members and guests will be Saturday, August 31.

Damages from a fire that swept the University Auto Supply building in Frostburg late Monday night are shown here as viewed yesterday. The building was destroyed along with all equipment and supplies. The structure housed the supply company and a small snack bar recently opened. Edward Thomas, owner, said he knew of no reason for the fire. He was called about 11 p. m. Monday by a tenant in the trailer court at the rear of the building saying the structure was on fire. By the time the fire company was called and arrived the building was a mass of flames. Dirt Street Problem Aired At Westernport

Council Visited By Delegations

WESTERNPORT — A delegation of Maryland Avenue residents appealed again to the mayor and council, at their meeting Monday evening, for some action concerning dust and debris on the street.

They claim the nuisance is the result of heavy traffic of large trucks from the waste treatment plant entering the street from a dirt road connecting the plant. Hard surfacing of this road would alleviate the dust situation, they maintain.

The group stated they have written to the County Commissioners, the Upper Potomac River Commission and the Governor and have previously appeared before the town officials, with no results.

Recognizing the many public spirited interests of the Luke Mill of the W. Va. Pulp and Paper Company, especially that of bringing the waste treatment plant to this locality for the benefit of the communities, Ivan Wilson, spokesman requested Mayor Ray L. Wilt and the town commissioners to meet with officials of the mill and prevail upon them for some action on this problem.

Until this private road has been hard surfaced, the delegation requested the town to sweep and wash the avenue as often as possible. The group was comprised of Vernon Frye, Ernest Fleek, George Angle, Eugene Haines, Donald VanPelt, Robert Grant, Charles E. Hickerson and Ivon Wilson.

A group of town employes was present to request an increase in their hourly wages. They were Bernard Guy, Ramsey McDonald, Daryl McKenzie, Francis Mertz, Ellis Friend, Thomas Johnson, Robert Wilt and police officers James Evans and Albert Johnston. The men discussed at length, the many problems encountered in the course of their work which, they feel deserves extra consideration. The amount of a pay raise was not suggested.

Mayor Wilt informed the group the town had discussed a raise in their wages and their decision would be announced at the next council meeting. It was decided that they have an hour for lunch.

The lumber for Waverly Street bridge repairs is expected to be delivered soon. The cost of the material will be $1,500 F.O.B. to Westernport. At that time the bridge will be closed and construction begun immediately, councilmen said.

Communications read by Louis Hicks, assistant clerk, included complaints from Adrian Rankin concerning noise and the destruction of property by children; Mrs. French Coonts, Maryland Avenue, desiring a light near her home and Mrs. Lillian Patrick, requesting an adjustment on the water bill for her property on Morrison Street. It was decided to comply with the latter and investigate the other two.

The monthly trash collection will be made Monday September 2 and the next meeting of the council will be September 9.

will address the Distinguished Guests' Dinner in the W. W. Barron Armory on Thursday, October 3. This event is one of the highlights of the social agenda for the festival and is annually attended by several hundred persons.

Guests will include Queen Silvia XXVII, Miss Ann Clayton Bradt of Martinsburg, the 45 members of her court and their families, Gov. W. W. Barron, state and federal officials, visiting dignitaries and festival committee chairmen.

Sen. Jennings Randolph of Elkins, who announced Udall's acceptance of the festival invitation, said the Secretary of Interior has delayed his departure on a European trip to come to Elkins for the festival kick-off.

Top Federal Official

"Since our festival is to dramatize the forest beauty and tress, the need for conserving nature's abundant gifts, Udall is the top federal official interested in our mission", said Phil K. Harness, festival director-general.

Under Udall's direction are such agencies as Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management and Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Since his appointment by President Kennedy two years ago, Udall has taken an active role in pressing for vital natural resource conservation programs and views the need for increased public awareness of and support for resource conservation programs as a pressing issue of the 1960's.

Udall, a Congressman from Arizona for three terms, resigned his seat to become the first Arizonian to serve in the President's Cabinet. He was succeeded in the House of Representatives by his younger brother, Morris K. Udall. The Udall brothers practiced law together in Tucson.

Served As Gunner

Secretary Udall's education was interrupted by service during World War II. He was on combat duty with the 15th Air Force in Europe as an enlisted gunner on B-24 Liberators. Following World War II, he resumed his education at the University of Arizona where he received his law degree in 1948.

Secretary Udall married Ermalee Webb of Mesa, Arizona, while they were attending the University of Arizona. They have six children.

Secretary Udall says, "The demands of a growing industrial society at home and the Nation's commitments to defend freedom abroad present us with a serious resource gap. Whether our resources prove adequate to meet our needs tomorrow will be determined by the decisions we make, or fail to make, today. This is the moment of decision in natural resource conservation and our actions and dedication toward sound conservation during the next years will set the character of this Nation for generations to come."

Frostburg Council Gets Complaint On City Dump

Property Owners Charge Health Board Regulations Violated; Policeman Quits

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council came in for sharp criticism at this week's meeting from Mr. and Mrs. James Spitznas concerning the operation of the city dump on Midlothian Road across from their property.

Spitznas pointed out that he has had to put up with stench and smoke from burning garbage for the past three years, and wanted to know why the city did not operate the dump according to rules set down by the Public Health Department.

Spitznas recalled that a promise was made that all refuse would be compacted and covered at least three times a week, and that there would be no burning.

Mayor Joseph James said the city has been doing everything possible to locate a new site, but is stymied at every turn by the refusal of property owners to sell land that would be suitable. When a site is available, he added, residents halt operations by court proceedings. He said the city felt a responsibility but was unable to come up with a solution at this time.

Burning Prohibited

Street Commissioner William Preston, who has charge of the dump, said he issued orders prohibiting burning and that refuse should be compacted and covered as often as feasible.

Mayor James noted that the Allegany County Commissioners are cooperating with the city in trying to locate another site which could be used on a regional basis.

Ralph Patterson asked the city for a free sewer tap for his property on E street in return for a right-of-way for a sewer line the city recently installed across a lot of his. The request was granted.

Donald Greig wanted to know if the city was going to incorporate a portion of ground off Victoria Lane where he purchased a lot. Council informed him that a thorough investigation will have to be made to see what the city's cost would be for utilities for the area.

Charles Wolfe, Maple Street, asked that Aspinal Street which is close to his residence be regraded to provide parking space for cars. He said that the alley leading into the city parking lot should also be oiled to hold down dust.

A letter from the Centennial Hill Water Company, asking permission to grant a water tap, was approved. The tap will be charged to the annual quota.

Patrolman Resigns

Patrolman Allan Robison of the Police Department submitted his resignation, stating that he had secured employment elsewhere. William H. Lloyd, who has been serving as desk clerk and relief man, was appointed patrolman. George Buckalew, Spring Street, was appointed from the eligible list to be the new desk clerk and relief man for a probationary period of six months.

Commissioner Preston informed council that the Fire Department is complaining that the relief man on the police force was to be appointed from a list submitted by the unit. Firemen said an agreement was entered into by the city and the department when it was decided to have a custodian on duty from midnight to 8 a. m.; that the man hired would be a fireman and that wages would be split even.

Preston said that the present custodian works five nights and that the new relief man works two nights. Half of the work each night is supposed to be in the fire hall and the firemen feel that the man should be a fireman in order to properly work on equipment.

Council passed an ordinance creating the office of building inspector and outlining his duties. The ordinance calls for the inspector to enforce the building code of the city, review all plans for new building construction, inspect while under construction and enforce all regulations relating to construction, repair, demolition and other items pertaining to buildings.

New Quarters Are Opened At Maplehurst

Mrs. J. C. Shryock Is Ribbon Cutter

FROSTBURG — Mrs. J. Carter Shryock cut the ribbon barring the entrance of the newly remodeled main floor of The Maplehurst Country Club at Frostburg Sunday. The ribbon cutting was followed by an inspection tour of the building and a light buffet was served in the main ballroom overlooking the golf course. Some 250 attended the affair.

Ralph M. Race, vice president of the club acted as master of ceremonies, in the absence of Paul Moulden, president, and presented Olen Rembold, general contractor in charge, and Mrs. Rembold, Springs, Pa.

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, a charter member of Maplehurst spoke briefly of the many previous and unsuccessful efforts made to bring golfing to Frostburg, admitted to his own misgivings nine years ago when Maplehurst was organized and congratulated the club and community upon its present success, wishing it well for the future.

Mrs. Shryock was presented as the widow of J. Carter Shryock and mother of James Fuller ("Pete") Shryock, both very active in the establishment of Maplehurst and members of the original and second board of directors respectively. Mrs. Shryock talked on the theme, "Three is the Charm," and related her late husband's part in two previous attempts to organize a country club for the Frostburg area, as well as his contribution to Maplehurst.

She added that her own ambition always had been to cut a ribbon on an important occasion such as this. Although disappointed twice when she almost had been honored at a bridge opening and the dedication of a new highway, here again the third time was the charm. Presented with a formidable pair of scissors by Mr. Rembold, Mrs. Shryock then cut the ribbon and declared the building open for inspection.

The annual anniversary dance, postponed from June 10 for completion of the improvements, was held Saturday night with some 250 couples in attendance. The next large dance for members and guests will be Saturday, August 31.

During the afternoon the golf course was occupied by a large number of players engaged in a "Scotch Foursome" tournament, in which two players alternately play one ball. The winners were Eugene Hilton and Mrs. James Donague, with a 48/18/30 net.

Runners-up were tied with a 47/16/31 net for Harold Conrad Jr. and Mrs. William Bernard even with Boyd Bolyard and Mrs. Victor Wonn.

Dirt Street Problem Aired At Westernport

Council Visited By Delegations

WESTERNPORT — A delegation of Maryland Avenue residents appealed again to the mayor and council, at their meeting Monday evening, for some action concerning dust and debris on the street.

They claim the nuisance is the result of heavy traffic of large trucks from the waste treatment plant entering the street from a dirt road connecting the plant. Hard surfacing of this road would alleviate the dust situation, they maintain.

The group stated they have written to the County Commissioners, the Upper Potomac River Commission and the Governor and have previously appeared before the town officials, with no results.

Recognizing the many public spirited interests of the Luke Mill of the W. Va. Pulp and Paper Company, especially that of bringing the waste treatment plant to this locality for the benefit of the communities, Ivan Wilson, spokesman requested Mayor Ray L. Wilt and the town commissioners to meet with officials of the mill and prevail upon them for some action on this problem.

Until this private road has been hard surfaced, the delegation requested the town to sweep and wash the avenue as often as possible. The group was comprised of Vernon Frye, Ernest Fleek, George Angle, Eugene Haines, Donald VanPelt, Robert Grant, Charles E. Hickerson and Ivon Wilson.

A group of town employes was present to request an increase in their hourly wages. They were Bernard Guy, Ramsey McDonald, Daryl McKenzie, Francis Mertz, Ellis Friend, Thomas Johnson, Robert Wilt and police officers James Evans and Albert Johnston. The men discussed at length, the many problems encountered in the course of their work which, they feel deserves extra consideration. The amount of a pay raise was not suggested.

Mayor Wilt informed the group the town had discussed a raise in their wages and their decision would be announced at the next council meeting. It was decided that they have an hour for lunch.

The lumber for Waverly Street bridge repairs is expected to be delivered soon. The cost of the material will be $1,500 F.O.B. to Westernport. At that time the bridge will be closed and construction begun immediately, councilmen said.

Communications read by Louis Hicks, assistant clerk, included complaints from Adrian Rankin concerning noise and the destruction of property by children; Mrs. French Coonts, Maryland Avenue, desiring a light near her home and Mrs. Lillian Patrick, requesting an adjustment on the water bill for her property on Morrison Street. It was decided to comply with the latter and investigate the other two.

The monthly trash collection will be made Monday September 2 and the next meeting of the council will be September 9.

ELKINS—Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the Department of Interior, will come to Elkins to help launch activities for the 27th annual Mountain State Forest Festival the first weekend in October.

will address the Distinguished Guests' Dinner in the W. W. Barron Armory on Thursday, October 3. This event is one of the highlights of the social agenda for the festival and is annually attended by several hundred persons.

Guests will include Queen Silvia XXVII, Miss Ann Clayton Bradt of Martinsburg, the 45 members of her court and their families, Gov. W. W. Barron, state and federal officials, visiting dignitaries and festival committee chairmen.

Sen. Jennings Randolph of Elkins, who announced Udall's acceptance of the festival invitation, said the Secretary of Interior has delayed his departure on a European trip to come to Elkins for the festival kick-off.

Top Federal Official

"Since our festival is to dramatize the forest beauty and tress, the need for conserving nature's abundant gifts, Udall is the top federal official interested in our mission", said Phil K. Harness, festival director-general.

Under Udall's direction are such agencies as Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management and Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Since his appointment by President Kennedy two years ago, Udall has taken an active role in pressing for vital natural resource conservation programs and views the need for increased public awareness of and support for resource conservation programs as a pressing issue of the 1960's.

Udall, a Congressman from Arizona for three terms, resigned his seat to become the first Arizonian to serve in the President's Cabinet. He was succeeded in the House of Representatives by his younger brother, Morris K. Udall. The Udall brothers practiced law together in Tucson.

Served As Gunner

Secretary Udall's education was interrupted by service during World War II. He was on combat duty with the 15th Air Force in Europe as an enlisted gunner on B-24 Liberators. Following World War II, he resumed his education at the University of Arizona where he received his law degree in 1948.

Secretary Udall married Ermalee Webb of Mesa, Arizona, while they were attending the University of Arizona. They have six children.

Secretary Udall says, "The demands of a growing industrial society at home and the Nation's commitments to defend freedom abroad present us with a serious resource gap. Whether our resources prove adequate to meet our needs tomorrow will be determined by the decisions we make, or fail to make, today. This is the moment of decision in natural resource conservation and our actions and dedication toward sound conservation during the next years will set the character of this Nation for generations to come."

Mirage Is Seen In Test Ban Treaty

Although some administration supporters are hinting that approval by the Senate of the partial test ban treaty might lead to disarmament agreements with the Soviet Union, Congress and the public exhibit no willingness to go that far.

Not only is caution the prevailing wind when discussing treaties with the Soviet Union, the first step has stiffened American resistance to general disarmament. Part of this resistance may be due to disappointment that the partial test ban treaty does not include the feature most hoped for by early proponents of such a ban.

General disarmament promoters, led by UN Secretary General U Thant, had hoped to use a test ban treaty as a lever. They saw Russian refusal to accept on-site inspections as an obstacle to any disarmament treaty — which it still is—and hoped to work on Russian obstinance on this point by getting the Kremlin to agree to limited inspection of test sites under a test ban.

Not foreseen was the possibility the Russians would agree to a partial test ban, leaving for future negotiations the only type of test requiring inspection. Western nuclear experts feel fairly certain they can detect any detonations in the atmosphere or ocean, but find underground explosions indistinguishable from natural earth tremors.

Significantly, Thant took the occasion of the treaty signing to call for the discontinuance of "all test explosions of nuclear weapons for all times"—without mentioning the inspection obstacle.

Thant also called for a commitment of non-nuclear powers not to permit nuclear weapons on their territories. Such a commitment, of course, would prohibit the United States from maintaining its deterrent nuclear force around the world, a retreat which would prove disastrous to free world defenses.

It is just such gimmicks the American people expect to see popping up on all sides when the professional neutralists and other appeasers get their sights adjusted beyond the "first step."

'I Wasn't Thinking Of Re-Election Then'

Khrushchev Tells Pearson USSR Will Proceed To Reduce Arms

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson has scored another scoop in the following exclusive interview—the first since the test-ban treaty—with Nikita Khrushchev.)

GAGRA, Georgia, U. S. S. R. — Premier Nikita Khrushchev has informed me, in the first exclusive interview after the test ban treaty, that the Soviet would proceed with arms reduction whether the United States reduced or not. "In the field of economics we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you on war preparation," he said.

The interview took place near the dark blue waters of the Black Sea beside Khrushchev's beautiful swimming pool which he demonstrated to Mrs. Agnes Meyer who participated in the interview. The Communist leader was very frank, friendly and careful to say nothing which might upset the new era of better understanding between the USA and the USSR. He also discussed Berlin, a possible summit meeting, the late Pope John and prevention of surprise attack.

His statement on unilateral disarmament came after I recalled a previously published admonition by President John F. Kennedy to Air Force General Curtis LeMay that generals did not need the capacity to destroy Russian cities several thousand times. "General LeMay knows full well his capacity for overkill," replied Khrushchev using Pentagon parlance for estimating the overkilling of an enemy, "but he's under pressure from the arms monopolies which are trying to get as many war orders as possible.

"Regardless of whether the United States stops increasing its arms budget or not we are going to stop increasing ours because we have enough of all these things. You have a lot of dollars and you can go on spending but we will not do that. In the economic field, we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you in war preparation.

Arms Race Absurd

"I believe President Kennedy said the United States could destroy the Soviet Union several times; I can't remember how many times. He also said the Soviet Union could destroy the United States several times. Now, isn't this convincing proof that the arms race is absurd?

"Even without an agreement with the United States, we are not going to spend all this money on arms. For 1964, we will have an arms budget at the same level of 1963 or even less, and in 1965 we will probably reduce allocations for the military even further.

"I will tell you about an episode which occurred about two years ago when we were discussing the reduction of arms. This was a discussion inside our own government," Khrushchev explained. "Some said it was better to link arms reduction with the disarmament talks in Geneva, but we finally told our people it was better to handle it unilaterally because if we tied arms reduction to the talks at Geneva, we would never get anywhere.

"This is what happened. The Geneva talks are still going on but we've reduced arms unilaterally. We've saved fantastic funds and our fire-power is not weaker. It is greater." "The military," Khrushchev concluded, "sometimes don't know when to stop."

The above appears to confirm reports that Khrushchev was having arguments with Red army leaders. He gave me a hint of this when he told me two years ago that military leaders wanted to resume nuclear testing. It was also reported after the Cuban crisis that it was the Red army which insisted on placing missiles in Cuba.

Nikki Can't Understand JFK

Khrushchev was in an entirely different mood then, when we talked beside the same swimming pool two years ago. That was right after his abortive talk with Kennedy in Vienna, when he was greatly concerned over Kennedy dispatching additional U. S. troops to West Germany and his increased budget for long-range bombers. At that time Khrushchev had told me, "I can't understand your young Mr. Kennedy. He has increased his military budget twice since he came into office. However, for every American soldier he sends to West Germany, we can send two to East Germany for we are closer than you."

This time, however, Nikita Sergeavitch, as he is affectionately called by the Russian people, was far more friendly to Kennedy. When I asked him about the possibility of inviting Kennedy to Moscow he indicated this was up to Kennedy. "I don't think I can give you a direct reply," he said. "There is another party which should be asked first."

Regarding a summit meeting, he continued, "I never object to one provided the intentions of the participants are good."

I shall report on Khrushchev's views on Berlin and steps for increasing better relations between the USA and USSR tomorrow.

President, Congress Should Obey "Law Of Land"

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Much talk is heard and much is written about the obligation of everybody to obey "the law of the land." But who says what is "the law of the land?" and if the Supreme Court does, then shouldn't the President and the Congress obey it, too? These questions arise now because, despite rulings in previous decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, Congress is being urged by the administration to pass certain "civil rights" laws which are based on the speculation that the high court will reverse itself.

When, however, Governor Wallace of Alabama and Governor Barnett of Mississippi endeavored to secure a reversal of Supreme Court decisions by challenging them in an orderly way in the lower courts, each of the two governors was widely denounced as defying "the law of the land."

It is being openly asserted now by opponents of the proposed "civil rights" legislatoin that the Supreme Court will in due course invalidate or reverse its 1883 decision denying Congress the right to use the fourteenth amendment to pass federal laws that would, for example, punish a hotel owner if he chose his own customers. The contention advanced in administration circles is that the 1883 decision is "out-of-date" and that the Supreme Court will "modernize" its rulings.

The same 1883 ruling of the high court implied, incidentally, that vehicles or "public conveyances" passing from one state to another might be regulated under the "commerce clause" of the Constitution. But there is nothing in that or any other decision which justifies a confident assumption that the selection of guests by managers of hotels can be regulated by the federal government under any present clause of the Constitution.

What becomes, then, of "the law of the land" and the oath to support and defend the Constitution which all members of Congress, cabinet officers and the President of the United States take when they assume office? Can the department of justice in all conscience recommend passage by Congress of a law which is of doubtful constitutionality, and do so because an ideologically sympathetic Supreme Court is expected to uphold such a statute? Should members of Congress vote for legislation which they believe may be held unconstitutional? Are the jutsices supposed to forget their oath of office and decide cases in tune with "the spirit of the times"?

Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States, in a speech in Chicago a few days ago at the dedication ceremonies of the American Bar center, had some pertinent things to say on the general subject of "legislating" by the courts. He declared:

"Our system of government is being challenged from abroad and readjustments of one kind or another are facing us at home. . . .

Yet it would be shortsighted not to recognize that times like these are bound to produce temptations and pressures to depart from or temporize with traditional constitutional precepts or even to short cut the processes of change which the Constitution establishes. It is the special responsbility of lawyers, whether on or off the bench, to see to it that such things do not happen."

Justice Harlan said one of the current notions is that "deficiencies in our society which have failed of correction by other means should find a cure in the courts," and he cited "impatience with the slowness of political solutions generally." He said there is an "urge for quick and uncompromising panaceas for things that call for reform," but that this view of the "cosmic place of the judiciary is not only inconsistent with the principles of American democratic society but ultimately threatens the integrity of the judicial system itself."

There is plainly a tendency today to "pass the buck" to the Supreme Court. Justice Harlan cited the general expectation that an inadequate statute or one that is "manifestly unwise, harsh, or out-of-date" will be "abrogated by the exercise of the power of judicial review."

Back in 1935, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt urged members of Congress to pass a certain law irrespective of their doubts as to its constitutionality, when he didn't like subsequent court decisions—including one in 1936 invalidating that same law—he tried unsuccessfully in 1937 to get a law through Congress to enable him to enlarge the Supreme Court from nine to a possible fifteen members so he could appoint a new majority to do his bidding. Mr. Roosevelt argued that the process of amending the Constitution in the way prescribed in that document itself was too "time-consuming" and "difficult." He preferred, in effect, amendment of the Constitution by the judiciary.

Twenty-six years have passed since these recommendations were made to a nationwide radio audience by a President of the United States who had sworn to uphold the Constitution, but there is still a feeling that the Supreme Court must respond to the political pressure of the executive. The "new frontiersmen" and the "new dealers" talk the same language — that no matter how the Constitution has been previously construed in the decisions of the Supreme Court, government officials, even though sworn to uphold "the law of the land," must press for new decisions to reverse those of the past.

Justice Harlan's advice to the nation is to avoid the transfer of legislative power to the courts. For, he says, "a function more ill-suited to judges can hardly be imagined, situated as they are, and should be, aloof from the political arena and beholden to no one for their conscientious conduct."

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Nixon Won't Be Scooped

Traditionally, the last man to run for the U.S. Presidency on a defeated ticket remains the titular head of his party until a new nominee is chosen four years later. The lines of titular authority, however, can get pretty scrambled when a beloved ex-President is still around to exert his magnetic attraction. So, when the Republicans form a Citizens Committee and a Critical Issues Council to deal with matters between conventions, it is not unnatural for commentators to remark that the "Eisenhowerites," not the "Nixonites," are stirring.

Let there be no deception, however. Richard Nixon, in moving to the "communications capital" of the U.S. in New York City, is not going to be scooped by any of the Republican "position papers" which a Critical Issues Council stocked with "Eisenhowerites" is expected to turn out. He obviously does not regard his "title" as Republican Party head to be an empty one.

The suggestion that he is in competition with any duly constituted Republican organ must, of course, horrify Nixon. After all, he considers himself to be an "Eisenhowerite" himself. He ran for President with Ike's blessing, and he was always very much in rapport with Eisenhower's Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, on foreign policy matters. Nonetheless, there is a subtle difference between Nixon and other Eisenhowerites. As the titular head of the Republican Party he can go and see on his own, and he has the leader's right to speak without cue. This gives his remarks an authority and a cutting edge that nothing turned out by a committee as a "consensus" could ever have.

Talking last week with this columnist at temporary digs at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, where he is living until his apartment is ready, Nixon defined himself on various matters as no other "Eisenhowerite" has. Fresh from his tour of Europe, which took him behind the Iron Curtain as far east as Budapest, the possible post-operative effects of the nuclear test ban were very much on his mind. What distresses him about the arguments pro and con the desirability of a "thaw" in the Cold War is that they tend to concentrate on the needs of the West for peace on the one hand, and the possibility that Khrushchev may be deceiving us on the other. Forgotten is the probability that the people in all of the Iron Curtain nations between the Berlin wall and Russia proper will be abandoned in the atmosphere that is created in the wake of a test ban.

Nixon was particularly biting when he talked about the "double standard" manifested by U.S. "liberals" in their concern for the extension of freedom. They work themselves up into paroxysms of anguish over apartheid in South Africa or colonialism in Portuguese Angola; they don't like "ghettos" in New York's Harlem or segregation in Birmingham, Ala.

Neither, for that matter, does Nixon. But he notes that Harlemites, in his newly adopted city of New York, are free to take the subway to Times Square. Eastern Europe, on the other hand, is, in Nixon's brooding words, "the worst ghetto in the world." Its greyness, its apathy, appalled him. Budapest, after Vienna, "like night after day," seemed drab and hopeless, but after dipping into East Berlin, Budapest itself seemed almost gay by comparison.

The whole of eastern Europe is a real ghetto because people are denied the right to move around, to demonstrate, to vote. By contrast, the Negroes of the United States are free, for they manifestly do move around, they do demonstrate, and President Kennedy expects them to vote for him in droves in 1964.

Nixon kept stressing the things that might be given first order of priority in any post-test ban negotiations with Khrushchev. Item: the Soviets could be asked to withdraw their troops from eastern Europe. Item: freedom of movement might be demanded for both individuals and populations. Item: the Roman Catholic Church should get freedom to go about its business. Item: walls should be destroyed. Item: Khrushchev could take his technicians out of Cuba. Item: where the rights of Europe are concerned, De Gaulle could be invited to accompany other Western statesmen to Moscow or to Nassau in the Bahamas.

Thus Nixon's "position paper" on negotiating with Khrushchev. If we don't make our demands on the Soviets and quickly, Nixon is afraid that we shall lapse into a new period of uncritical "Popular Frontism" with Communists, which would rot the democracies from within.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ACTIVITY LAG — The Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill is becoming deeply concerted over the public "image" being created by the lack of activity of this session of Congress.

Until the civil rights issue was injected into the session, the leadership defended the inactivity with the prediction that by the end of the summer Congress would have written a record that the Democrats could speak of with pride. But there's been marked change of attitude — and predictions — in the last few weeks.

The Republican minority senses that it has a potentially telling issue on the matter of lack of action, and they're beginning to exploit it — hopefully with the success Harry Truman had in 1948 when he upset the political experts on the issue of the Republican-controlled "Do Nothing" 80th Congress. Almost daily, overtones of accusations of do-nothingness can be discerned in the politically-inspired statements of anti-administration legislators.

Sen. Jacob Javits, New York Republican, has termed the session the "Standstill Congress. . . . The biggest and longest-running show to hit Washington in years." Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, New Jersey Republican, recalls Kennedy's election campaign slogan and jibes: "What about getting Congress moving?" Rep. William H. Ayres of Ohio claims, "We've been hit by a wet sock of apathy."

However, Rep. Joe Martin, who was the speaker during the much-maligned 80th Congress, has a word of caution to younger and more eager members of his party. Says Martin: "I think we had better go slow in criticizing this Congress. A fellow never knows — he might have to take it all back. One of these days they (the Democrats) may start moving. If they do, they can put the whole program through in a week."

A man in Times Square was stabbed because he called a stranger "baldy." Human sensitivity about hair — or lack of it — is difficult to understand, because hair is the most useless component of the human body. It serves no function, except to catch dust. Still, men and women spend hundreds of millions of dollars trying to make it attractive, and I have seen saloon fights start because a man with a head of skin was referred to as Curly, and I've seen marriages teeter because husbands looked at a wifely permanent and said: "My God, hon. Are you hurt?"

Men in increasing numbers buy little roof muffs, variously described as toupees, hair pieces, or temple rugs. They think it makes them look young and virile. Bald men run around assuring everyone that lack of hair is a sign of virility. Both sides make fun of women who tease their hair, torture it, bend it, straighten it, fluff it, clip it, dye it, and come out from under the hot noisy dryer looking like the doggie's dinner.

William R. Vath wrote an article for Today's Health on hair and he says it is a substance composed of 50% carbon, 21% oxygen, 18% nitrogen, 6.7% hydrogen and some sulphur. It is a non-living thing without nerves. Hair may have had a function when the cave man roamed the rocky rills in his pelt. He needed protection for his skin. But now he wears a silk suit and a fedora, and hair is something which is patted and pampered, only to end up on a barbershop floor.

Baldness, as everyone knows, is largely heredity. You can't fool the follicles. My father still has a good head of snowy hair. So have I. But I feel no sense of accomplishment. The Bishops are hairy people period. Lots of hair, nothing under it.

Vath says that people average 120,000 hairs to the head. I had heard that it was closer to 140,000. Blondes have more hair than brunettes, and brunettes average more than redheads, who seldom reach 100,000 per head. Hair grows at the rate of a half inch per month. Sub zero weather is one of the few external influences which can retard the growth of hair. Exposure to radiation is another.

It is normal to lose between 50 and 100 hairs each day. They are replaced by the same number of new ones in fresh follicles. When the loss exceeds new growth, baldness is gradual. Dandruff does not cause baldness. Massage and tonics will not slow baldness.

In time, you may look like Dwight D. Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson, Jim Farley, Bing Crosby or Nikita Khrushchev. All of them gave up the comb for the face cloth. Each had a career of sorts. If the ladies can sigh over a cue-ball like Yul Brynner, all is not lost.

For those with excessive vanity, dermatologists are now transplanting hair from behind the ears to spots on top of the head. Vath says they can do it under a local anesthetic. The grafts are spaced carefully across the front of the forehead at regular intervals, and grow well in their new dome home.

Each transplant contains about 15 hairs, and about 15 transplants can be achieved in a one-hour sitting. This comes to 225 hairs. Approximately 300 sittings would be required to make you look like Eddie Fisher, if anyone wanted to look like Eddie Fisher. Few doctors, however, are willing to try a full transplant, even though the areas from which the hair is taken tend to pucker so that no baldness shows.

Instead, they prefer to give the man a "rim" of hair across the front and over the temples. Then, when he adjusts his new toupee, it sits in a nest of real hair. Transplanted hair tends to retain its original characteristics of growth. T sitahywh etaoniaoi growth. That is why hair transplanted from the male chest tends to be kinky and stringy.

If you are a victim of alopecia areanta, give up. This is an unusual type of baldness in which the patient awakens to find patches of hair on his pillow. Often, the hair continues to fall out in unaccountable patches, leaving little shiny racetracks on the head. It requires a year or two for the victim to lose all his hair, but sometimes, it will grow back, colorless at first, then thick and fine.

The whole thing is aligned with the human ego. Care of the scalp has little to do with baldness. Think of the horrible things that women do to their hair without going bald. If abuse could cause hair to fall out, the dyes, sprays and curlers would make most women look like eggplants.

Hair specialists say that worry can make hair fall out. In that case, the men will have to adopt an I-don't-care philosophy. Like "Hair today. . ."

Malnutrition Contributes To Low Productivity

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

An athlete from a primitive community rarely wins an Olympic event. Helsinki's Dr. Martti J. Karvonen believes young men and women from underdeveloped countries have too many handicaps to overcome, including inadequate nutrition.

He found, for example, that the number of points gained per person entered in the 1952 Finnish Olympics was 30.3 for athletes from countries where the average caloric consumption varies between 3,000 and 4,000. It was only 15.3 points in those from areas where the calories consumed per day was low, ranging between 1,500 and 1,999.

The capacity for work among laboring men improves when they eat balanced menus. Substantial amounts of protein and fat raise the caloric content and supply the energy needed for heavy physical work. But huge meals are not as beneficial as several small meals during the day. The more a person eats at one time, the more sleepy and fatigued he becomes. The situation is somewhat similar to eating a Thanksgiving dinner every day.

Good nutrition does not lead to softness and laziness. Consuming too little food reduces performance and often contributes to illness; too much leads to obesity, especially when the body receives more calories than necessary to perform the task at hand. In this respect, prosperous countries need not deteriorate because they live in the lap of luxury.

Hunger and malnutrition in the poorer lands go hand in hand with low productivity, poverty, ignorance, and apathy. Any one of these factors could be singled out as a potent deterrent to economic progress. But inadequate nutrition heads the list because it is difficult to do a day's work without eating staple foods. Furthermore, malnutrition contributes to ill-health. Who can work when he does not feel up to par?

SCARRED VALVES

Mrs. H. D. writes: How does a rheumatic heart affect a person?

REPLY

Most victims are unaware of the scarring of the valves (leakage) or changes in the heart muscle. In time, shortness of breath may develop should the old ticker enlarge and fail to perform normally. Others develop palpitation or fever, depending upon complications.

PAIN AND PILLOWS

E. H. writes: I had one pillow made from two pillows. Ever since I've been sleeping on this big one, I awaken with pain in my shoulders. Do you think smaller pillows are better?

REPLY

Yes. A high pillow may strain the neck unless you rest your shoulders on it.

COSMETIC RASH

E. M. writes: I always have used cologne and toilet water without any reaction but, starting a few months ago, I get an itching rash whenever I apply them. Have I developed an allergy to these products?

REPLY

Yes.

BREAKBONE FEVER

H. N. writes: My son had an attack of dengue fever in World War II. Is this the same as malaria?

REPLY

No. Dengue resembles a superflu, with fever and severe aching.

TOMORROW: Cystitis (bladder infection).

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

An insurance broker in California sent his friends this announcement when his irrepressible 67-year-old mother graduated from college: "I announce with pleasure and relief that my mother finally nailed down her Bachelor of Arts degree this week. A big chicken farmer from Oregon went to Las Vegas one weekend and won ten thousand dollars. "Turn the chickens loose," he ordered his wife by long distance, "and join me for a trip around the world."

Six months later the two of them were back in the U.S.A. and broke. "Well," sighed the farmer, "it's home to Oregon for us, I guess." "To recoup our losses?" suggested his wife. "No," said the farmer, "to re-coop our chickens."

Mirage Is Seen In Test Ban Treaty

Although some administration supporters are hinting that approval by the Senate of the partial test ban treaty might lead to disarmament agreements with the Soviet Union, Congress and the public exhibit no willingness to go that far.

Not only is caution the prevailing wind when discussing treaties with the Soviet Union, the first step has stiffened American resistance to general disarmament. Part of this resistance may be due to disappointment that the partial test ban treaty does not include the feature most hoped for by early proponents of such a ban.

General disarmament promoters, led by UN Secretary General U Thant, had hoped to use a test ban treaty as a lever. They saw Russian refusal to accept on-site inspections as an obstacle to any disarmament treaty — which it still is—and hoped to work on Russian obstinance on this point by getting the Kremlin to agree to limited inspection of test sites under a test ban.

Not foreseen was the possibility the Russians would agree to a partial test ban, leaving for future negotiations the only type of test requiring inspection. Western nuclear experts feel fairly certain they can detect any detonations in the atmosphere or ocean, but find underground explosions indistinguishable from natural earth tremors.

Significantly, Thant took the occasion of the treaty signing to call for the discontinuance of "all test explosions of nuclear weapons for all times"—without mentioning the inspection obstacle.

Thant also called for a commitment of non-nuclear powers not to permit nuclear weapons on their territories. Such a commitment, of course, would prohibit the United States from maintaining its deterrent nuclear force around the world, a retreat which would prove disastrous to free world defenses.

It is just such gimmicks the American people expect to see popping up on all sides when the professional neutralists and other appeasers get their sights adjusted beyond the "first step."

These Days

Nixon Won't Be Scooped

Traditionally, the last man to run for the U.S. Presidency on a defeated ticket remains the titular head of his party until a new nominee is chosen four years later. The lines of titular authority, however, can get pretty scrambled when a beloved ex-President is still around to exert his magnetic attraction. So, when the Republicans form a Citizens Committee and a Critical Issues Council to deal with matters between conventions, it is not unnatural for commentators to remark that the "Eisenhowerites," not the "Nixonites," are stirring.

Let there be no deception, however. Richard Nixon, in moving to the "communications capital" of the U.S. in New York City, is not going to be scooped by any of the Republican "position papers" which a Critical Issues Council stocked with "Eisenhowerites" is expected to turn out. He obviously does not regard his "title" as Republican Party head to be an empty one.

The suggestion that he is in competition with any duly constituted Republican organ must, of course, horrify Nixon. After all, he considers himself to be an "Eisenhowerite" himself. He ran for President with Ike's blessing, and he was always very much in rapport with Eisenhower's Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, on foreign policy matters. Nonetheless, there is a subtle difference between Nixon and other Eisenhowerites. As the titular head of the Republican Party he can go and see on his own, and he has the leader's right to speak without cue. This gives his remarks an authority and a cutting edge that nothing turned out by a committee as a "consensus" could ever have.

Talking last week with this columnist at temporary digs at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, where he is living until his apartment is ready, Nixon defined himself on various matters as no other "Eisenhowerite" has. Fresh from his tour of Europe, which took him behind the Iron Curtain as far east as Budapest, the possible post-operative effects of the nuclear test ban were very much on his mind. What distresses him about the arguments pro and con the desirability of a "thaw" in the Cold War is that they tend to concentrate on the needs of the West for peace on the one hand, and the possibility that Khrushchev may be deceiving us on the other. Forgotten is the probability that the people in all of the Iron Curtain nations between the Berlin wall and Russia proper will be abandoned in the atmosphere that is created in the wake of a test ban.

Nixon was particularly biting when he talked about the "double standard" manifested by U.S. "liberals" in their concern for the extension of freedom. They work themselves up into paroxysms of anguish over apartheid in South Africa or colonialism in Portuguese Angola; they don't like "ghettos" in New York's Harlem or segregation in Birmingham, Ala.

Neither, for that matter, does Nixon. But he notes that Harlemites, in his newly adopted city of New York, are free to take the subway to Times Square. Eastern Europe, on the other hand, is, in Nixon's brooding words, "the worst ghetto in the world." Its greyness, its apathy, appalled him. Budapest, after Vienna, "like night after day," seemed drab and hopeless, but after dipping into East Berlin, Budapest itself seemed almost gay by comparison.

The whole of eastern Europe is a real ghetto because people are denied the right to move around, to demonstrate, to vote. By contrast, the Negroes of the United States are free, for they manifestly do move around, they do demonstrate, and President Kennedy expects them to vote for him in droves in 1964.

Nixon kept stressing the things that might be given first order of priority in any post-test ban negotiations with Khrushchev. Item: the Soviets could be asked to withdraw their troops from eastern Europe. Item: freedom of movement might be demanded for both individuals and populations. Item: the Roman Catholic Church should get freedom to go about its business. Item: walls should be destroyed. Item: Khrushchev could take his technicians out of Cuba. Item: where the rights of Europe are concerned, De Gaulle could be invited to accompany other Western statesmen to Moscow or to Nassau in the Bahamas.

Thus Nixon's "position paper" on negotiating with Khrushchev. If we don't make our demands on the Soviets and quickly, Nixon is afraid that we shall lapse into a new period of uncritical "Popular Frontism" with Communists, which would rot the democracies from within.

'I Wasn't Thinking Of Re-Election Then'

Khrushchev Tells Pearson USSR Will Proceed To Reduce Arms

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson has scored another scoop in the following exclusive interview—the first since the test-ban treaty—with Nikita Khrushchev.)

GAGRA, Georgia, U. S. S. R. — Premier Nikita Khrushchev has informed me, in the first exclusive interview after the test ban treaty, that the Soviet would proceed with arms reduction whether the United States reduced or not. "In the field of economics we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you on war preparation," he said.

The interview took place near the dark blue waters of the Black Sea beside Khrushchev's beautiful swimming pool which he demonstrated to Mrs. Agnes Meyer who participated in the interview. The Communist leader was very frank, friendly and careful to say nothing which might upset the new era of better understanding between the USA and the USSR. He also discussed Berlin, a possible summit meeting, the late Pope John and prevention of surprise attack.

His statement on unilateral disarmament came after I recalled a previously published admonition by President John F. Kennedy to Air Force General Curtis LeMay that generals did not need the capacity to destroy Russian cities several thousand times. "General LeMay knows full well his capacity for overkill," replied Khrushchev using Pentagon parlance for estimating the overkilling of an enemy, "but he's under pressure from the arms monopolies which are trying to get as many war orders as possible.

"Regardless of whether the United States stops increasing its arms budget or not we are going to stop increasing ours because we have enough of all these things. You have a lot of dollars and you can go on spending but we will not do that. In the economic field, we will compete with you, but we won't compete with you in war preparation.

Arms Race Absurd

"I believe President Kennedy said the United States could destroy the Soviet Union several times; I can't remember how many times. He also said the Soviet Union could destroy the United States several times. Now, isn't this convincing proof that the arms race is absurd?

"Even without an agreement with the United States, we are not going to spend all this money on arms. For 1964, we will have an arms budget at the same level of 1963 or even less, and in 1965 we will probably reduce allocations for the military even further.

"I will tell you about an episode which occurred about two years ago when we were discussing the reduction of arms. This was a discussion inside our own government," Khrushchev explained. "Some said it was better to link arms reduction with the disarmament talks in Geneva, but we finally told our people it was better to handle it unilaterally because if we tied arms reduction to the talks at Geneva, we would never get anywhere.

"This is what happened. The Geneva talks are still going on but we've reduced arms unilaterally. We've saved fantastic funds and our fire-power is not weaker. It is greater." "The military," Khrushchev concluded, "sometimes don't know when to stop."

The above appears to confirm reports that Khrushchev was having arguments with Red army leaders. He gave me a hint of this when he told me two years ago that military leaders wanted to resume nuclear testing. It was also reported after the Cuban crisis that it was the Red army which insisted on placing missiles in Cuba.

Nikki Can't Understand JFK

Khrushchev was in an entirely different mood then, when we talked beside the same swimming pool two years ago. That was right after his abortive talk with Kennedy in Vienna, when he was greatly concerned over Kennedy dispatching additional U. S. troops to West Germany and his increased budget for long-range bombers. At that time Khrushchev had told me, "I can't understand your young Mr. Kennedy. He has increased his military budget twice since he came into office. However, for every American soldier he sends to West Germany, we can send two to East Germany for we are closer than you."

This time, however, Nikita Sergeavitch, as he is affectionately called by the Russian people, was far more friendly to Kennedy. When I asked him about the possibility of inviting Kennedy to Moscow he indicated this was up to Kennedy. "I don't think I can give you a direct reply," he said. "There is another party which should be asked first."

Regarding a summit meeting, he continued, "I never object to one provided the intentions of the participants are good."

I shall report on Khrushchev's views on Berlin and steps for increasing better relations between the USA and USSR tomorrow.

President, Congress Should Obey "Law Of Land"

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Much talk is heard and much is written about the obligation of everybody to obey "the law of the land." But who says what is "the law of the land?" and if the Supreme Court does, then shouldn't the President and the Congress obey it, too? These questions arise now because, despite rulings in previous decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, Congress is being urged by the administration to pass certain "civil rights" laws which are based on the speculation that the high court will reverse itself.

When, however, Governor Wallace of Alabama and Governor Barnett of Mississippi endeavored to secure a reversal of Supreme Court decisions by challenging them in an orderly way in the lower courts, each of the two governors was widely denounced as defying "the law of the land."

It is being openly asserted now by opponents of the proposed "civil rights" legislatoin that the Supreme Court will in due course invalidate or reverse its 1883 decision denying Congress the right to use the fourteenth amendment to pass federal laws that would, for example, punish a hotel owner if he chose his own customers. The contention advanced in administration circles is that the 1883 decision is "out-of-date" and that the Supreme Court will "modernize" its rulings.

The same 1883 ruling of the high court implied, incidentally, that vehicles or "public conveyances" passing from one state to another might be regulated under the "commerce clause" of the Constitution. But there is nothing in that or any other decision which justifies a confident assumption that the selection of guests by managers of hotels can be regulated by the federal government under any present clause of the Constitution.

What becomes, then, of "the law of the land" and the oath to support and defend the Constitution which all members of Congress, cabinet officers and the President of the United States take when they assume office? Can the department of justice in all conscience recommend passage by Congress of a law which is of doubtful constitutionality, and do so because an ideologically sympathetic Supreme Court is expected to uphold such a statute? Should members of Congress vote for legislation which they believe may be held unconstitutional? Are the jutsices supposed to forget their oath of office and decide cases in tune with "the spirit of the times"?

Associate Justice John M. Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States, in a speech in Chicago a few days ago at the dedication ceremonies of the American Bar center, had some pertinent things to say on the general subject of "legislating" by the courts. He declared:

"Our system of government is being challenged from abroad and readjustments of one kind or another are facing us at home. . . .

Yet it would be shortsighted not to recognize that times like these are bound to produce temptations and pressures to depart from or temporize with traditional constitutional precepts or even to short cut the processes of change which the Constitution establishes. It is the special responsbility of lawyers, whether on or off the bench, to see to it that such things do not happen."

Justice Harlan said one of the current notions is that "deficiencies in our society which have failed of correction by other means should find a cure in the courts," and he cited "impatience with the slowness of political solutions generally." He said there is an "urge for quick and uncompromising panaceas for things that call for reform," but that this view of the "cosmic place of the judiciary is not only inconsistent with the principles of American democratic society but ultimately threatens the integrity of the judicial system itself."

There is plainly a tendency today to "pass the buck" to the Supreme Court. Justice Harlan cited the general expectation that an inadequate statute or one that is "manifestly unwise, harsh, or out-of-date" will be "abrogated by the exercise of the power of judicial review."

Back in 1935, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt urged members of Congress to pass a certain law irrespective of their doubts as to its constitutionality, when he didn't like subsequent court decisions—including one in 1936 invalidating that same law—he tried unsuccessfully in 1937 to get a law through Congress to enable him to enlarge the Supreme Court from nine to a possible fifteen members so he could appoint a new majority to do his bidding. Mr. Roosevelt argued that the process of amending the Constitution in the way prescribed in that document itself was too "time-consuming" and "difficult." He preferred, in effect, amendment of the Constitution by the judiciary.

Twenty-six years have passed since these recommendations were made to a nationwide radio audience by a President of the United States who had sworn to uphold the Constitution, but there is still a feeling that the Supreme Court must respond to the political pressure of the executive. The "new frontiersmen" and the "new dealers" talk the same language — that no matter how the Constitution has been previously construed in the decisions of the Supreme Court, government officials, even though sworn to uphold "the law of the land," must press for new decisions to reverse those of the past.

Justice Harlan's advice to the nation is to avoid the transfer of legislative power to the courts. For, he says, "a function more ill-suited to judges can hardly be imagined, situated as they are, and should be, aloof from the political arena and beholden to no one for their conscientious conduct."

It requires a year or two for the victim to lose all his hair, but sometimes, it will grow back, colorless at first, then thick and fine.

The whole thing is aligned with the human ego. Care of the scalp has little to do with baldness. Think of the horrible things that women do to their hair without going bald. If abuse could cause hair to fall out, the dyes, sprays and curlers would make most women look like eggplants.

Hair specialists say that worry can make hair fall out. In that case, the men will have to adopt an I-don't-care philosophy. Like "Hair today. . ."

Malnutrition Contributes To Low Productivity

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

An athlete from a primitive community rarely wins an Olympic event. Helsinki's Dr. Martti J. Karvonen believes young men and women from underdeveloped countries have too many handicaps to overcome, including inadequate nutrition.

He found, for example, that the number of points gained per person entered in the 1952 Finnish Olympics was 30.3 for athletes from countries where the average caloric consumption varies between 3,000 and 4,000. It was only 15.3 points in those from areas where the calories consumed per day was low, ranging between 1,500 and 1,999.

The capacity for work among laboring men improves when they eat balanced menus. Substantial amounts of protein and fat raise the caloric content and supply the energy needed for heavy physical work. But huge meals are not as beneficial as several small meals during the day. The more a person eats at one time, the more sleepy and fatigued he becomes. The situation is somewhat similar to eating a Thanksgiving dinner every day.

Good nutrition does not lead to softness and laziness. Consuming too little food reduces performance and often contributes to illness; too much leads to obesity, especially when the body receives more calories than necessary to perform the task at hand. In this respect, prosperous countries need not deteriorate because they live in the lap of luxury.

Hunger and malnutrition in the poorer lands go hand in hand with low productivity, poverty, ignorance, and apathy. Any one of these factors could be singled out as a potent deterrent to economic progress. But inadequate nutrition heads the list because it is difficult to do a day's work without eating staple foods. Furthermore, malnutrition contributes to ill-health. Who can work when he does not feel up to par?

SCARRED VALVES

Mrs. H. D. writes: How does a rheumatic heart affect a person?

REPLY

Most victims are unaware of the scarring of the valves (leakage) or changes in the heart muscle. In time, shortness of breath may develop should the old ticker enlarge and fail to perform normally. Others develop palpitation or fever, depending upon complications.

PAIN AND PILLOWS

E. H. writes: I had one pillow made from two pillows. Ever since I've been sleeping on this big one, I awaken with pain in my shoulders. Do you think smaller pillows are better?

REPLY

Yes. A high pillow may strain the neck unless you rest your shoulders on it.

COSMETIC RASH

E. M. writes: I always have used cologne and toilet water without any reaction but, starting a few months ago, I get an itching rash whenever I apply them. Have I developed an allergy to these products?

REPLY

Yes.

BREAKBONE FEVER

H. N. writes: My son had an attack of dengue fever in World War II. Is this the same as malaria?

REPLY

No. Dengue resembles a superflu, with fever and severe aching.

TOMORROW: Cystitis (bladder infection).

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

An insurance broker in California sent his friends this announcement when his irrepressible 67-year-old mother graduated from college: "I announce with pleasure and relief that my mother finally nailed down her Bachelor of Arts degree this week. Cleveland's Dick Donovan Is Victor Over Whitey Ford In 2-1 Duel

Yankee Threat In 9th Halted By Double Play

Berra Fails With Bases Full; Tribe Wins 1st In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Donovan induced pinch hitter Yogi Berra to bounce into a game-ending double play that preserved a 2-1 victory for the Cleveland Indians over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

The Indians achieved their third straight victory and first of the season at Yankee Stadium when Vic Davalillo's infield single with the bases full drove in the winning run in the top of the ninth.

Donovan, who registered his ninth win against 10 losses, gave up nine hits and had to pitch his way out of a ninth inning jam to beat southpaw Whitey Ford.

Joe Pepitone singled with one out in the Yankee ninth and Elston Howard followed with a two-base hit that sent Pepitone to third. Hector Lopez then was purposely passed to load the bases and player-coach Berra came off the first base coaching line to hit for Clete Boyer.

Berra grounded to first baseman Joe Adcock, who stepped on the bag and then threw to catcher Joe Azcue, who tagged Pepitone attempting to score.

Ford, charged with his seventh loss compared with 17 victories, survived bases-loaded jams in the seventh and eighth innings but wasn't as fortunate in the ninth.

Woody Held doubled with one out in the Cleveland ninth and Donovan walked. Jerry Kindall beat out an infield single to fill the bases and Davalillo then got his winning hit that bounced off shortstop Tony Kubek's glove.

Donovan had a string of 25 consecutive scoreless innings snapped in the sixth when the Yanks scored their only run on Bobby Richardson's triple and John Blanchard's infield out.

The Indians scored their first run in the fifth on a walk, a wild pitch and Azcue's single.

Butts Awarded $3,060,000 Judgment On The Ground Magazine Libeled Him

Federal Court Jury Rules Wally Was Damaged By Story

By O. P. HANES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Wally Butts, former Georgia football coach, was awarded a $3,060,000 judgment Tuesday against the Saturday Evening Post on the ground that the magazine libeled him.

In one of the biggest libel judgments on record, a federal court jury ruled that Butts was damaged by a March 23 Post story saying he gave secret information to Coach Paul Bryant of Alabama before the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama won 35-0.

Breaks Into Tears

Butts broke into tears as the verdict was announced.

For the 58-year-old former athletic director and coach at the University of Georgia, it was a vindication of what he had been saying—that he was innocent of the accusations.

The jury, considering his $10-million libel suit that took 11 days to try, awarded Butts money on two grounds: for general damage, $60,000 and for punitive purposes, $3 million.

Butts had charged, and the jury agreed, that there was malice in publication of the article.

The Saturday Evening Post, published by Curtis Publishing Co., immediately announced it would appeal.

Soon after the verdict, Butts told a news conference:

"I feel very humble and grateful, particularly to the people who have stood by me throughout this trial and the days which preceded it."

He said he hoped to get a good rest and then return to coaching.

Another Suit Ahead

Ahead for the Post lay another libel suit that stemmed from the article—a $10-million one filed by Bryant. No date for trial has been set. He also has filed another suit against the magazine for an earlier article.

The Post article, written by Frank Graham Jr., said an Atlanta insurance salesman had overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

The salesman, George P. Burnett, was quoted as saying he had been accidentally cut into the phone call and heard Butts spilling game secrets to Bryant.

John Gregory, Georgia Grid Aide, Fired

Testified For Butts In $10 Million Suit

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—An assistant football coach at the University of Georgia who testified for Wallace Butts in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post was relieved of his duties Tuesday by Coach Johnny Griffith.

A Federal court jury awarded Butts $3,060,000 earlier in the day. Griffith testified for the Post in the suit.

Griffith said defensive line coach John Gregory was replaced by assistant coach Wyatt Posey.

Griffith made this statement:

"As head football coach I have the responsibility for selecting assistant coaches and assigning their responsibilities. I have discussed with Coach Gregory his assignment for the coming season and have recommended that he be paid the remainder of the year but will have no specific football coaching assignment."

At the trial, Gregory discounted notes which Atlanta insurance salesman George Burnett said he took when he was accidentally cut into a telephone call between Butts and Alabama Coach Paul Bryant. Burnett said he heard Butts giving Georgia football secrets to Bryant in the call before the Georgia-Alabama game last year.

Gregory testified the notes were inaccurate as far as Georgia's team was concerned. He said that fear of being fired had caused him to sign a statement saying the information in the notes was vital. He signed a prepared statement for an assistant state attorney general last March.

Aguirre Blanks Minnesota, 6-0

DETROIT (UPI) — Left-hander Hank Aguirre fired a two-hit shutout and Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash slammed home runs Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Colavito's sixth-inning solo home run off starter and loser Lee Stange broke up a scoreless tie, but Detroit added two unearned runs in the seventh and Cash hit a three-run homer off reliever Bill Pleis in the eighth to turn the game into a rout.

Aguirre, who is now 12-11 for the year, with 11 complete games and three shutouts, gave up a single to lead-off batter Lenny Green but then handcuffed the Twins the rest of the way except for Harmon Killebrew's seventh inning single.

Twins' manager Sam Mele and catcher Earl Battey were both ejected during the wild seventh inning after George Smith stole home. The Twins argued that Smith ran out of the base line while eluding Battey's tag.

National Doubles Halted By Rain

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) —The rain came down at Longwood Cricket Club early Tuesday, thereby keeping alive a showery tradition established eight years ago.

In 1955, the U.S. National Doubles tennis championship was washed nearly out of existence. A championship match was played three days after the tournament had been scheduled to end.

A brief but heavy rain early Tuesday so thoroughly soaked the club's 18 grass courts that Longwood officials ordered all play suspended.

Powell Ends 8-Game Victory Streak, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —New York Mets' rookie, Grover Powell, former University of Pennsylvania southpaw, made his first major league start a winning one Tuesday night as he hurled a four-hit, 4-0, shutout over Philadelphia to halt the Phils' winning streak at eight games in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Powell, who had hurled 14 innings in relief prior to his starting assignment, was in trouble on several occasions but always came up with the big pitch in the clutch. He fanned six and walked four while recording his first decision.

The 22-year-old hurler was engaged in a scoreless duel with veteran Cal McLish for seven innings. Then the Mets touched McLish, who had set down 20 men in a row from the first to the eighth, and reliever Jack Baldschun for two runs in the eighth and a pair in the ninth.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Donovan induced pinch hitter Yogi Berra to bounce into a game-ending double play that preserved a 2-1 victory for the Cleveland Indians over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

The Indians achieved their third straight victory and first of the season at Yankee Stadium when Vic Davalillo's infield single with the bases full drove in the winning run in the top of the ninth.

Donovan, who registered his ninth win against 10 losses, gave up nine hits and had to pitch his way out of a ninth inning jam to beat southpaw Whitey Ford.

Joe Pepitone singled with one out in the Yankee ninth and Elston Howard followed with a two-base hit that sent Pepitone to third. Hector Lopez then was purposely passed to load the bases and player-coach Berra came off the first base coaching line to hit for Clete Boyer.

Berra grounded to first baseman Joe Adcock, who stepped on the bag and then threw to catcher Joe Azcue, who tagged Pepitone attempting to score.

Ford, charged with his seventh loss compared with 17 victories, survived bases-loaded jams in the seventh and eighth innings but wasn't as fortunate in the ninth.

Woody Held doubled with one out in the Cleveland ninth and Donovan walked. Jerry Kindall beat out an infield single to fill the bases and Davalillo then got his winning hit that bounced off shortstop Tony Kubek's glove.

Donovan had a string of 25 consecutive scoreless innings snapped in the sixth when the Yanks scored their only run on Bobby Richardson's triple and John Blanchard's infield out.

The Indians scored their first run in the fifth on a walk, a wild pitch and Azcue's single.

Federal Court Jury Rules Wally Was Damaged By Story

By O. P. HANES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Wally Butts, former Georgia football coach, was awarded a $3,060,000 judgment Tuesday against the Saturday Evening Post on the ground that the magazine libeled him.

In one of the biggest libel judgments on record, a federal court jury ruled that Butts was damaged by a March 23 Post story saying he gave secret information to Coach Paul Bryant of Alabama before the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama won 35-0.

Breaks Into Tears

Butts broke into tears as the verdict was announced.

For the 58-year-old former athletic director and coach at the University of Georgia, it was a vindication of what he had been saying—that he was innocent of the accusations.

The jury, considering his $10-million libel suit that took 11 days to try, awarded Butts money on two grounds: for general damage, $60,000 and for punitive purposes, $3 million.

Butts had charged, and the jury agreed, that there was malice in publication of the article.

The Saturday Evening Post, published by Curtis Publishing Co., immediately announced it would appeal.

Soon after the verdict, Butts told a news conference:

"I feel very humble and grateful, particularly to the people who have stood by me throughout this trial and the days which preceded it."

He said he hoped to get a good rest and then return to coaching.

Another Suit Ahead

Ahead for the Post lay another libel suit that stemmed from the article—a $10-million one filed by Bryant. No date for trial has been set. He also has filed another suit against the magazine for an earlier article.

The Post article, written by Frank Graham Jr., said an Atlanta insurance salesman had overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

The salesman, George P. Burnett, was quoted as saying he had been accidentally cut into the phone call and heard Butts spilling game secrets to Bryant.

John Gregory, Georgia Grid Aide, Fired

Testified For Butts In $10 Million Suit

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—An assistant football coach at the University of Georgia who testified for Wallace Butts in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post was relieved of his duties Tuesday by Coach Johnny Griffith.

A Federal court jury awarded Butts $3,060,000 earlier in the day. Griffith testified for the Post in the suit.

Griffith said defensive line coach John Gregory was replaced by assistant coach Wyatt Posey.

Griffith made this statement:

"As head football coach I have the responsibility for selecting assistant coaches and assigning their responsibilities. I have discussed with Coach Gregory his assignment for the coming season and have recommended that he be paid the remainder of the year but will have no specific football coaching assignment."

At the trial, Gregory discounted notes which Atlanta insurance salesman George Burnett said he took when he was accidentally cut into a telephone call between Butts and Alabama Coach Paul Bryant. Burnett said he heard Butts giving Georgia football secrets to Bryant in the call before the Georgia-Alabama game last year.

Gregory testified the notes were inaccurate as far as Georgia's team was concerned. He said that fear of being fired had caused him to sign a statement saying the information in the notes was vital. He signed a prepared statement for an assistant state attorney general last March.

Aguirre Blanks Minnesota, 6-0

DETROIT (UPI) — Left-hander Hank Aguirre fired a two-hit shutout and Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash slammed home runs Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Colavito's sixth-inning solo home run off starter and loser Lee Stange broke up a scoreless tie, but Detroit added two unearned runs in the seventh and Cash hit a three-run homer off reliever Bill Pleis in the eighth to turn the game into a rout.

Aguirre, who is now 12-11 for the year, with 11 complete games and three shutouts, gave up a single to lead-off batter Lenny Green but then handcuffed the Twins the rest of the way except for Harmon Killebrew's seventh inning single.

Twins' manager Sam Mele and catcher Earl Battey were both ejected during the wild seventh inning after George Smith stole home. The Twins argued that Smith ran out of the base line while eluding Battey's tag.

National Doubles Halted By Rain

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) —The rain came down at Longwood Cricket Club early Tuesday, thereby keeping alive a showery tradition established eight years ago.

In 1955, the U.S. National Doubles tennis championship was washed nearly out of existence. A championship match was played three days after the tournament had been scheduled to end.

A brief but heavy rain early Tuesday so thoroughly soaked the club's 18 grass courts that Longwood officials ordered all play suspended.

Rain Halts Birds

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore-Los Angeles Angels game was called off Tuesday night because of rain. The Orioles led 4-1 after four innings.

The postponement was rescheduled as part of a twi-night doubleheader Wednesday.

Mets' Rookie Stops Phils

Powell Ends 8-Game Victory Streak, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —New York Mets' rookie, Grover Powell, former University of Pennsylvania southpaw, made his first major league start a winning one Tuesday night as he hurled a four-hit, 4-0, shutout over Philadelphia to halt the Phils' winning streak at eight games in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Powell, who had hurled 14 innings in relief prior to his starting assignment, was in trouble on several occasions but always came up with the big pitch in the clutch. He fanned six and walked four while recording his first decision.

The 22-year-old hurler was engaged in a scoreless duel with veteran Cal McLish for seven innings. Then the Mets touched McLish, who had set down 20 men in a row from the first to the eighth, and reliever Jack Baldschun for two runs in the eighth and a pair in the ninth.

Palmer Earns Crack At $75,000 World Series Of Golf Jackpot

Beats Rodgers, Jacky Cupit In Akron Playoff

Arnold Shoots 69, Plays Boros, Charles, Nicklaus Sept. 7-8

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer proved beyond a doubt that he belongs with the champions when he shot a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to defeat Phil Rodgers and Jacky Cupit and earn a crack at the $75,000 World Series of Golf jackpot.

Playing masterfully over the 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course, Palmer put together a 34-35 in the runaway triumph. Rodgers shot 37-37—74 and Cupit 38-38—76. Palmer held a three-stroke lead over Rodgers and four over Cupit after nine holes.

$50,000 Is Top Prize

His victory enables Palmer to join Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, and British Open champion Bob Charles in the 36-hole play for the top prize of $50,000 in the World Series Sept. 7-8 at Firestone.

Avoiding any need for one of his famous comebacks in the one-round playoff, Palmer went ahead of both Cupit and Rodgers after six holes with a string of pars.

Palmer then birdied the 450-yard, par 4 No. 8 for a three-stroke lead and that was enough to bury both rivals, neither of whom carded a birdie in the entire round.

Although Palmer is the leading money winner with a record $96,955 this year, he failed to win any of the big four tournaments to qualify for the series. When Nicklaus won both the PGA and Master's, a playoff was decided upon to fill the fourth berth.

Palmer and Cupit were picked because they lost to Boros in a playoff for the U.S. Open. Rodgers qualified because he lost to Charles in a playoff for the British Open.

Classic Opens Thursday

The American Golf Classic, which begins at Firestone Thursday.

Palmer, incidentally, won the Classic last year with a four-round course record of 276. Later he tied the course record with a 65 in the first round of the World Series, which he ultimately lost to Nicklaus.

OBSTACLE AHEAD FOR ARNIE—Arnold Palmer, who won a three-man playoff yesterday for a berth in the $75,000 World Series of Golf at Akron, Sept. 7-8, confronted an unusual obstacle on the 17th hole. A temporary television tower blocked his second shot. Arnie, who is watching a workman on the tower in this shot, was allowed to move his ball, which lies in the grass near his right foot. Palmer shot a one-under-par 69 to 74 for Phil Rodgers and 76 for Jacky Cupit. (AP Photofax)

Post Given 30 Days To Appeal Butts' Verdict

Damages In Libel Suit Are Taxable

ATLANTA (UPI) —It may take six months or more to clear up all the legal entanglements surrounding the Wallace Butts' libel award and the tax collector will be waiting when it is resolved.

Butts won the $3,060,000 award Tuesday when a Federal Court jury ruled in his favor and against the Saturday Evening Post which had printed a story saying he rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts' attorney, William Schroder, said the Post has 30 days to appeal the verdict.

To File Appeal

Clay Blair Jr., editor-in - chief of the Post, was in the courtroom when the verdict was announced and said the appeal would be made to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The former Georgia football coach testified during his trial that he was financially insolvent. A reporter asked him at his news conference Tuesday how he expected to get along until he receives the libel award. Butts replied that his many friends and family had stood by him until now and that he expected they would continue to do so.

Butts asked for both general and punitive damages $5 million each.

General damages, of which he was given $60,000, covers loss of earning capacity. Punitive damages awarded Butts amounted to $3 million. The latter is actually a fine imposed for an act wherein the jury believes there was malicious intent to libel or damage.

Damages Taxable

Federal taxes may take a big chunk of the settlement. Although there was no hard and fast ruling from tax authorities, an Internal Revenue Service spokesman in Washington cited a Supreme Court decision which seemed applicable. It said punitive damages—in Butts' case the $3 million award—paid to a person in the libel suit are taxable.

Legal fees and other costs of collecting the judgment may be deducted from the taxable portion of the award if they are connected with a loss of income, the spokesman said.

Raygor yielded only one hit, a single by Cessna in the first inning, and struck out three. The shutout was the first for Barrelville in thirty games this season.

"Boots" Raygor, who obtained two of Corriganville's three hits, singled in the first inning, moved to second when Dick Niner walked and scored the game's only run on a base hit by Gary Butts.

Kenney struck out six Corriganville batters.

Balboa Lad Leads Jaycees' Tourney

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI) —Jeff Riley, a 15-year-old unknown from Balboa, Canal Zone, whipped the best of the mainland teen-aged golfers with a four-under par 35-32—67 Tuesday for the opening round lead in the International Jaycee Junior golf meet.

That put Riley two strokes in front of pre-tournament favorite, 17-year-old Don Iverson, of Lacrosse, Wis., whose 35-34—69 was the best showing he had ever made in four previous trips to this tourney.

Three players were bracketed at one-under par 70s — Tom Jones, Jr. of Valley Hend, Ala. (35-35), Larry White of Chattanooga, Tenn. (37-33), and Bob Rogers, of Lafayette, La. (35-35).

Lefty Leo Mazzone put Mt. Savage on a goose egg diet yesterday as Westernport's regular season champions won at Mt. Savage by the score of 1-0 and marched into the final playoffs in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League.

It was the tenth shutout recorded by a Westernport pitcher this season and the win gave Mazzone an overall record of 9-1. He turned back the home team with two hits and struck out ten.

Arthur Femi also pitched a two-hitter for Mt. Savage and whiffed seven.

Westernport swept the series in two straight, copping the opener by the score of 5-3. It was the 21st victory in 21 outings for Manager Tony Mazzone's team.

The only run of the game was scored in the third inning when Westernport bunched two hits with a walk and fielder's choice.

A sensational running catch by Paul Robison, Mt. Savage left fielder, in the third inning was the fielding highlight.

Westernport will play the winner of the Lonaconing-Frostburg Mounties series in the playoff finals.

Pete Cecil's Hit Breaks Tie In 7th

Pete Cecil's single with the bases loaded in the 7th and final inning broke a tie and gave the Loyal Order of Moose a 2-1 decision over the Caseys yesterday at Stitcher Field in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Hayden Phillips, who replaced Junior Brelsford on the rubber in the 5th inning after the latter developed a sore finger, helped win his own game in the final frame when he led off with a triple. After Donnie Madden and Johnny Price walked to fill the hassocks, Cecil singled to right field to score the winning run.

Brelsford fanned seven during his 4⅔ inning stint on the mound.

Cecil collected three of the Moose team's ten hits and Price garnered a pair of singles. The Caseys were limited to four singles.

Al Martin excelled at the hot corner for the Caseys, handling seven chances without a miscue. Price at third and Madden at second were the fielding stars for the Moose.

Palmer Earns Crack At $75,000 World Series Of Golf Jackpot

Beats Rodgers, Jacky Cupit In Akron Playoff

Arnold Shoots 69, Plays Boros, Charles, Nicklaus Sept. 7-8

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer proved beyond a doubt that he belongs with the champions when he shot a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to defeat Phil Rodgers and Jacky Cupit and earn a crack at the $75,000 World Series of Golf jackpot.

Playing masterfully over the 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course, Palmer put together a 34-35 in the runaway triumph. Rodgers shot 37-37—74 and Cupit 38-38—76. Palmer held a three-stroke lead over Rodgers and four over Cupit after nine holes.

$50,000 Is Top Prize

His victory enables Palmer to join Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, and British Open champion Bob Charles in the 36-hole play for the top prize of $50,000 in the World Series Sept. 7-8 at Firestone.

Avoiding any need for one of his famous comebacks in the one-round playoff, Palmer went ahead of both Cupit and Rodgers after six holes with a string of pars.

Palmer then birdied the 450-yard, par 4 No. 8 for a three-stroke lead and that was enough to bury both rivals, neither of whom carded a birdie in the entire round.

Although Palmer is the leading money winner with a record $96,955 this year, he failed to win any of the big four tournaments to qualify for the series. When Nicklaus won both the PGA and Master's, a playoff was decided upon to fill the fourth berth.

Palmer and Cupit were picked because they lost to Boros in a playoff for the U.S. Open. Rodgers qualified because he lost to Charles in a playoff for the British Open.

Classic Opens Thursday

The American Golf Classic, which begins at Firestone Thursday.

Palmer, incidentally, won the Classic last year with a four-round course record of 276. Later he tied the course record with a 65 in the first round of the World Series, which he ultimately lost to Nicklaus.

OBSTACLE AHEAD FOR ARNIE—Arnold Palmer, who won a three-man playoff yesterday for a berth in the $75,000 World Series of Golf at Akron, Sept. 7-8, confronted an unusual obstacle on the 17th hole. A temporary television tower blocked his second shot. Arnie, who is watching a workman on the tower in this shot, was allowed to move his ball, which lies in the grass near his right foot. Palmer shot a one-under-par 69 to 74 for Phil Rodgers and 76 for Jacky Cupit. (AP Photofax)

Post Given 30 Days To Appeal Butts' Verdict

Damages In Libel Suit Are Taxable

ATLANTA (UPI) —It may take six months or more to clear up all the legal entanglements surrounding the Wallace Butts' libel award and the tax collector will be waiting when it is resolved.

Butts won the $3,060,000 award Tuesday when a Federal Court jury ruled in his favor and against the Saturday Evening Post which had printed a story saying he rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts' attorney, William Schroder, said the Post has 30 days to appeal the verdict.

To File Appeal

Clay Blair Jr., editor-in - chief of the Post, was in the courtroom when the verdict was announced and said the appeal would be made to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The former Georgia football coach testified during his trial that he was financially insolvent. A reporter asked him at his news conference Tuesday how he expected to get along until he receives the libel award. Butts replied that his many friends and family had stood by him until now and that he expected they would continue to do so.

Butts asked for both general and punitive damages $5 million each.

General damages, of which he was given $60,000, covers loss of earning capacity. Punitive damages awarded Butts amounted to $3 million. The latter is actually a fine imposed for an act wherein the jury believes there was malicious intent to libel or damage.

Damages Taxable

Federal taxes may take a big chunk of the settlement. Although there was no hard and fast ruling from tax authorities, an Internal Revenue Service spokesman in Washington cited a Supreme Court decision which seemed applicable. It said punitive damages—in Butts' case the $3 million award—paid to a person in the libel suit are taxable.

Legal fees and other costs of collecting the judgment may be deducted from the taxable portion of the award if they are connected with a loss of income, the spokesman said.

That put Riley two strokes in front of pre-tournament favorite, 17-year-old Don Iverson, of Lacrosse, Wis., whose 35-34—69 was the best showing he had ever made in four previous trips to this tourney.

Three players were bracketed at one-under par 70s — Tom Jones, Jr. of Valley Hend, Ala. (35-35), Larry White of Chattanooga, Tenn. (37-33), and Bob Rogers, of Lafayette, La. (35-35).

California Team Cops L.L. World Series Tilt, 3-2

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Southpaw Dave Sehnem won his own game Tuesday night with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning to give Granada Hills, Calif., a 3-2 victory over Houston, Tex., in the opening of the 17th annual Little League World Series.

Sehnem, who fanned 18, walked none and allowed only seven hits while going the route, singled home Jim Walker with the winning run to put the California entry into the semifinals.

A crowd of 6,000 saw the game go into overtime after the teams were deadlocked, 2-2, at the end of the regulation six innings.

Granada Hills meets Ismir, Turkey, in the semi-finals Thursday. Ismir drew a bye Tuesday when a Japanese team was unable to come here to play.

Stratford, Conn., meets Valley Field, Canada, at 2 p.m. (EDT) Wednesday, while Monterrey, Mexico, plays Duluth, Minn., at 5 p.m. in first-round games.

Cleveland's Dick Donovan Is Victor Over Whitey Ford In 2-1 Duel

Yankee Threat In 9th Halted By Double Play

Berra Fails With Bases Full; Tribe Wins 1st In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Donovan induced pinch hitter Yogi Berra to bounce into a game-ending double play that preserved a 2-1 victory for the Cleveland Indians over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

The Indians achieved their third straight victory and first of the season at Yankee Stadium when Vic Davalillo's infield single with the bases full drove in the winning run in the top of the ninth.

Donovan, who registered his ninth win against 10 losses, gave up nine hits and had to pitch his way out of a ninth inning jam to beat southpaw Whitey Ford.

Joe Pepitone singled with one out in the Yankee ninth and Elston Howard followed with a two-base hit that sent Pepitone to third. Hector Lopez then was purposely passed to load the bases and player-coach Berra came off the first base coaching line to hit for Clete Boyer.

Berra grounded to first baseman Joe Adcock, who stepped on the bag and then threw to catcher Joe Azcue, who tagged Pepitone attempting to score.

Ford, charged with his seventh loss compared with 17 victories, survived bases-loaded jams in the seventh and eighth innings but wasn't as fortunate in the ninth.

Woody Held doubled with one out in the Cleveland ninth and Donovan walked. Jerry Kindall beat out an infield single to fill the bases and Davalillo then got his winning hit that bounced off shortstop Tony Kubek's glove.

Donovan had a string of 25 consecutive scoreless innings snapped in the sixth when the Yanks scored their only run on Bobby Richardson's triple and John Blanchard's infield out.

The Indians scored their first run in the fifth on a walk, a wild pitch and Azcue's single.

Federal Court Jury Rules Wally Was Damaged By Story

By O. P. HANES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Wally Butts, former Georgia football coach, was awarded a $3,060,000 judgment Tuesday against the Saturday Evening Post on the ground that the magazine libeled him.

In one of the biggest libel judgments on record, a federal court jury ruled that Butts was damaged by a March 23 Post story saying he gave secret information to Coach Paul Bryant of Alabama before the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama won 35-0.

Breaks Into Tears

Butts broke into tears as the verdict was announced.

For the 58-year-old former athletic director and coach at the University of Georgia, it was a vindication of what he had been saying—that he was innocent of the accusations.

The jury, considering his $10-million libel suit that took 11 days to try, awarded Butts money on two grounds: for general damage, $60,000 and for punitive purposes, $3 million.

Butts had charged, and the jury agreed, that there was malice in publication of the article.

The Saturday Evening Post, published by Curtis Publishing Co., immediately announced it would appeal.

Soon after the verdict, Butts told a news conference:

"I feel very humble and grateful, particularly to the people who have stood by me throughout this trial and the days which preceded it."

He said he hoped to get a good rest and then return to coaching.

Another Suit Ahead

Ahead for the Post lay another libel suit that stemmed from the article—a $10-million one filed by Bryant. No date for trial has been set. He also has filed another suit against the magazine for an earlier article.

The Post article, written by Frank Graham Jr., said an Atlanta insurance salesman had overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

The salesman, George P. Burnett, was quoted as saying he had been accidentally cut into the phone call and heard Butts spilling game secrets to Bryant.

Mets' Rookie Stops Phils

Powell Ends 8-Game Victory Streak, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —New York Mets' rookie, Grover Powell, former University of Pennsylvania southpaw, made his first major league start a winning one Tuesday night as he hurled a four-hit, 4-0, shutout over Philadelphia to halt the Phils' winning streak at eight games in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Powell, who had hurled 14 innings in relief prior to his starting assignment, was in trouble on several occasions but always came up with the big pitch in the clutch. He fanned six and walked four while recording his first decision.

The 22-year-old hurler was engaged in a scoreless duel with veteran Cal McLish for seven innings. Then the Mets touched McLish, who had set down 20 men in a row from the first to the eighth, and reliever Jack Baldschun for two runs in the eighth and a pair in the ninth.

John Gregory, Georgia Grid Aide, Fired

Testified For Butts In $10 Million Suit

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—An assistant football coach at the University of Georgia who testified for Wallace Butts in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post was relieved of his duties Tuesday by Coach Johnny Griffith.

A Federal court jury awarded Butts $3,060,000 earlier in the day. Griffith testified for the Post in the suit.

Griffith said defensive line coach John Gregory was replaced by assistant coach Wyatt Posey.

Griffith made this statement:

"As head football coach I have the responsibility for selecting assistant coaches and assigning their responsibilities. I have discussed with Coach Gregory his assignment for the coming season and have recommended that he be paid the remainder of the year but will have no specific football coaching assignment."

At the trial, Gregory discounted notes which Atlanta insurance salesman George Burnett said he took when he was accidentally cut into a telephone call between Butts and Alabama Coach Paul Bryant. Burnett said he heard Butts giving Georgia football secrets to Bryant in the call before the Georgia-Alabama game last year.

Gregory testified the notes were inaccurate as far as Georgia's team was concerned. He said that fear of being fired had caused him to sign a statement saying the information in the notes was vital. He signed a prepared statement for an assistant state attorney general last March.

National Doubles Halted By Rain

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) —The rain came down at Longwood Cricket Club early Tuesday, thereby keeping alive a showery tradition established eight years ago.

In 1955, the U.S. National Doubles tennis championship was washed nearly out of existence. A championship match was played three days after the tournament had been scheduled to end.

A brief but heavy rain early Tuesday so thoroughly soaked the club's 18 grass courts that Longwood officials ordered all play suspended.

EX-PITCHER KILLED — Former major league pitcher Karl Drews, who hurled for the Yanks, Browns, Phillies and Reds, is dead at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—killed by an auto as he tried to flag down a passing motorist when his own car stalled on a bridge. Drews, 44, had a 44-53 major league record.

Aguirre Blanks Minnesota, 6-0

DETROIT (UPI) — Left-hander Hank Aguirre fired a two-hit shutout and Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash slammed home runs Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Colavito's sixth-inning solo home run off starter and loser Lee Stange broke up a scoreless tie, but Detroit added two unearned runs in the seventh and Cash hit a three-run homer off reliever Bill Pleis in the eighth to turn the game into a rout.

Aguirre, who is now 12-11 for the year, with 11 complete games and three shutouts, gave up a single to lead-off batter Lenny Green but then handcuffed the Twins the rest of the way except for Harmon Killebrew's seventh inning single.

Twins' manager Sam Mele and catcher Earl Battey were both ejected during the wild seventh inning after George Smith stole home. The Twins argued that Smith ran out of the base line while eluding Battey's tag.

Cleveland's Dick Donovan Is Victor Over Whitey Ford In 2-1 Duel

Yankee Threat In 9th Halted By Double Play

Berra Fails With Bases Full; Tribe Wins 1st In N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Donovan induced pinch hitter Yogi Berra to bounce into a game-ending double play that preserved a 2-1 victory for the Cleveland Indians over the New York Yankees Tuesday night.

The Indians achieved their third straight victory and first of the season at Yankee Stadium when Vic Davalillo's infield single with the bases full drove in the winning run in the top of the ninth.

Donovan, who registered his ninth win against 10 losses, gave up nine hits and had to pitch his way out of a ninth inning jam to beat southpaw Whitey Ford.

Joe Pepitone singled with one out in the Yankee ninth and Elston Howard followed with a two-base hit that sent Pepitone to third. Hector Lopez then was purposely passed to load the bases and player-coach Berra came off the first base coaching line to hit for Clete Boyer.

Berra grounded to first baseman Joe Adcock, who stepped on the bag and then threw to catcher Joe Azcue, who tagged Pepitone attempting to score.

Ford, charged with his seventh loss compared with 17 victories, survived bases-loaded jams in the seventh and eighth innings but wasn't as fortunate in the ninth.

Woody Held doubled with one out in the Cleveland ninth and Donovan walked. Jerry Kindall beat out an infield single to fill the bases and Davalillo then got his winning hit that bounced off shortstop Tony Kubek's glove.

Donovan had a string of 25 consecutive scoreless innings snapped in the sixth when the Yanks scored their only run on Bobby Richardson's triple and John Blanchard's infield out.

The Indians scored their first run in the fifth on a walk, a wild pitch and Azcue's single.

Federal Court Jury Rules Wally Was Damaged By Story

By O. P. HANES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Wally Butts, former Georgia football coach, was awarded a $3,060,000 judgment Tuesday against the Saturday Evening Post on the ground that the magazine libeled him.

In one of the biggest libel judgments on record, a federal court jury ruled that Butts was damaged by a March 23 Post story saying he gave secret information to Coach Paul Bryant of Alabama before the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama won 35-0.

Breaks Into Tears

Butts broke into tears as the verdict was announced.

For the 58-year-old former athletic director and coach at the University of Georgia, it was a vindication of what he had been saying—that he was innocent of the accusations.

The jury, considering his $10-million libel suit that took 11 days to try, awarded Butts money on two grounds: for general damage, $60,000 and for punitive purposes, $3 million.

Butts had charged, and the jury agreed, that there was malice in publication of the article.

The Saturday Evening Post, published by Curtis Publishing Co., immediately announced it would appeal.

Soon after the verdict, Butts told a news conference:

"I feel very humble and grateful, particularly to the people who have stood by me throughout this trial and the days which preceded it."

He said he hoped to get a good rest and then return to coaching.

Another Suit Ahead

Ahead for the Post lay another libel suit that stemmed from the article—a $10-million one filed by Bryant. No date for trial has been set. He also has filed another suit against the magazine for an earlier article.

The Post article, written by Frank Graham Jr., said an Atlanta insurance salesman had overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

The salesman, George P. Burnett, was quoted as saying he had been accidentally cut into the phone call and heard Butts spilling game secrets to Bryant.

John Gregory, Georgia Grid Aide, Fired

Testified For Butts In $10 Million Suit

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—An assistant football coach at the University of Georgia who testified for Wallace Butts in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post was relieved of his duties Tuesday by Coach Johnny Griffith.

A Federal court jury awarded Butts $3,060,000 earlier in the day. Griffith testified for the Post in the suit.

Griffith said defensive line coach John Gregory was replaced by assistant coach Wyatt Posey.

Griffith made this statement:

"As head football coach I have the responsibility for selecting assistant coaches and assigning their responsibilities. I have discussed with Coach Gregory his assignment for the coming season and have recommended that he be paid the remainder of the year but will have no specific football coaching assignment."

At the trial, Gregory discounted notes which Atlanta insurance salesman George Burnett said he took when he was accidentally cut into a telephone call between Butts and Alabama Coach Paul Bryant. Burnett said he heard Butts giving Georgia football secrets to Bryant in the call before the Georgia-Alabama game last year.

Gregory testified the notes were inaccurate as far as Georgia's team was concerned. He said that fear of being fired had caused him to sign a statement saying the information in the notes was vital. He signed a prepared statement for an assistant state attorney general last March.

National Doubles Halted By Rain

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) —The rain came down at Longwood Cricket Club early Tuesday, thereby keeping alive a showery tradition established eight years ago.

In 1955, the U.S. National Doubles tennis championship was washed nearly out of existence. A championship match was played three days after the tournament had been scheduled to end.

A brief but heavy rain early Tuesday so thoroughly soaked the club's 18 grass courts that Longwood officials ordered all play suspended.

EX-PITCHER KILLED — Former major league pitcher Karl Drews, who hurled for the Yanks, Browns, Phillies and Reds, is dead at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—killed by an auto as he tried to flag down a passing motorist when his own car stalled on a bridge. Drews, 44, had a 44-53 major league record.

Aguirre Blanks Minnesota, 6-0

DETROIT (UPI) — Left-hander Hank Aguirre fired a two-hit shutout and Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash slammed home runs Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Colavito's sixth-inning solo home run off starter and loser Lee Stange broke up a scoreless tie, but Detroit added two unearned runs in the seventh and Cash hit a three-run homer off reliever Bill Pleis in the eighth to turn the game into a rout.

Aguirre, who is now 12-11 for the year, with 11 complete games and three shutouts, gave up a single to lead-off batter Lenny Green but then handcuffed the Twins the rest of the way except for Harmon Killebrew's seventh inning single.

Twins' manager Sam Mele and catcher Earl Battey were both ejected during the wild seventh inning after George Smith stole home. The Twins argued that Smith ran out of the base line while eluding Battey's tag.

Mets' Rookie Stops Phils

Powell Ends 8-Game Victory Streak, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —New York Mets' rookie, Grover Powell, former University of Pennsylvania southpaw, made his first major league start a winning one Tuesday night as he hurled a four-hit, 4-0, shutout over Philadelphia to halt the Phils' winning streak at eight games in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Powell, who had hurled 14 innings in relief prior to his starting assignment, was in trouble on several occasions but always came up with the big pitch in the clutch. He fanned six and walked four while recording his first decision.

The 22-year-old hurler was engaged in a scoreless duel with veteran Cal McLish for seven innings. Then the Mets touched McLish, who had set down 20 men in a row from the first to the eighth, and reliever Jack Baldschun for two runs in the eighth and a pair in the ninth.

Palmer Earns Crack At $75,000 World Series Of Golf Jackpot

Beats Rodgers, Jacky Cupit In Akron Playoff

Arnold Shoots 69, Plays Boros, Charles, Nicklaus Sept. 7-8

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer proved beyond a doubt that he belongs with the champions when he shot a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to defeat Phil Rodgers and Jacky Cupit and earn a crack at the $75,000 World Series of Golf jackpot.

Playing masterfully over the 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course, Palmer put together a 34-35 in the runaway triumph. Rodgers shot 37-37—74 and Cupit 38-38—76. Palmer held a three-stroke lead over Rodgers and four over Cupit after nine holes.

$50,000 Is Top Prize

His victory enables Palmer to join Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, and British Open champion Bob Charles in the 36-hole play for the top prize of $50,000 in the World Series Sept. 7-8 at Firestone.

Avoiding any need for one of his famous comebacks in the one-round playoff, Palmer went ahead of both Cupit and Rodgers after six holes with a string of pars.

Palmer then birdied the 450-yard, par 4 No. 8 for a three-stroke lead and that was enough to bury both rivals, neither of whom carded a birdie in the entire round.

Although Palmer is the leading money winner with a record $96,955 this year, he failed to win any of the big four tournaments to qualify for the series. When Nicklaus won both the PGA and Master's, a playoff was decided upon to fill the fourth berth.

Palmer and Cupit were picked because they lost to Boros in a playoff for the U.S. Open. Rodgers qualified because he lost to Charles in a playoff for the British Open.

Classic Opens Thursday

The American Golf Classic, which begins at Firestone Thursday.

Palmer, incidentally, won the Classic last year with a four-round course record of 276. Later he tied the course record with a 65 in the first round of the World Series, which he ultimately lost to Nicklaus.

OBSTACLE AHEAD FOR ARNIE—Arnold Palmer, who won a three-man playoff yesterday for a berth in the $75,000 World Series of Golf at Akron, Sept. 7-8, confronted an unusual obstacle on the 17th hole. A temporary television tower blocked his second shot. Arnie, who is watching a workman on the tower in this shot, was allowed to move his ball, which lies in the grass near his right foot. Palmer shot a one-under-par 69 to 74 for Phil Rodgers and 76 for Jacky Cupit.

Post Given 30 Days To Appeal Butts' Verdict

Damages In Libel Suit Are Taxable

ATLANTA (UPI) —It may take six months or more to clear up all the legal entanglements surrounding the Wallace Butts' libel award and the tax collector will be waiting when it is resolved.

Butts won the $3,060,000 award Tuesday when a Federal Court jury ruled in his favor and against the Saturday Evening Post which had printed a story saying he rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts' attorney, William Schroder, said the Post has 30 days to appeal the verdict.

To File Appeal

Clay Blair Jr., editor-in - chief of the Post, was in the courtroom when the verdict was announced and said the appeal would be made to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The former Georgia football coach testified during his trial that he was financially insolvent. A reporter asked him at his news conference Tuesday how he expected to get along until he receives the libel award. Butts replied that his many friends and family had stood by him until now and that he expected they would continue to do so.

Butts asked for both general and punitive damages $5 million each.

General damages, of which he was given $60,000, covers loss of earning capacity. Punitive damages awarded Butts amounted to $3 million. The latter is actually a fine imposed for an act wherein the jury believes there was malicious intent to libel or damage.

Damages Taxable

Federal taxes may take a big chunk of the settlement. Although there was no hard and fast ruling from tax authorities, an Internal Revenue Service spokesman in Washington cited a Supreme Court decision which seemed applicable. It said punitive damages—in Butts' case the $3 million award—paid to a person in the libel suit are taxable.

Legal fees and other costs of collecting the judgment may be deducted from the taxable portion of the award if they are connected with a loss of income, the spokesman said.

Pete Cecil's Hit Breaks Tie In 7th

Pete Cecil's single with the bases loaded in the 7th and final inning broke a tie and gave the Loyal Order of Moose a 2-1 decision over the Caseys yesterday at Stitcher Field in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Hayden Phillips, who replaced Junior Brelsford on the rubber in the 5th inning after the latter developed a sore finger, helped win his own game in the final frame when he led off with a triple. After Donnie Madden and Johnny Price walked to fill the hassocks, Cecil singled to right field to score the winning run.

Brelsford fanned seven during his 4⅔ inning stint on the mound.

Cecil collected three of the Moose team's ten hits and Price garnered a pair of singles. The Caseys were limited to four singles.

Palmer Earns Crack At $75,000 World Series Of Golf Jackpot

Beats Rodgers, Jacky Cupit In Akron Playoff

Arnold Shoots 69, Plays Boros, Charles, Nicklaus Sept. 7-8

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer proved beyond a doubt that he belongs with the champions when he shot a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to defeat Phil Rodgers and Jacky Cupit and earn a crack at the $75,000 World Series of Golf jackpot.

Playing masterfully over the 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course, Palmer put together a 34-35 in the runaway triumph. Rodgers shot 37-37—74 and Cupit 38-38—76. Palmer held a three-stroke lead over Rodgers and four over Cupit after nine holes.

$50,000 Is Top Prize

His victory enables Palmer to join Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, and British Open champion Bob Charles in the 36-hole play for the top prize of $50,000 in the World Series Sept. 7-8 at Firestone.

Avoiding any need for one of his famous comebacks in the one-round playoff, Palmer went ahead of both Cupit and Rodgers after six holes with a string of pars.

Palmer then birdied the 450-yard, par 4 No. 8 for a three-stroke lead and that was enough to bury both rivals, neither of whom carded a birdie in the entire round.

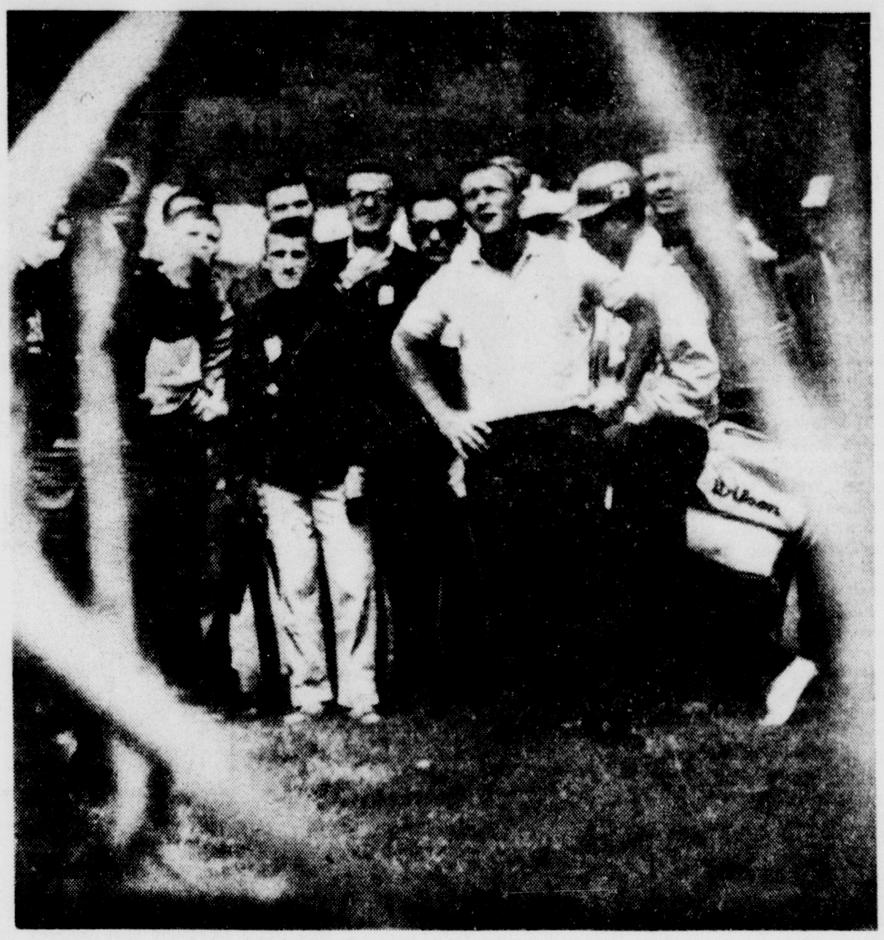
Although Palmer is the leading money winner with a record $96,955 this year, he failed to win any of the big four tournaments to qualify for the series. When Nicklaus won both the PGA and Master's, a playoff was decided upon to fill the fourth berth.

Palmer and Cupit were picked because they lost to Boros in a playoff for the U.S. Open. Rodgers qualified because he lost to Charles in a playoff for the British Open.

Classic Opens Thursday

The American Golf Classic, which begins at Firestone Thursday.

Palmer, incidentally, won the Classic last year with a four-round course record of 276. Later he tied the course record with a 65 in the first round of the World Series, which he ultimately lost to Nicklaus.



OBSTACLE AHEAD FOR ARNIE—Arnold Palmer, who won a three-man playoff yesterday for a berth in the $75,000 World Series of Golf at Akron, Sept. 7-8, confronted an unusual obstacle on the 17th hole. A temporary television tower blocked his second shot. Arnie, who is watching a workman on the tower in this shot, was allowed to move his ball, which lies in the grass near his right foot. Palmer shot a one-under-par 69 to 74 for Phil Rodgers and 76 for Jacky Cupit. (AP Photofax)

Pete Cecil's Hit Breaks Tie In 7th

Pete Cecil's single with the bases loaded in the 7th and final inning broke a tie and gave the Loyal Order of Moose a 2-1 decision over the Caseys yesterday at Stitcher Field in the opening game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Hayden Phillips, who replaced Junior Brelsford on the rubber in the 5th inning after the latter developed a sore finger, helped win his own game in the final frame when he led off with a triple. After Donnie Madden and Johnny Price walked to fill the hassocks, Cecil singled to right field to score the winning run.

Brelsford fanned seven during his 4⅔ inning stint on the mound.

Cecil collected three of the Moose team's ten hits and Price garnered a pair of singles. The Caseys were limited to four singles.

Al Martin excelled at the hot corner for the Caseys, handling seven chances without a miscue. Price at third and Madden at second were the fielding stars for the Moose.

Dick Klavuhn went the distance for the Caseys, fanned one and issued four walks.

The second game of the series is set for Thursday at 6:15 p.m., at Stitcher Field.

Juan Pizarro Bags 15th Win

Chisox Southpaw Beats Bosox, 10-2

BOSTON (AP)—Wily Juan Pizarro became a 15-game winner for the first time in his major league career by pitching and batting the Chicago White Sox to a 10-2 victory over Boston Tuesday night.

The southpaw gave up a one-out single to Felix Mantilla in the first inning, then retired 24 men in order before pinch hitter Dick Williams singled with one out in the ninth.

Pizarro had to settle for a five-hitter. Williams' hit was followed by singles by Chuck Schilling, Mantilla and Dick Stuart that accounted for Boston's two runs.

Pizarro also drove in three with a double and two singles in four trips, his two-run double coming in Chicago's breakaway five-run sixth inning.

California Team Cops L.L. World Series Tilt, 3-2

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Southpaw Dave Sehnem won his own game Tuesday night with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning to give Granada Hills, Calif., a 3-2 victory over Houston, Tex., in the opening of the 17th annual Little League World Series.

Sehnem, who fanned 18, walked none and allowed only seven hits while going the route, singled home Jim Walker with the winning run to put the California entry into the semifinals.

A crowd of 6,000 saw the game go into overtime after the teams were deadlocked, 2-2, at the end of the regulation six innings.

Granada Hills meets Ismir, Turkey, in the semi-finals Thursday. Ismir drew a bye Tuesday when a Japanese team was unable to come here to play.

Stratford, Conn., meets Valley Field, Canada, at 2 p.m. (EDT) Wednesday, while Monterrey, Mexico, plays Duluth, Minn., at 5 p.m. in first-round games.

Face To Rescue In 9th As Bucs Whip Cubs, 5-3

Pirates Get All Runs On Homers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Roy Face took over with a run in, two men on and one out in the ninth inning Tuesday and retired two batters to save a 5-3 win for the Pittsburgh Pirates over the Chicago Cubs to break a three-game losing streak.

Face replaced Al McBean, who pitched to only three batters, and preserved the victory for starter Don Cardwell, his 11th. Cardwell yielded to McBean after Billy Williams opened the ninth with the Cubs' seventh hit, a single.

Ron Santo flied out but both Ellis Burton and Ernie Banks singled to score Williams and knock out McBean.

Jerry Lynch, Bill Mazeroski and Jim Pagliaroni homered off Bob Buhl to drive in all the Pirates' runs.

Lynch's blow, his 11th, came with Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente on base in the first inning and gave Cardwell a 3-0 cushion which he exploited for his second victory over the Cubs this season.

Mazeroski's homer, his eighth, and Pagliaroni's, his ninth, came consecutively in the seventh and when Dick Schofield doubled, Don Elston replaced Buhl. Buhl took his 12th loss.

Ron Santo scored both Chicago runs. He hit his 22nd homer in the second inning and came home on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly in the seventh, after doubling.

Sandy Koufax Hickok Winner

Dodgers' Southpaw Heads July Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southpaw Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday joined the race for the Hickok professional athlete of the year award when he was named winner of the July poll.

Koufax, who won five games and pitched 33 straight scoreless innings during July, beat out heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston by a narrow margin in the contention of the $10,000 diamond-studded belt that goes to the year's winner.

Koufax received 31 first-place votes and 137 points compared to Liston's 23 first-place ballots and 116 points in the monthly voting of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Special Rig Used By Colts' Kicker May Be Ruled Out

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — For want of a shoelace, Grady Wade may lose out as a professional football player.

The rookie from Vanderbilt had the string pulled on him by Joe Kuharich, technical adviser for the National Football League.

Kuharich said he was sure that the special rig used by Wade to place kick was against the rules. The opinion came after Wade appeared to have kicked his way to being kept by the Baltimore Colts.

His kicking shoe has a broad leather toe plate. He attaches a shoe string to it, pulls it tight and ties it around the lower calf of his right leg. This forces the toe of the shoe to turn up.

In the Colts' first exhibition game, Wade kicked two field goals, one of 49 yards.

Asked how he can kicked without the tied-up shoe, Wade said "Not good. I've been kicking this way for seven years."

The rule which Kuharich cited against Wade's contraption reads "no artificial media shall be permitted to assist in the execution of field goal and-or try for point after touchdown attempt."

However, Kuharich agreed to poll the other coaches in the league and if they want to make an exception "We will go along with their decision."

Helmick's Homer, No-Hitter Kayo Wellersburg, 1-0

Lefty John Helmick pitched his second no-run, no-hit game of the season and his circuit belt was the only run of the game as Barrelville defeated Wellersburg yesterday by the score of 1-0 at Barrelville and knocked the Pennsylvanians out of the playoffs in the Pen-Mar Little League.

Barrelville won the series, two games to one, and will play Cresaptown Tri-State, regular season champion, in the final series.

Helmick, who hurled his first no-hitter against the LaVale Orioles (2-0) on July 24, mowed down ten batsmen via the strikeout route and belted his game winning homer in the second inning. The Barrelville southpaw missed a perfect game when he issued a base on balls to Emerick in the final inning.

Dave Petenbrink went the route for Wellersburg and yielded only three hits. Kenny Blank and Jim Gillespie had the other safeties for Barrelville.

Score:

Wellersburg	000 000—0 0 0
Barrelville	010 00x—1 3 0

Judy Bell Ties Course Mark In Amateur Event

Posts 74 To Win Over Polly Riley

By BOB SALMON
Associated Press Sports Writer

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) —Former Curtis Cup player Judy Bell of Colorado Springs, Colo., tied the course record with a 74 Tuesday as she rallied for a second-round victory in the 63rd Women's National Amateur Golf Championship at rain-sodden Taconic Golf Club.

The three-time Kansas champion's 40-34—74 equaled the women's competitive mark set by Irene Tworig of this Berkshire college town in 1953. The 2-under-par 34 on the back nine also was the lowest nine posted in the tournament.

Beats Polly Riley

Miss Bell had to scurry however to get past veteran Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex. Down four holes at the 11th, she rallied and captured the last three to win it 1-up, chipping to eight feet of the pin for the clinching putt on the final hole.

Three-time winner JoAnne Gunderson continued to shatter par as she won her match without dropping a hole.

Face To Rescue In 9th As Bucs Whip Cubs, 5-3

Pirates Get All Runs On Homers

CHICAGO (UPI) —Roy Face took over with a run in, two men on and one out in the ninth inning Tuesday and retired two batters to save a 5-3 win for the Pittsburgh Pirates over the Chicago Cubs to break a three-game losing streak.

Face replaced Al McBean, who pitched to only three batters, and preserved the victory for starter Don Cardwell, his 11th. Cardwell yielded to McBean after Billy Williams opened the ninth with the Cubs' seventh hit, a single.

Ron Santo flied out but both Ellis Burton and Ernie Banks singled to score Williams and knock out McBean.

Jerry Lynch, Bill Mazeroski and Jim Pagliaroni homered off Bob Buhl to drive in all the Pirates' runs.

Lynch's blow, his 11th, came with Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente on base in the first inning and gave Cardwell a 3-0 cushion which he exploited for his second victory over the Cubs this season.

Mazeroski's homer, his eighth, and Pagliaroni's, his ninth, came consecutively in the seventh and when Dick Schofield doubled, Don Elston replaced Buhl. Buhl took his 12th loss.

Ron Santo scored both Chicago runs. He hit his 22nd homer in the second inning and came home on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly in the seventh, after doubling.

Sandy Koufax Hickok Winner

Dodgers' Southpaw Heads July Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southpaw Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday joined the race for the Hickok professional athlete of the year award when he was named winner of the July poll.

Koufax, who won five games and pitched 33 straight scoreless innings during July, beat out heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston by a narrow margin in the contention of the $10,000 diamond-studded belt that goes to the year's winner.

Koufax received 31 first-place votes and 137 points compared to Liston's 23 first-place ballots and 116 points in the monthly voting of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

Special Rig Used By Colts' Kicker May Be Ruled Out

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — For want of a shoelace, Grady Wade may lose out as a professional football player.

The rookie from Vanderbilt had the string pulled on him by Joe Kuharich, technical adviser for the National Football League.

Kuharich said he was sure that the special rig used by Wade to place kick was against the rules. The opinion came after Wade appeared to have kicked his way to being kept by the Baltimore Colts.

His kicking shoe has a broad leather toe plate. He attaches a shoe string to it, pulls it tight and ties it around the lower calf of his right leg. This forces the toe of the shoe to turn up.

In the Colts' first exhibition game, Wade kicked two field goals, one of 49 yards.

Asked how he can kicked without the tied-up shoe, Wade said "Not good. I've been kicking this way for seven years."

The rule which Kuharich cited against Wade's contraption reads "no artificial media shall be permitted to assist in the execution of field goal and-or try for point after touchdown attempt."

However, Kuharich agreed to poll the other coaches in the league and if they want to make an exception "We will go along with their decision."

Clippers Purchase Goalie Boisvert

BALTIMORE (AP) — Purchase of Gilles Boisvert, veteran goal tender from Three Rivers, Quebec, was announced Tuesday by the Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League.

The 10-year professional hockey player was bought from the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Last season, Boisvert played for Edmonton in the Western League and Pittsburgh in the American.

Helmick's Homer, No-Hitter Kayo Wellersburg, 1-0

Lefty John Helmick pitched his second no-run, no-hit game of the season and his circuit belt was the only run of the game as Barrelville defeated Wellersburg yesterday by the score of 1-0 at Barrelville and knocked the Pennsylvanians out of the playoffs in the Pen-Mar Little League.

Barrelville won the series, two games to one, and will play Cresaptown Tri-State, regular season champion, in the final series.

Helmick, who hurled his first no-hitter against the LaVale Orioles (2-0) on July 24, mowed down ten batsmen via the strike-out route and belted his game winning homer in the second inning. The Barrelville southpaw missed a perfect game when he issued a base on balls to Emerick in the final inning.

Dave Petenbrink went the route for Wellersburg and yielded only three hits. Kenny Blank and Jim Gillespie had the other safeties for Barrelville.

Score:

Wellersburg	000 000—0 0 0
Barrelville	010 00x—1 3 0

Dave Petenbrink and Gary Getz. John Helmick and Joe Beal.

Associated Press Sports Writer

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP) —Former Curtis Cup player Judy Bell of Colorado Springs, Colo., tied the course record with a 74 Tuesday as she rallied for a second-round victory in the 63rd Women's National Amateur Golf Championship at rain-sodden Taconic Golf Club.

The three-time Kansas champion's 40-34—74 equaled the women's competitive mark set by Irene Tworig of this Berkshire college town in 1958. The 2-under-par 34 on the back nine also was the lowest nine posted in the tournament.

Beats Polly Riley

Miss Bell had to scurry however to get past veteran Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex. Down four holes at the 11th, she rallied and captured the last three to win it 1-up, chipping to eight feet of the pin for the clinching putt on the final hole.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our mother, Mrs. Grace W. Buckalew. We especially wish to thank Rev. Charles Eaton, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes or donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who rendered assistance.

George Firm Gets Contract For New School

$1,767,000 Offer Is Accepted Here

George Construction Company of Cumberland yesterday afternoon was awarded the contract to build a new North End junior high school on its low bid of $1,767,000, one of four opened by the Allegany County Board of Education.

The board also accepted the one alternate on which bids were received. This will add $12,000 to the overall cost of the project for a soot collector.

Other bids yesterday came from the same firms which had bid July 3. The earlier bids were rejected and the plans were revised in hopes that the overall cost could be reduced at least $100,000.

Three Other Bids

Yesterday's other bids came from Baker and Coombs, Morgantown, W. Va., $1,777,700; Hedin Construction Company, Washington, D.C., $1,797,000, and Missile Site Inc., $1,873,000.

Oddly, the George firm moved from fourth to first in bidding. When the bids were first opened last month, George was high with a figure of $2,085,000. Hedin, which had been low the first time at $1,906,000, dropped to third. Baker and Coombs, second the first time at $1,932,500, stayed in that position. Missile Site Inc., which had been third the first time with a bid of $2,057,200, dropped to last.

All three bidders were higher than George on the soot collector alternate. Baker and Coombs bid $14,700; Hedin bid $15,000 and Missile Site, $15,500.

$139,000 Lower

Yesterday's successful bidder was $139,000 lower than Hedin's original low bid and $318,000 below the first George offer.

Four classrooms were eliminated from the plans for the second bidding. There was a revision in the science room plans so that it can be used for two purposes.

Present for the bid opening yesterday were representatives of the architectural firm of Johannes and Murray of Silver Spring, which prepared the plans and specifications.

The new school will be constructed on a 25-acre tract between Holland and Franklin streets in the North End, where the county garage is now located.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster had hoped that the new school could be completed by midway through the 1964-65 school year. The architects said yesterday the school probably will not be ready for occupancy before the start of the 1965-66 school year, two years hence. The new school will relieve overcrowding at Allegany High School. Seventh and eighth grades will be taught at North End and the top four grades will continue at Allegany.

Johannes and Murray are drawing up plans and specifications for the proposed new South End junior high school on the Feeney farm property. Mr. Webster informed the board yesterday that the surveyor is preparing a metes and bounds description of the portion of the farm property which the county will need for the school. Bids on this job are likely in December or January.

There was a brief discussion yesterday concerning the possibility of electric heat for the South End school. Representatives of the Potomac Edison Company have asked for the opportunity of meeting with the school board.

City To Send Out Bills To Companies

The Finance Department yesterday began preparing bills for the personal property of corporations and most of the statements will be mailed tomorrow and Friday, according to Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill.

The bills will represent about $4,500,000 of the $22,000,000 tax levy on personal property-corporations in the levy adopted Monday, and are expected to bring in about $70,500.

The rest of the corporation taxes will be billed throughout the year as assessments are forwarded by the state tax commissioner's office.

The staff of the Finance Department, headed by Paul E. Rodecap, city comptroller, was busy yesterday addressing the corporation tax bills, and hope to begin computing the amounts due today.

The early tax payments will help tide the city over until the bulk of the taxes begin to come in late in September.

Several firms have asked the city to expedite the billing of their taxes since they wish to close their books for the period.

Fatkin To Head County Unit On Dropouts

In response to a personal letter from President John F. Kennedy, J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, has appointed a county committee to persuade boys and girls of this county to remain in school at least until graduation from high school.

Louis A. Fatkin of Westernport, Allegany County's magistrate for juvenile causes, has been appointed chairman of the committee.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mrs. Jennie Grahame, Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of Allegany Community College; Francis A. Kenney, local manager for the State Employment Service; Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church; Robert C. Petersen, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel; Robert M. Williams, general secretary of Central YMCA, and Mrs. May B. Bolt, who assumed duties yesterday as a member of the County Board of Education.

Mr. Jackson read the letter he received last month from President Kennedy and the letter he wrote in response last week to Dr. Francis Keppel, commissioner of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, at yesterday's school board meeting.

The letter from the White House, read in part as follows:

"At the White House meeting (with a group of educators) it was urged that a massive, nationwide effort be undertaken this summer to persuade our young people to return to school in September. As you know so well, this is a problem which affects both white and Negro students and their families. It is of particular significance because of the lack of job opportunities for inadequately trained youth and the explosive situation in many of our great cities. The cooperation of state and local school systems, colleges and universities will be needed and I hope that you and your colleagues will give the program every possible support."

In his letter of August 15 to Dr. Keppel, Mr. Jackson pointed out that the dropout problem in this county is comparatively minor. He noted that this county has a dropout percentage of about two per cent compared with a state average of better than nine per cent.

Mr. Jackson said that industrial leaders, newspapers and radio stations are offering their support in the program designed to keep boys and girls in the classrooms.

County Expects School Prayer Directive Soon

Dr. Pullen Asks For Opinion

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster told members of the Allegany County Board of Education that he expects to have a letter soon from Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, explaining under what circumstances prayers and Bible reading may be permitted in public schools.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled in cases involving Maryland, Pennsylvania and Florida that compulsory Bible reading and prayers are unconstitutional.

Because many people have argued that those who want prayers and Bible reading in public schools should be allowed to have them, Dr. Pullen has requested an opinion from Attorney General Thomas B. Finan under what circumstances prayers and Bible reading may be permitted.

Mr. Webster's discussion of this subject was prompted by a letter he read to the board from Mrs. John F. Cook, head of the WCTU here, urging that prayer and Bible reading be retained in the public schools insofar as possible.

The county board also approved the granting of excused absences to Catholic boys and girls who wish to attend a Catholic retreat September 18, 19 and 20. The request was made in a letter to Mr. Webster from Rt. Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore.

Plans are being pushed by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the second annual Business-Industry-Education Day to be held October 23. There will be a school holiday that day to enable teachers, principals and supervisors to visit industries around the county. William A. Howard is general chairman.

A list of 53 new teachers was approved by the school board. Included in the list were 22 new ones in elementary schools and 31 in high schools. Mr. Webster said not all of them are new to the county system. Some have been on leaves of absence and others formerly taught here and are returning.

Permission was granted to the Cresap Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to conduct an essay contest among county high school students.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles was given permission to use county school facilities, presumably Fort Hill High School, for retraining classes for former drivers who have lost their licenses because of infractions.

Mrs. Ronald B. Landis and Mrs. Ollie Long of Oldtown appeared at yesterday's board meeting to request certain improvements at the Oldtown School.

Robert H. Herboldsheimer asked a number of questions of J. Goodloe Jackson, board president, concerning administrative procedures and policies.

The vows will be accepted by Rev. Cajetan Pikus, secretary-treasurer of the order's St. Augustine Province. He will also give the sermon.

The Mass will be sung by Peter Schumacher, organist, and the brothers from the monastery.

A buffet dinner will be served in the parish hall following the ceremony for families and friends of Brother Daniel and Frater Lawrence. About 80 persons are expected to attend.

Artichoke Blooms

Patsy Idoni, longtime proprietor of the New York Shoe Rebuilders at 1 Front Street, who has a tall desert cactus attracting attention inside his shop, also has a French artichoke in bloom in the yard of his home at 242 Columbia Street.

Mr. Idoni said the French artichoke, normally grown in much warmer regions than Cumberland is a rarity in this region.

AWOL Man Arrested In W.Va. Theft

A 19-year-old Springfield youth AWOL from the Navy was arrested here yesterday on a larceny charge by two deputies from the Allegany County sheriff's office.

James Swisher was arrested in front of the Algonquin Hotel at 11 a. m. and, after waiving extradition, was released to West Virginia State Police and taken to the Hampshire County Jail in Romney. The boy, believed to be AWOL for about a week, was charged with the theft of about $500 from his father, Glenn E. Swisher.

Deputies Lewis Tyree and William Orr arrested Swisher after the boy's father reported to the sheriff's office here that he had seen his son standing in front of the downtown hotel.

The Hampshire County sheriff's office said Naval authorities have been notified of Swisher's arrest.

Much-Needed Rain Falls In District

A total of .60 inch of rain fell in the Cumberland area during the past two days and was most helpful in alleviating the dry spell.

Considerable cloudiness and the chance of scattered showers are forecast for the southern portion of Maryland today with a high temperature in the 70s in the mountains and in the 80's elsewhere.

There were two downpours of rain yesterday, the first coming about 3 p. m. and the other about 20 minutes later. The second downpour lasted for 20 minutes or more.

On Monday 1.27 inch of rain fell in Garrett County and was the most rainfall reported in the general area.

New Germany had 1.1 inch of precipitation and .47 inch fell in the Cumberland area on Monday with the rain beginning to fall shortly before 7 p. m.

CURA Will Meet

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency will hold a special meeting Tuesday at 1:15 p.m. in City Hall to interview a firm which is interested in serving as a consultant for the program here. Several other firms were interviewed recently.

Many Attend Opening Of Annual Fair

The weatherman was in a more cooperative mood last night and the 46th annual Cumberland Fair was ushered in with a large crowd of patrons on hand for the program. The Monday night opening was washed out by a heavy downpour of rain.

Robert Price, office manager at the fair, said the grandstand was pretty well filled and many persons stood on the blacktop in front of the stage where the "Stars of Tomorrow" revue was presented.

Also presented were Thelma Propst, Allegany County Farm Queen, and Carol Fike, Garrett County Farm Queen, both of whom are vying for the title of "Miss Fairgo VII" along with three other contestants.

A welcome was extended by Mayor Earl D. Chaney.

Yesterday afternoon was "Children's Day" at the fair and the grounds and many of the patrons were drenched by two downpours of rain which fell between 3 and 4 p.m.

The youngsters and adults at the fair sought shelter from the rain and waited until it was over to have more fun on the rides and at the various concessions.

A family from Parsons thinking there was fair weather here drove about 65 miles to the fair, only to be greeted by the rain which was prevalent in their home town when they left yesterday morning.

"What a day to come to the fair," was the comment of one youth who stood on the inside of a tent while the heavy downpour drenched the area. Another patron raised the trunk of his car after the rain subsided and remarked "I got a free wash job."

All in all everyone seemed to enjoy himself as the sun came out toward the end of the afternoon.

The winner of the bicycle given away yesterday by Amusements of America was Dale Mease who is about 12 years old and lives in Bowman's Addition. Children's Day will be repeated on Thursday with reduced prices on the midway.

Red Men To Meet

Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Red Men Hall, Bedford Street. A social hour will conclude the evening and refreshments will be served.

Fort Necessity State Park Will Be Given To Nation

Pennsylvania's gift of the 311-acre Fort Necessity State Park to the United States for inclusion with the Fort Necessity National Battlefield will be dedicated formally at special Labor Day ceremonies, according to Melvin J. Thorpe, superintendent.

The program, set for 3 p. m. September 2, is expected to attract several thousand visitors. It is being sponsored by the Fort Necessity Lions Club in cooperation with the National Park Service and several patriotic organizations.

Fort Necessity National Battlefield, 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on U. S. Route 40, was the scene of the opening engagement of the French and Indian War, fought by England and France for control of the North American continent. The first major episode in the military career of George Washington occurred there on July 3, 1754, and marked the only time he was forced to surrender.

The former Fort Necessity State Park was deeded to the Federal government on August 23, 1963, by an act of the Pennsylvania Assembly. The park includes the larger portion of the "Mount Washington tract" purchased by Washington in October 1771 and held by him as an investment until his death. About 160 acres of his original land patent still remains in private ownership but their purchase has been authorized by Congress for inclusion in the National Battlefield.

The present reconstruction of Fort Necessity was erected in 1954 on the exact site of the original fort.

Under President Kennedy's Accelerated Public Works program, some $78,000 has been spent improving the battlefield. The work includes clearing of trails, boundaries and the wooded areas, rehabilitation of the utility building and structural fire control work on the museum.

4-H'ers Enter Attractive Exhibits At Local Fair

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Patrons of the 46th annual Cumberland Fair who take time out to browse through the Exhibition Hall and under the grandstand will marvel at the efforts that 4-H girls and boys put into their various projects each year.

They should be especially interested in the sewing ability of the girls as well as their vegetable growing and canning as well as jellies and jams and pickles and flower arrangements.

The boys also take pride in their vegetable and fruit growing and handicraft, as well as the livestock they raise in competition for ribbons. A check of the garden products of the girls shows that their ability with the hoe and rake is up to standards with the boys.

Miss Mary Wise, Allegany County home demonstration agent, remarked yesterday that the girls' exhibits are in line with 4-H projects, some of which are completed at camp. Most of the entries are from Allegany County with a few from Garrett County, she said.

Exhibitors Busy

Exhibitors yesterday were busy checking their entries to see if they got the coveted blue ribbon as judging of the exhibits was completed during the day.

A typical 4-H girl who had checked her entries, was proud that already she had been awarded ribbons which totaled a monetary value of $20.75.

Miss Rheba James, a member of the Lonaconing Senior 4-H Club and a junior at Valley High School this fall, is interested in sewing, and pointed out that she won blue and red ribbons for her entries of a skirt and blouse, skirt, complete outfit, as well as a blue ribbon for her cookies.

Expressing an opinion that everyone should enter the competition as she has been doing since 1957, Miss James said that she is proud when her entries come out on top. When asked what she plans to do with her prize money, Miss James said she will buy materials and make her school clothes. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin James and is active in extracurricular activities at Valley.

Makes Money, Too

A 4-H club boy who is interested in gardening remarked yesterday that the annual fair gives the boys an opportunity to show what they have done in their projects.

Carl Robinette, a member of the Breakneck Club and a 10th grader at Flintstone High School, said he has won blue ribbons in the past and with the prize money as well as money from products of his garden he usually invests in a calf, raises it and sells it at a profit.

This year he has exhibits of cabbage, corn, squash and carrots. He has two gardens, one 20 by 20 feet and the other 80 by 80 feet. His speciality is green onions which he sold this season and cleared $25.

He also has entered livestock and handicraft. Yesterday he was working under the grandstand and keeping watch on his club's booth as well as handicraft, vegetable and fruit entries of other boys.

Cattle Judging Awards Cited By Agent

Quite a bit of interest was shown yesterday at the 46th annual Cumberland Fair during the judging of the dairy and beef cattle entered by exhibitors of the tri-state area.

In the Ayrshire breed, William I. Shank and Sons of Hagerstown won the award for having the senior grand champion cow, and Sam Diehl, of Route 3, Bedford had the grand champion bull. Robert Moore of Mt. Savage won the junior yearling bull class award.

Randolph Hite of RD 3, Bedford, is the owner of the grand champion bull and cow in the Holstein division, according to Joseph M. Steger, who said that in the Guernsey breed, R. A. McCauly, of Hagerstown has the grand champion bull and cow. James I. Robison of Mt. Savage had the first in age cow class. Mullberry Hill-Marcella E won that award.

In the Jersey breed, Braden King of Boonsboro won the grand champion cow and bull awards and in the Hereford breed, C. William Hetzer of RD 2, Williamsport won the grand champion and reserve bull and cow awards.

W. G. Merrels of Burlington is the owner of the champion bull and cow in the Angus breed competition which was judged yesterday.

Assisting in the judging yesterday was Ralph F. McHenry, farm agent of Allegany County for 34 years, who retired in 1954.

He said he dropped by the fair again this year since it "gets in your blood." He has been attending the fair here since they started 46 years ago at the old Armory on Salem Street.

Mr. McHenry said judging remains basically the same with some new ideas filtering in from year to year. He remarked that the dairymen are still after "putting that milk in the bucket."

Joint Meeting Is Sought On Housing Site

Hearing Is Set On Zoning Plan

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will seek a meeting with the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland to discuss plans for selecting a site for the proposed low-rent housing development for the elderly.

Representatives of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency may be asked to sit in on the conference.

Plans for seeking the joint meeting were made last night as the commission discussed the site issue at the request of the Mayor and Council.

The Downtown Cumberland Business Association brought to the attention of city officials Monday that it is protesting the consideration of the Hudson Oil Company property on North Mechanic Street as a possible site.

Discussion during the meeting of the commission stressed that any development in the center of the city should conform with the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency's general neighborhood renewal program for the center of the city. The area covered, according to present plans, would include all of the land between the railroads from the Narrows to Oldtown Road.

The housing authority has been authorized to build 200 more housing units here, half of them for senior citizens and the others for those who would qualify for low-rent housing.

In seeking a location for the housing for the elderly, the authority wants a site where residents could find such services as shopping or medical attention within easy walking distance.

The planning commission devoted most of its session to a discussion of a zoning ordinance suggested by its planning consultants, Stein and Marcou Associates.

At the end of the session, the commission accepted the amended zoning proposals for presentation at a public hearing.

The hearing was set for September 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

George Firm Gets Contract For New School

$1,767,000 Offer Is Accepted Here

George Construction Company of Cumberland yesterday afternoon was awarded the contract to build a new North End junior high school on its low bid of $1,767,000, one of four opened by the Allegany County Board of Education.

The board also accepted the one alternate on which bids were received. This will add $12,000 to the overall cost of the project for a soot collector.

Other bids yesterday came from the same firms which had bid July 3. The earlier bids were rejected and the plans were revised in hopes that the overall cost could be reduced at least $100,000.

Three Other Bids

Yesterday's other bids came from Baker and Coombs, Morgantown, W. Va., $1,777,700; Hedin Construction Company, Washington, D.C., $1,797,000, and Missile Site Inc., $1,873,000.

Oddly, the George firm moved from fourth to first in bidding. When the bids were first opened last month, George was high with a figure of $2,085,000. Hedin, which had been low the first time at $1,906,000, dropped to third. Baker and Coombs, second the first time at $1,932,500, stayed in that position. Missile Site Inc., which had been third the first time with a bid of $2,057,200, dropped to last.

All three bidders were higher than George on the soot collector alternate. Baker and Coombs bid $14,700; Hedin bid $15,000 and Missile Site, $15,500.

$139,000 Lower

Yesterday's successful bidder was $139,000 lower than Hedin's original low bid and $318,000 below the first George offer.

Four classrooms were eliminated from the plans for the second bidding. There was a revision in the science room plans so that it can be used for two purposes.

Present for the bid opening yesterday were representatives of the architectural firm of Johannes and Murray of Silver Spring, which prepared the plans and specifications.

The new school will be constructed on a 25-acre tract between Holland and Franklin streets in the North End, where the county garage is now located.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster had hoped that the new school could be completed by midway through the 1964-65 school year. The architects said yesterday the school probably will not be ready for occupancy before the start of the 1965-66 school year, two years hence. The new school will relieve overcrowding at Allegany High School. Seventh and eighth grades will be taught at North End and the top four grades will continue at Allegany.

Johannes and Murray are drawing up plans and specifications for the proposed new South End junior high school on the Feeney farm property. Mr. Webster informed the board yesterday that the surveyor is preparing a metes and bounds description of the portion of the farm property which the county will need for the school. Bids on this job are likely in December or January.

There was a brief discussion yesterday concerning the possibility of electric heat for the South End school. Representatives of the Potomac Edison Company have asked for the opportunity of meeting with the school board.

City To Send Out Bills To Companies

The Finance Department yesterday began preparing bills for the personal property of corporations and most of the statements will be mailed tomorrow and Friday, according to Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill.

The bills will represent about $4,500,000 of the $22,000,000 tax levy on personal property-corporations in the levy adopted Monday, and are expected to bring in about $70,500.

The rest of the corporation taxes will be billed throughout the year as assessments are forwarded by the state tax commissioner's office.

The staff of the Finance Department, headed by Paul E. Rodecap, city comptroller, was busy yesterday addressing the corporation tax bills, and hope to begin computing the amounts due today.

The early tax payments will help tide the city over until the bulk of the taxes begin to come in late in September.

Several firms have asked the city to expedite the billing of their taxes since they wish to close their books for the period.

Fatkin To Head County Unit On Dropouts

In response to a personal letter from President John F. Kennedy, J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, has appointed a county committee to persuade boys and girls of this county to remain in school at least until graduation from high school.

Louis A. Fatkin of Westernport, Allegany County's magistrate for juvenile causes, has been appointed chairman of the committee.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Mrs. Jennie Grahame, Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of Allegany Community College; Francis A. Kenney, local manager for the State Employment Service; Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church; Robert C. Petersen, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel; Robert M. Williams, general secretary of Central YMCA, and Mrs. May B. Bolt, who assumed duties yesterday as a member of the County Board of Education.

Mr. Jackson read the letter he received last month from President Kennedy and the letter he wrote in response last week to Dr. Francis Keppel, commissioner of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, at yesterday's school board meeting.

The letter from the White House, read in part as follows:

"At the White House meeting (with a group of educators) it was urged that a massive, nationwide effort be undertaken this summer to persuade our young people to return to school in September. As you know so well, this is a problem which affects both white and Negro students and their families. It is of particular significance because of the lack of job opportunities for inadequately trained youth and the explosive situation in many of our great cities. The cooperation of state and local school systems, colleges and universities will be needed and I hope that you and your colleagues will give the program every possible support."

In his letter of August 15 to Dr. Keppel, Mr. Jackson pointed out that the dropout problem in this county is comparatively minor. He noted that this county has a dropout percentage of about two per cent compared with a state average of better than nine per cent.

Mr. Jackson said that industrial leaders, newspapers and radio stations are offering their support in the program designed to keep boys and girls in the classrooms.

County Expects School Prayer Directive Soon

Dr. Pullen Asks For Opinion

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster told members of the Allegany County Board of Education that he expects to have a letter soon from Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, explaining under what circumstances prayers and Bible reading may be permitted in public schools.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled in cases involving Maryland, Pennsylvania and Florida that compulsory Bible reading and prayers are unconstitutional.

Because many people have argued that those who want prayers and Bible reading in public schools should be allowed to have them, Dr. Pullen has requested an opinion from Attorney General Thomas B. Finan under what circumstances prayers and Bible reading may be permitted.

Mr. Webster's discussion of this subject was prompted by a letter he read to the board from Mrs. John F. Cook, head of the WCTU here, urging that prayer and Bible reading be retained in the public schools insofar as possible.

The county board also approved the granting of excused absences to Catholic boys and girls who wish to attend a Catholic retreat September 18, 19 and 20. The request was made in a letter to Mr. Webster from Rt. Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore.

Plans are being pushed by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce for the second annual Business-Industry-Education Day to be held October 23. There will be a school holiday that day to enable teachers, principals and supervisors to visit industries around the county. William A. Howard is general chairman.

A list of 53 new teachers was approved by the school board. Included in the list were 22 new ones in elementary schools and 31 in high schools. Mr. Webster said not all of them are new to the county system. Some have been on leaves of absence and others formerly taught here and are returning.

Permission was granted to the Cresap Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to conduct an essay contest among county high school students.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles was given permission to use county school facilities, presumably Fort Hill High School, for retraining classes for former drivers who have lost their licenses because of infractions.

Mrs. Ronald B. Landis and Mrs. Ollie Long of Oldtown appeared at yesterday's board meeting to request certain improvements at the Oldtown School.

Robert H. Herboldsheimer asked a number of questions of J. Goodloe Jackson, board president, concerning administrative procedures and policies.

Rev. Peter Hohman, former novice master here and now serving as a professor at St. Fidelis Seminary, will serve as deacon.

Rev. Roch Raible, a member of the St. Fidelis Seminary faculty, will be sub-deacon, and Frater Jude Craig, of the Central Canadian custody, will be master of ceremonies.

The vows will be accepted by Rev. Cajetan Pikus, secretary-treasurer of the order's St. Augustine Province. He will also give the sermon.

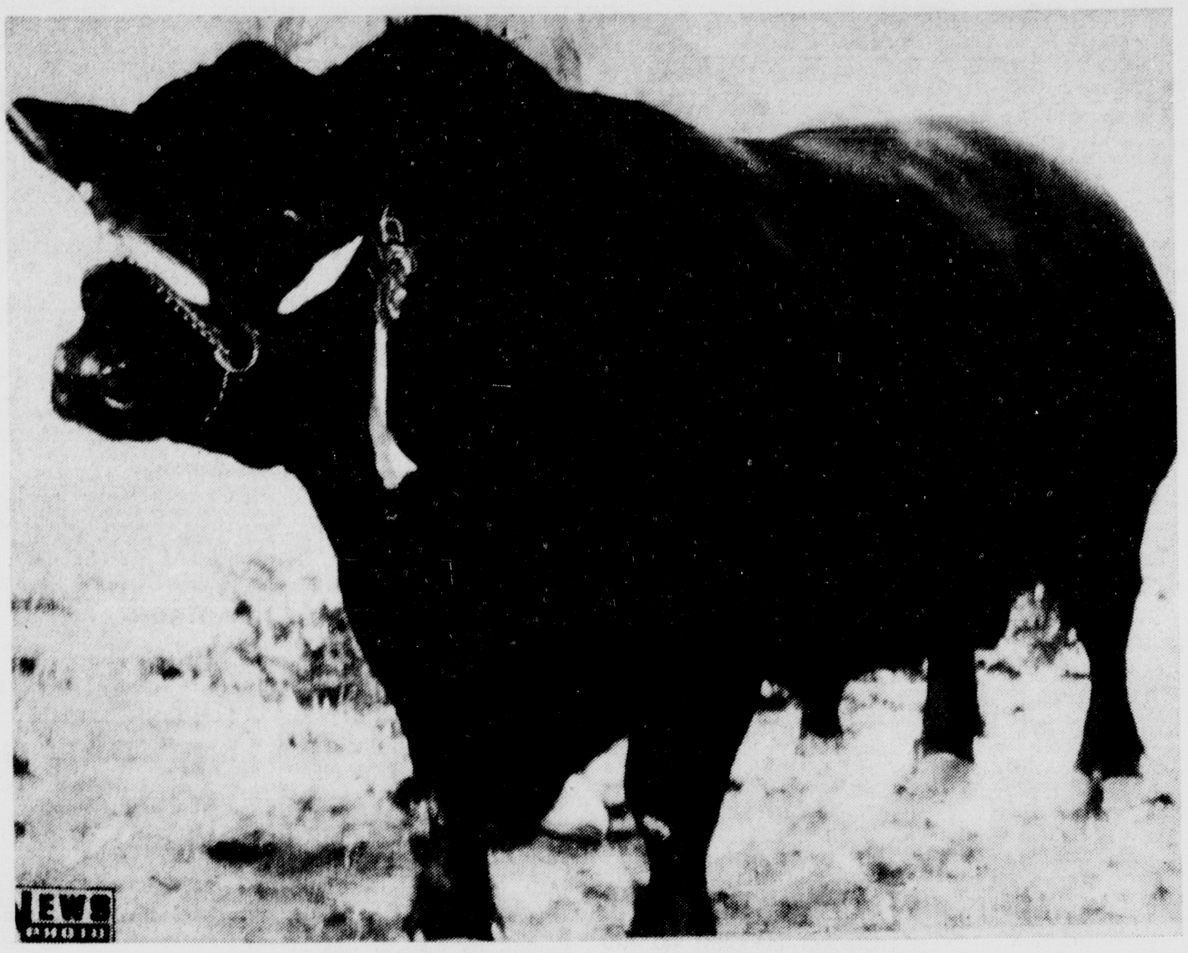
The Mass will be sung by Peter Schumacher, organist, and the brothers from the monastery.

A buffet dinner will be served in the parish hall following the ceremony for families and friends of Brother Daniel and Frater Lawrence. About 80 persons are expected to attend.

Artichoke Blooms

Patsy Idoni, longtime proprietor of the New York Shoe Rebuilders at 1 Front Street, who has a tall desert cactus attracting attention inside his shop, also has a French artichoke in bloom in the yard of his home at 242 Columbia Street.

Mr. Idoni said the French artichoke, normally grown in much warmer regions than Cumberland is a rarity in this region.



Grand Champion Angus Bull

Long View Edellas Keel, which is owned by W. G. Merrells, owner of the Long View Farm at Burlington, W. Va., yesterday was judged grand champion Angus bull at the 46th annual Cumberland Fair. The bull was sired by Long View Georginas Keel, Long View senior herd sire. Clyde Bonar, also of Burlington, entered cattle in competition with Merrells.

AWOL Man Arrested In W.Va. Theft

A 19-year-old Springfield youth AWOL from the Navy was arrested here yesterday on a larceny charge by two deputies from the Allegany County sheriff's office.

James Swisher was arrested in front of the Algonquin Hotel at 11 a. m. and, after waiving extradition, was released to West Virginia State Police and taken to the Hampshire County Jail in Romney. The boy, believed to be AWOL for about a week, was charged with the theft of about $500 from his father, Glenn E. Swisher.

Deputies Lewis Tyree and William Orr arrested Swisher after the boy's father reported to the sheriff's office here that he had seen his son standing in front of the downtown hotel.

The Hampshire County sheriff's office said Naval authorities have been notified of Swisher's arrest.

Much-Needed Rain Falls In District

A total of .60 inch of rain fell in the Cumberland area during the past two days and was most helpful in alleviating the dry spell.

Considerable cloudiness and the chance of scattered showers are forecast for the southern portion of Maryland today with a high temperature in the 70s in the mountains and in the 80's elsewhere.

There were two downpours of rain yesterday, the first coming about 3 p. m. and the other about 20 minutes later. The second downpour lasted for 20 minutes or more.

On Monday 1.27 inch of rain fell in Garrett County and was the most rainfall reported in the general area.

New Germany had 1.1 inch of precipitation and .47 inch fell in the Cumberland area on Monday with the rain beginning to fall shortly before 7 p. m.

CURA Will Meet

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency will hold a special meeting Tuesday at 1:15 p.m. in City Hall to interview a firm which is interested in serving as a consultant for the program here. Several other firms were interviewed recently.

Many Attend Opening Of Annual Fair

The weatherman was in a more cooperative mood last night and the 46th annual Cumberland Fair was ushered in with a large crowd of patrons on hand for the program. The Monday night opening was washed out by a heavy downpour of rain.

Robert Price, office manager at the fair, said the grandstand was pretty well filled and many persons stood on the blacktop in front of the stage where the "Stars of Tomorrow" revue was presented.

Also presented were Thelma Propst, Allegany County Farm Queen, and Carol Fike, Garrett County Farm Queen, both of whom are vying for the title of "Miss Fairgo VII" along with three other contestants.

A welcome was extended by Mayor Earl D. Chaney.

Yesterday afternoon was "Children's Day" at the fair and the grounds and many of the patrons were drenched by two downpours of rain which fell between 3 and 4 p.m.

The youngsters and adults at the fair sought shelter from the rain and waited until it was over to have more fun on the rides and at the various concessions.

A family from Parsons thinking there was fair weather here drove about 65 miles to the fair, only to be greeted by the rain which was prevalent in their home town when they left yesterday morning.

"What a day to come to the fair," was the comment of one youth who stood on the inside of a tent while the heavy downpour drenched the area. Another patron raised the trunk of his car after the rain subsided and remarked "I got a free wash job."

All in all everyone seemed to enjoy himself as the sun came out toward the end of the afternoon.

The winner of the bicycle given away yesterday by Amusements of America was Dale Mease who is about 12 years old and lives in Bowman's Addition. Children's Day will be repeated on Thursday with reduced prices on the midway.

Red Men To Meet

Tonkaway Tribe 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Red Men Hall, Bedford Street. A social hour will conclude the evening and refreshments will be served.

Fort Necessity State Park Will Be Given To Nation

Pennsylvania's gift of the 311-acre Fort Necessity State Park to the United States for inclusion with the Fort Necessity National Battlefield will be dedicated formally at special Labor Day ceremonies, according to Melvin J. Thorpe, superintendent.

The program, set for 3 p. m. September 2, is expected to attract several thousand visitors. It is being sponsored by the Fort Necessity Lions Club in cooperation with the National Park Service and several patriotic organizations.

Fort Necessity National Battlefield, 11 miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on U. S. Route 40, was the scene of the opening engagement of the French and Indian War, fought by England and France for control of the North American continent. The first major episode in the military career of George Washington occurred there on July 3, 1754, and marked the only time he was forced to surrender.

The former Fort Necessity State Park was deeded to the Federal government on August 23, 1963, by an act of the Pennsylvania Assembly. The park includes the larger portion of the "Mount Washington tract" purchased by Washington in October 1771 and held by him as an investment until his death. About 160 acres of his original land patent still remains in private ownership but their purchase has been authorized by Congress for inclusion in the National Battlefield.

The present reconstruction of Fort Necessity was erected in 1954 on the exact site of the original fort.

Under President Kennedy's Accelerated Public Works program, some $78,000 has been spent improving the battlefield. The work includes clearing of trails, boundaries and the wooded areas, rehabilitation of the utility building and structural fire control work on the museum.

4-H'ers Enter Attractive Exhibits At Local Fair

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Patrons of the 46th annual Cumberland Fair who take time out to browse through the Exhibition Hall and under the grandstand will marvel at the efforts that 4-H girls and boys put into their various projects each year.

They should be especially interested in the sewing ability of the girls as well as their vegetable growing and canning as well as jellies and jams and pickles and flower arrangements.

The boys also take pride in their vegetable and fruit growing and handicraft, as well as the livestock they raise in competition for ribbons. A check of the garden products of the girls shows that their ability with the hoe and rake is up to standards with the boys.

Miss Mary Wise, Allegany County home demonstration agent, remarked yesterday that the girls' exhibits are in line with 4-H projects, some of which are completed at camp. Most of the entries are from Allegany County with a few from Garrett County, she said.

Exhibitors Busy

Exhibitors yesterday were busy checking their entries to see if they got the coveted blue ribbon as judging of the exhibits was completed during the day.

A typical 4-H girl who had checked her entries, was proud that already she had been awarded ribbons which totaled a monetary value of $20.75.

Miss Rheba James, a member of the Lonaconing Senior 4-H Club and a junior at Valley High School this fall, is interested in sewing, and pointed out that she won blue and red ribbons for her entries of a skirt and blouse, skirt, complete outfit, as well as a blue ribbon for her cookies.

Expressing an opinion that everyone should enter the competition as she has been doing since 1957, Miss James said that she is proud when her entries come out on top. When asked what she plans to do with her prize money, Miss James said she will buy materials and make her school clothes. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin James and is active in extracurricular activities at Valley.

Makes Money, Too

A 4-H club boy who is interested in gardening remarked yesterday that the annual fair gives the boys an opportunity to show what they have done in their projects.

Carl Robinette, a member of the Breakneck Club and a 10th grader at Flintstone High School, said he has won blue ribbons in the past and with the prize money as well as money from products of his garden he usually invests in a calf, raises it and sells it at a profit.

This year he has exhibits of cabbage, corn, squash and carrots. He has two gardens, one 20 by 20 feet and the other 80 by 80 feet. His speciality is green onions which he sold this season and cleared $25.

He also has entered livestock and handicraft. Yesterday he was working under the grandstand and keeping watch on his club's booth as well as handicraft, vegetable and fruit entries of other boys.

Cattle Judging Awards Cited By Agent

Quite a bit of interest was shown yesterday at the 46th annual Cumberland Fair during the judging of the dairy and beef cattle entered by exhibitors of the tri-state area.

In the Ayrshire breed, William I. Shank and Sons of Hagerstown won the award for having the senior grand champion cow, and Sam Diehl, of Route 3, Bedford had the grand champion bull. Robert Moore of Mt. Savage won the junior yearling bull class award.

Randolph Hite of RD 3, Bedford, is the owner of the grand champion bull and cow in the Holstein division, according to Joseph M. Steger, who said that in the Guernsey breed, R. A. McCauly, of Hagerstown has the grand champion bull and cow. James I. Robison of Mt. Savage had the first in age cow class. Mullberry Hill-Marcella E won that award.

In the Jersey breed, Braden King of Boonsboro won the grand champion cow and bull awards and in the Hereford breed, C. William Hetzer of RD 2, Williamsport won the grand champion and reserve bull and cow awards.

W. G. Merrels of Burlington is the owner of the champion bull and cow in the Angus breed competition which was judged yesterday.

Assisting in the judging yesterday was Ralph F. McHenry, farm agent of Allegany County for 34 years, who retired in 1954.

He said he dropped by the fair again this year since it "gets in your blood." He has been attending the fair here since they started 46 years ago at the old Armory on Salem Street.

Mr. McHenry said judging remains basically the same with some new ideas filtering in from year to year. He remarked that the dairymen are still after "putting that milk in the bucket."

W. Va. Will Open Road Work Bids

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Bids will be opened next Tuesday by the State Road Commission on eight highway improvement projects estimated to cost $2 million.

The projects involve 51.75 miles of highway including one federal-aid job.

The projects include:

Preston — Resurfacing of 2.83 miles of W. Va. 26 between Tunnelton and Howesville.

Randolph — Resurfacing of 16 miles of Sec. 41, 42 and 46 between Mill Creek and Helveita.

Auxiliary To Meet

The auxiliary of Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company will meet at the fire hall at 8 p. m. today to make plans for the public fried chicken and ham dinner which will be held Saturday, August 31, from 5 to 8 p. m. at the fire hall.

Joint Meeting Is Sought On Housing Site

Hearing Is Set On Zoning Plan

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will seek a meeting with the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland to discuss plans for selecting a site for the proposed low-rent housing development for the elderly.

Representatives of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency may be asked to sit in on the conference.

Plans for seeking the joint meeting were made last night as the commission discussed the site issue at the request of the Mayor and Council.

The Downtown Cumberland Business Association brought to the attention of city officials Monday that it is protesting the consideration of the Hudson Oil Company property on North Mechanic Street as a possible site.

Discussion during the meeting of the commission stressed that any development in the center of the city should conform with the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency's general neighborhood renewal program for the center of the city. The area covered, according to present plans, would include all of the land between the railroads from the Narrows to Oldtown Road.

The housing authority has been authorized to build 200 more housing units here, half of them for senior citizens and the others for those who would qualify for low-rent housing.

In seeking a location for the housing for the elderly, the authority wants a site where residents could find such services as shopping or medical attention within easy walking distance.

The planning commission devoted most of its session to a discussion of a zoning ordinance suggested by its planning consultants, Stein and Marcou Associates.

At the end of the session, the commission accepted the amended zoning proposals for presentation at a public hearing.

The hearing was set for September 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

Truck Driver Charged With Manslaughter

An Elkins truck driver involved in a head-on collision killing two Tucker County men Monday evening has been charged on two counts of involuntary manslaughter.

Nicholas Armenakis, driver of a ton-and-a-half truck that skidded into the path of an oncoming sedan 2.3 miles south of Thomas, shearing the top off the vehicle and instantly killing two of the passengers, is being held in Tucker County Jail. Bond has been set at $1,000 on each charge.

Armenakis waived a preliminary hearing and will be held for the October 1 session of the Tucker County grand jury.

Dead are Don Willard Close, 31, of Parsons, driver of the car, and Ellis Parker Humphrey, 44, of Hambleton.

Tfc. W. D. Thompson and Cpl. Ronald Pitzer of the West Virginia State Police have completed an investigation of the accident.

Mr. Humphrey was born May 7, 1919, in Hambleton, a son of Fitzhugh and Bessie Catherine (Rhodes) Humphrey.

Va.; five sisters, Mrs. Ruth Evans, Leadmine, W. Va., Mrs. Dean Wilson, Hambleton, Mrs. Philopine Waybright, Porterwood, W. Va.; Mrs. Erma Jean Stahl, Shreve, Ohio, and Mrs. Emma Waybright, Elkins.

He was a veteran of World War II.

The body is at the residence in Hambleton where the family will receive friends after 1 p.m. today.

The body will be taken to the Hambleton Methodist Church Thursday at 1 p. m. where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. with Rev. Bill M. Angel, EUB minister, officiating. Interment will be in Sunrise Cemetery, near Hambleton.

Mr. Close was born May 9, 1932, in St. George, W. Va., a son of John Close, Parsons, and the late Nellie B. (Roy) Close.

Surviving, besides his father, is a son by a former marriage, Don George Close, Baltimore; his widow, Mrs. Wanda Jean Fink Haller Close, Parsons; two stepsons, Denny Fink, Parsons, and Curtis Allen Haller, at home; a stepdaughter, Karen Michael Haller, at home; three sisters, Mrs.
